SCOT'S SPEECH SAVES CABINET FOR M'DONALD

"Lord Privy Seal" Averts Censure as Vote Goes 305 to 251.

NEW MEMBER GIVES PROMISE AS LEADER

Outlines Plans to Aid Idle in Answering Motion of Stanley Baldwin.

London, April 16 (A.P.).—Tom Johnston, a bold young Scot from Dumbartonshire who bears the highly decorative cabinet title of "Lord Privy Seal," tonight saved the life of Ramsay MacDonald's Labor government. The government was victorious on a vote of confidence, 305 to 251.

Johnston's speech in the House answering Stanley Baldwin's motion of censure rallied the straggling Liberal ranks and assured the government's narrow majority in the critical vote.

He was appointed to the cabinet less than a month ago and at 41 he is a stripling among the elderly veterans of the government. But he handled this situation with such easy confidence he promises to rank with the leading figures of the British Labor government.

Leaning against a high desk, he answered the Conservative attack with dignified exposition and argument not unlike his analysis of some of the incidents in Scottish history. Not long ago he was bold enough to call Robert the Bruce a "feudal bully" and to assert that the famous legend about Bruce and the spider was untrue.

No Fears Were Held.

Today he showed not the slightest fear that the government was in danger.

He simply outlined the unemployment relief plans proposed and operating, explained how 170,000,000 pounds sterling is being spent to provide jobs, took a few jabs at unemployment figures in the United States, Germany and France, concluded with an eloquent little peroration and let it go at that.

He was deadly serious throughout, but Jack Jones, the "licensed jester" of the House, interrupted once while Johnston was quoting unemployment figures.

"There's one more now," he cried. "Alfonso."

The Liberals marched out to consider their course of action after Johnston had finished, and when they came back David Lloyd George said Johnston "could not have done more in the time at his disposal since his appointment."

The Liberal leader's speech became a lecture to Mr. MacDonald, adjuring the prime minister to give Johnston every possible assistance.

"He is the one man I have come across who is not afraid of departmental officials," said Mr. Lloyd George.

Amazed by Margin.

On the Labor side seven members forming Sir Oswald Moseley's "new party" abstained from voting. Several independents voted with the government.

The margin of victory obviously amazed even the most sanguine of Mr. MacDonald's supporters. When the result was announced the Laborites, including the sometimes recalcitrant left-wingers, burst into a roaring cheer. The demonstration lasted only a minute or so, however, and the members dispersed quickly to talk over the night's events.

The political "experts" also felt the need to go away somewhere and think things over quietly, but the first reaction was a general conviction that Mr. MacDonald's party now sits more firmly in the saddle than at any time since the Labor government took office nearly two years ago.

Thirty-three Liberals voted with the government in this division; ten were against it, and five abstained.

SHOREHAM DETAILS REFUSED BY RHEEM

Declines to Answer When Quizzed About Deposit of $2,341,000.

Intimate details of the manner in which the bankrupt Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. released deeds of trust on the Shoreham Building without the knowledge of note holders were withheld from creditors yesterday by Edmund D. Rheem, executive vice president of the defunct firm.

Examined before Fred J. Eden, referee in bankruptcy, at the offices of the company, Rheem declined to reply to a number of the creditors' inquiries on the ground he might tend to incriminate himself.

He acted on the advice of Leon Tobriner, attorney for the bankrupt firm and personal counsel for Mr. Rheem, who is under $25,000 bond on a charge of embezzling $162,000 of the notes of the company.

The witness readily responded to questions of a general nature, but grew reticent when the questioning turned on the deposit of $2,341,000 in a special account at the Riggs National Bank, presumably to pay off notes on the Shoreham Building when it was sold to the Shoreham Investment Corporation.

Examined by E. Hilton Jackson, who recently brought suit to reestablish the original trust on the Shoreham Building, Mr. Rheem told how $1,556,645 was deposted at Riggs on July 16, 1930, through the New York Title & Mortgage Co., to the special account of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. He said an additional deposit of $785,000, borrowed by the company from the bank, was made in the name of the company. He brought out that the New York Title & Mortgage Co. represented the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., holder of the trust later substituted for the released deeds.

Jackson brought out that these funds "on July 16 or 17" were transferred to the general account of the bankrupt company, and that Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey shortly afterward cashed checks aggregating $900,000 to pay off notes and interest on the loan from the bank.

It was when Jackson pressed this line of questioning, inquiring whether the $2,341,000 deposit on July 16, 1930, was not "mere camouflage," that exception was taken by Tobriner.

When Jackson asked why a loan was sought, the deposit made and the loan paid off the next day, Rheem replied that it "was all part of the same transaction."

"If you put in the bank one day $900,000, in order to complete your deposit covering the $2,341,000 loan, and the next day drew out $900,000, how did this accomplish the transaction?"

Rheem, advised by Tobriner, refused to answer the question, claiming that it might incriminate him.

Then followed a number of similar refusals. Jackson tried to get Rheem to say how many noteholders had been advised of the Shoreham Building release, and the nature of the letters sent them, but he claimed immunity. Tobriner declared a charge

NAVY SPEEDING MORE VESSELS TO NICARAGUA

Cruiser and Gunboat Are Ordered to Scene of Rebel Attacks.

STIMSON AND HOOVER IN LONG CONFERENCE

Further Bloodshed Is Feared as Americans Prepare to Quit Country.

(Associated Press.)

American naval reinforcements last night were ordered to Nicaragua to protect American citizens against fresh outbreaks by insurgents.

The cruiser Memphis was ordered to Puerto Cabezas and the gunboat Sacramento to Bluefields. The gunboat Asheville, now at Puerto Cabezas, may go to Cape Gracias a Dios when relieved by the Memphis.

The orders were issued by the Navy at the request of Secretary Stimson, who conferred with President Hoover this afternoon for 45 minutes. Mr. Stimson declined to discuss the purpose of the conference, saying they had talked about the "beauties of spring."

Rebels Near Bluefields.

The Sacramento was directed to go to Bluefields after official information had been received that insurgents had attacked the town of Rama, 65 miles northwest of Bluefields. The Memphis is en route from Guantanamo, Cuba.

Cape Gracias a Dios was attacked and looted by insurgents Wednesday. It is 185 miles from Bluefields, on the south, to Cape Gracias on the north. Cape Gracias is 45 miles north of Puerto Cabezas.

The Sacramento was en route from the Canal Zone to Puerto Cabezas when ordered to proceed to Bluefields, principal port of eastern Nicaragua.

She was directed to change her destination after Alvin T. Rowe, jr., American consul at Bluefields, had reported the insurgents were active in the vicinity of Bluefields.

Panic at Puerto Cabezas.

Bluefields, with a population of 7,500, is the center of considerable shipping, banking and other business interests. It is protected by a force of the Nicaragua National Guard.

The American gunboat Asheville remained at Puerto Cabezas, 140 miles north of Bluefields, where panic has reigned since insurgents descended on the outlying settlements last Saturday, killing eight American civilians and one American Marine officer.

Commander W. W. Waddell, of the Asheville, informed the Navy Department he was landing a Marine force to protect the residential district until the National Guard was certain the situation was under control.

Tension at Puerto Cabezas was somewhat relaxed today since no insurgents had been seen in the vicinity for 48 hours. Nearly all American women and children, however, have been evacuated. The steamer Cefalu

$100,000 in Rum Taken in Baltimore

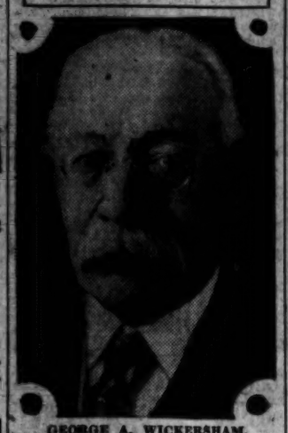
3,000 Gallons Seized and Five Men Arrested by Federal Agents.

Baltimore, Md., April 16 (A.P.).—More than 3,000 gallons of whisky and alcohol, valued by officers at $100,000 or more, retail, was seized and five men arrested in a raid by six prohibition officers here today.

Robert D. Ford, Federal administrator for the State, who led the raiders, said the seizure was the largest made in Baltimore. He said further arrests were probable. The five men arrested, who gave their names as Louis Harris, Louis LeLvin, Meyer Cohen, Morris Levin and Zinder Kitt, will be charged with conspiracy, Ford said.

The liquor was stored in a steel vault in a house in the northwest section of the city. Nine truckloads of liquor were hauled away for storage in hte Federal vault at prohibition headquarters at Fort McHenry.

HITS LAW ACTION



GEORGE A. WICKERSHAM.

WICKERSHAM FLAYS LAW'S APPLICATION

Blames Attitude of Public and Points Out Lack of Criminal Statistics.

Cincinnati, April 16 (A.P.).—Administration of criminal justice in the United States was criticized tonight by Chairman Wickersham of the Law Enforcement Commission, who blamed particularly "A public attitude toward law that encourages law breaking."

In his second public statement since the commission completed its prohibition report before the Cincinnati Regional Crime Committee, Mr. Wickersham did not mention prohibition except indirectly.

"Where a tolerance of lawless conduct is developed among educated and prominent people," he said, "the ax has been laid at the root of the tree and social security."

Mr. Wickersham criticized law enforcement officers who he said stoop "to attain their ends by means as illegal as the acts they seek to punish or suppress."

He said a study of lawlessness among officials being made by the commission probably would show for the first time "this ugly side of our officialdom."

Mr. Wickersham said there had been also a harmful retrogression in the activities and positions of judges and prosecutors, a failure to reform methods of prison treatment, a lack of adequate probation and parole supervision, a failure to provide Federal juvenile courts, and most of all a lack of criminal statistics necessary to institute the proper reforms in this system.

A report by the commission soon to be submitted to President Hoover, he said, will recommend a statistics division in the Justice Department, with the task later expanded under the Census Bureau.

"Abundant evidence has been spread before the American people for years past," Mr. Wickersham continued, "of the need of a thorough overhauling of our whole system of criminal justice. Every day furnishes examples of the absence of that wholesome respect for law which ought to be characteristic of a self-governing people."

Mr. Wickersham said commission studies revealed that "unemployment ranks high among the factors" which influence crime, and that a dollar wisely invested in child care may result in greater profit than $1,000 "spent on the machinery of criminal justice."

"The Federal judicial system has no juvenile courts," he said, "nor any other modern human method of dealing with the increasing number of juvenile offenders against modern Federal legislation."

Mr. Wickersham said investigations had suggested "the need of a better check upon the prosecutor than is customarily applied." He added too

BABSON GIVES HOOVER BRIGHT TRADE OUTLOOK

Statistician Is Confident Business Recovery Is Not Far Away.

RAIN IS HELD VITAL TO STEADY RECOVERY

Further Commodity Price Cuts Seen, With Gain in Employment.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Roger W. Babson, the trade prophet, told President Hoover yesterday that better times are on the way. Business, he said, has turned the corner and now is definitely on the upgrade.

It was Babson, White House attaches recalled, who foresaw and predicted the disastrous stock market crash of October, 1929.

"This is the first time that I felt I could see the clouds breaking from a statistcial point of view," Mr. Babson told newspapermen yesterday.

"For instance, car loadings are showing an increase for the first time today. In talking with Secretary of Labor Doak, I learned that the employment rolls have increased for the first time since 1922. The chain stores, too, are showing better earnings.

"In almost every line of industry there are some concerns which, in March, showed an increase in earnings over February. What is more important, they showed an increase for this March over March of last year.

"Certain of the railroads also have turned the corner. Figures definitely disclose that they are on the upgrade."

Mr. Babson, a big man with a vandyke beard, is head of Babson's Statistical Organization, of Babson Park, Mass. In his talk with President Hoover, it is understood, he dwelled particularly on the building programs of the Federal and State governments.

"Little in the way of results has been shown from these construction programs thus far," he told reporters. "They will not be in full swing until summer, and possibly not until fall.

"I should not be surprised to see a shortage of labor in some lines before this year is over. That, however, does not mean that there may not be a relapse again next year. But if no one rocks the boat, I am sure that business will continue on an upward trend."

Says Market Should Be Steady.

Commenting on the recent decline of values in the stock market, Mr. Babson said it was caused by a premature rise earlier in the year. As a matter of fact, he said, there is no reason why the market should either fall or rise so far as present business conditions are concerned.

The prosperity period, he said, had bred "softness." Now, he said, a new and more virile leadership is making itself felt in business.

"I think we are going to see a continued decline in commodity prices," he said, "but there are a good many things like sugar, lead, wheat and copper that are below the cost of production. The prices of these, I think, have struck bottom."

With regard to oil prices, Mr. Babson said that he did not think these had yet hit their lowest level. Nor did he think that proration was a cure for the oil industry's ills. In the future, he said, he expected to see an open market and lower prices. Reverting to the stock market, he continued:

Foresees Commodity Speculation.

"I feel that the next era of speculation will be in commodities instead

30,000 ACCLAIM ALFONSO IN PARIS AS RADICALS STAGE RIOTS IN SPAIN

DECREE ABOLISHES RIVERA PENAL CODE

Recognition Is Accorded to Republic by Mexico and Uruguay.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Madrid, April 16 (A.P.).—Harassed only by Communist elements, Spain's new Republican government labored vigorously to consolidate its position today. Meanwhile, the country went back to work after two days and nights of wild jubilation over the fall of the monarchy.

Radical uprisings occurred at Bilbao, Seville and Barcelona, martial law being declared in the two latter cities. Two persons were known to have been killed and 23 wounded in Seville. Minor riots were reported in several towns in southern Spain.

Among new decrees announced was one wiping out the entire penal code, left over from the dictatorship of Gen. Primo de Rivera, and returning the country to the criminal statutes existing before 1923, until a Republican code can be prepared.

Wants Friendship of Americas.

Provisional President Niceto Alcala Zamora and Col. Francisco Macia, provisional head of the Catalonian Republic, issued statements through the Associated Press. Senor Alcala conveyed his desire for friendship with the people of the Americas and Col. Macia expressed his cordiality toward the Spanish Republic.

The government has not yet fixed the dates for the election designed to form a parliamentary cortes and set up a permanent ministry. Whether it will be held in June or later remains to be decided.

Foreign Minister Alejandro Lerroux announced that Mexico and Uruguay had recognized the new republic and that Argentina shortly would do likewise. Meanwhile, several Spanish ambassadors in foreign capitals had resigned and their successors were being appointed.

Marcelino Domingo, new minister of education, said that Spanish universities, closed since the Easter holidays because of student disorders, would reopen Monday. He said student organizations in many places had pledged cooperation to the new regime and "I am hopeful that students and professors will aid us in the future in maintaining normalcy."

Economy Will Be Keynote.

A denial of published reports that he had issued a statement unfavorable to the government was made by Count de Romanones, resigned secretary of state.

"It is the duty of every one to work for the good of Spain now, regardless of government," he said.

With regard to reports that the Spanish peseta had lost value in the world's markets, Minister of Finance Indalecio Prieto said:

"I can not explain it, as Spanish economy is all right and is preparing for even better times. Spain will work on a modest scale, but with efficiency, reflecting economy throughout. The peseta will improve as it should."

Supporters of the old order continue to take leave of their native land and banished Republicans still crossed the frontiers to fill their places. Resignations of royalists office holders and army chiefs poured in and good Republicans were appointed in their stead.

The public has shown no vindictiveness with regard to the royal palaces or monarchist property. The government has appealed to every one to be law abiding and its wishes have been observed. The king's personal quarters have not yet been entered by any Republican official and remain in charge of servants until he indicates what disposition he wishes made of his possessions.

Berenguer in Lisbon; Will Sail for Havana

Lisbon, Portugal, April 16 (A.P.).—Gen. Damaso Berenguer, former premier of Spain, who had been reported in hiding since the Spanish republic was proclaimed, arrived in Lisbon by automobile today. He will take the first ship for Havana.

Latest Events in Spain Briefly Summarized

King Alfonso arrives in France to await the verdict of the Spanish people as to his permanent status.

Queen Victoria, comforted by Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians, and her children, plan a reunion of the royal family in Paris.

Infante Juan prepares to leave Gibraltar to rejoin his relatives in the French capital.

New Republican government entrenches itself in Madrid and promises a liberal, stable rule.

REPUBLIC TO DIVIDE KING'S POSSESSIONS

State Claims Palaces and Estates; Will Return Private Property.

Madrid, April 16 (A.P.).—Millions of dollars worth of property in possession of the dethroned royal family is being inventoried by the new Republican government with a view of disposing of it. Crown jewels, however, are not included among the valuables.

Present plans are to restore to the royal family its private possessions and to retain in the national treasury such items as are considered property of the state.

The Spanish crown officially has possessed no jewels for many years, although Queen Victoria had a handsome personal collection valued at around half a million dollars. It is understood that on departing for her last visit to London a few weeks ago she took away a considerable portion of personal jewelry.

Although the queen's party carried some 50 pieces of baggage when she left Madrid yesterday, French officials were assured that neither she nor the princes and princesses carried any jewel cases.

The principal treasures of the Spanish monarchy, recently, consisted of valuable palaces at Madrid, Aranjuez, Pardo, Santandar, Barcelona, La Granja and Seville, and a country home near Madrid. These alone were worth many millions of dollars and probably will be held as property of the state.

The royal family also had charge of a tapestry collection valued at well over $1,000,000. It is believed this also will be retained by the government.

The king's fifteen or twenty privately owned automobiles will be returned to him, but valuable paintings of old masters in the Prado Museum in Madrid and in various palaces will go to the state.

Alfonso, who once was Spain's leading grace horse fancier, recently had been losing money and as a result discharged his trainers and stable employes and sold virtually all of his thoroughbreds. Those that remain will be restored to him.

In addition to the palaces, Alfonso had numerous landed estates, valued at more than $10,000,000, but he will lose these, as they are listed as "royal patrimony."

Padilla Resignation Notice Sent Stimson

(Associated Press.)

Ambassador Padilla, of Spain, yesterday sent Secretary Stimson formal notice of his resignation.

A steady stream of visitors called at the embassy to express regret at the departure of the ambassador. Padilla said the report that the king had not abdicated would not affect his resignation. No word has been received at the embassy from the new government regarding the ambassador's resignation.

Exiled Monarch Almost Crushed in Jam by Cheering Throng.

THEATERGOERS JOIN IN ROARING WELCOME

France Visions Ruler as Dreaming of Again Occupying Throne.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Paris, April 16 (A.P.).—Spain's royal family, driven from Madrid before the tide of republicanism, was reunited tonight in a hotel on the Rue Rivoli.

Hospitable Paris cheered Alfonso in half a dozen tongues as he arrived by train from Marseille and raced by motor to the hotel where his queen awited him.

Only Juan, their 17-year-old son, is not with the family, but he is to leave Gibraltar soon to join his parents here.

Alfonso stepped from a train at the Gare de Lyon tonight into the most tumultuous reception that old railway station has seen in many years.

30,000 Greet Exiled Monarch.

Fully 30,000 persons jammed the station and the great square on which it faces. They had been waiting there for hours to see the man who renounced his royal prerogatives to avert civil war among his people.

"Vive la roi!" the French cried, mingling their cheers with the "Viva el rey!" of the Spanish royalists.

No king who ever came into this haven of exiles ever was so enthusiastically acclaimed.

Alfonso, the third passenger to step out of the train, looked up in startled surprise as the cheers echoed through the station, then he lifted his green fedora and smiled, but his face was tired and pale.

Representatives of the embassies of nearly all the Latin-American countries, and most of the distinguished Spanish royalists in Paris, pressed toward him, but they were literally swallowed up in the huge advancing crowd.

Almost Crushed by Crowd.

The police were powerless to hold this throng in check and Alfonso was almost crushed by the crowds which swept forward to greet him.

A wedge of police formed about the king and his party and literally pushed them into an automobile, which darted away toward the hotel where Queen Victoria and five of their children awaited him.

Some one whispered in the king's ear and the monarch and his party were hurried away from the crowd through the back door used by customs officials. But when they emerged upon the sidewalk the crowd was already there.

Police pushed the throng back long enough for Alfonso to climb into the machine. Obviously overcome by emotion, he sank back against the seat and closed his eyes as the car moved off behind a police escort.

All along the route to the hotel crowds cheered from the curb, automobile horns blared and flashlights boomed.

When they reached the hotel another great crowd jammed the Rue Rivoli, but the king leaped from the car and hurried up to the royal apartments on the second floor to greet his family.

Crowd Demands Appearance.

The impatient throng outside left off its cheering for a moment and began ot cry, "On the balcony! On the balcony!" There is a long balcony from the royal suite overlooking the beautiful Tuileries Garden.

For five minutes Alfonso resisted the appeal, but finally the great French window opened slowly and the king and queen, arm in arm, stepped out. The crowd went wild.

Then the royal couple moved slowly backward into the room and the window closed gently.

The crowd was still not satisfied and its numbers grew as those who had been at the railroad station, 3 miles away, arrived to take part in this new welcome.

Theatergoers Swell Throng.

A few tried to force their way into the hotel, but the iron gates clanged shut in their faces.

It was nearly midnight, yet the crowd constantly grew. The Rue Rivoli and the Rue Castiglione were swelled with men and women arriving from the theaters in even-

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The power and right of the people to choose their own form of government has just been exemplified in Spain. Almost as automatically as a prime minister resigns on the adverse vote of a parliament, the King of Spain has abdicated because an election showed that the people wanted a republic.

It took a great deal of moral courage and a great deal of patriotism for a royal family peaceably to surrender the throne and voluntarily to relinquish an inherited privilege to be the head of the government. Such a conception of the kingly office is decidedly modern. No doubt civil war for the present has been averted. If it comes later the king will not be directly responsible for it.

Republics do not come into being ready-made. When the holiday celebration is over the people will find that self government of itself does not solve economic problems. It will be fortunate if the people do not turn on their new public officers as they turned on the king. Meanwhile, nearly every one will admire the king for his self-sacrifice in obeying the popular mandate, and will hope that the Spanish people may be given leadership and wisdom commensurate with their grave situation.

Shots and Woman's Screams Baffle Police Hunting Car

Report by Watchman Near Culvert Where Baker Girl's Body Was Found Sends Officers on Scent of "Mystery."

There may be a duplicate of the Mary Baker mystery in the offing. Yet it might only be some practical joke.

Over the police radio at 9:40 last night came the following message: "Radio scout car Number 4 and Cruiser No. 1 go to the Highway bridge. A car, carrying a screaming woman, just passed a gas station on Cemetery Road. Shots were fired."

No. 4 scout car was at the south end of the Highway Bridge when the message was received and the policemen tensed in anticipation of a murder car roaring down Military road.

From all quarters of Arlington County motorcycle policemen converged toward Cemetery road and its famous culvert.

Robert Howard, a watchman at the yards of the American Oil Co., told County Policemen Hugh Jones and Ray Cobean that he heard a woman scream as a car roared by his shed. He ran to the door, and shaw a small automobile race down toward the culvert.

As it neared the Independent Oil Co. yards, he heard two shots. Then, he said, the lights on the car went out and he heard a third shot.

C. C. Kelly, of Clarendon, Va., a watchman at the Independent Oil Co. yards, heard the three shots as described by Howard, but heard no screams.

There was nothing to excite suspicion near the culvert.

Others Also Get Awards During First Week of Zain Contest.

Mrs. M. L. May, of 6007 Thirty-third street northwest, an employe of the Federal Farm Loan Bureau, wins the $100 cash award for the best amateur ad written during the first week of the Post Zain Ad-Writing Contest.

An ad written by Mrs. May on Edmonston & Co. shoes yesterday was unanimously selected by the judges, who carefully looked over thousands submitted in the first seven days.

Called on the phone by the Post-Zain Ad-Writing Contest Editor, Mrs. May at first refused to believe the good news. Shortly, however, she was en route to the Post Building, where she was convinced of her good fortune.

And she knows just what she's going to do with the $100. For eight years Mrs. May has been planning a boat trip to Boston; in fact, ever since she made her last one. And now she's going to take it. Of course, she will have to wait until September when she gets her vacation, but she doesn't mind that.

Exiled Spanish Queen Met By Elizabeth of Belgium

King Albert's Spouse Sympathizes With Victoria at Paris, in Hotel Where Latter Awaits Alfonso; Throneless Sovereign Hailed in French Capital.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Paris, April 16 (A.P.).—Victoria, exiled Queen of Spain, tonight received the sympathy and embraces of Elizabeth, reigning Queen of the Belgians, in a suite in the Hotel Meurice near the Place de la Concorde, where a former Queen of France was guillotined.

The meeting between Victoria and Elizabeth, who hurried here from Brussels today to comfort her throneless friend, was dramatic and intense. They embraced and kissed, but there were no tears.

"It was terrible," the Spanish queen said. "But the king has not abdicated. He simply gave over his powers. If he had not done that—oh, what would have happened?"

Earlier in the day Victoria had been greeted by shouts of "Long live the queen," when she arrived in Paris with members of her family. Admirers sent so many flowers to her hotel that an extra room had to be engaged for them. Hundreds of persons called to pay respects, including Gen. Lasson, representing the President of France, and scores of aristocratic exiles from Russia.

When the Belgian queen arrived at the Meurice, Victoria was absent, having driven with a lady in waiting to the Norwegian Legation, where she ing dress to mingle with those already there.

They cheered Alfonso in half a dozen languages.

One by one the lights in the royal suite were extinguished.

The man who had been king had gone to bed and the crowd gradually melted away.

Alfonso is pictured in France as still dreaming of sitting upon the Spanish throne of the Bourbons despite the political upheaval which has made him an exile.

Before the king's arrival here tonight, France talked of the great drama which so poignantly recalls their own history when kings and emperors reigned but gave way after terrible bloodshed to the republic.

May Have Fled to Avert War.

Guided by tragic events in France and other nations, Frenchmen say perhaps Alfonso fled through sentiments of humanity and to save his people from sanguinary civil war. The opinion in Paris is that juridically speaking, he has not abdicated but merely accepted a suspension of his royal powers.

As the basis for their belief, French observers pointed to the statement of the Duke of Miranda, head of the royal household, who said at Marseille this morning.

"King Alfonso awaits the forthcoming elections in June to settle the fate of the country. He will remain aloof until the people have decided the form of government they wish, and then will abide by their decision.

"He has merely abandoned power in order to avoid trouble or even civil war."

The monarch was believed to be optimistic that the royalists would win in the elections or at least that the Spanish people would accept a liberal democratic monarch and ask him to return as king.

Catalonian Leader Sees No Dangers Lying Ahead

(Col. Francisco Macia, provisional president of the Catalonian republic, today gave the following statement to the Associated Press.)

By COL. FRANCISCO MACIA,
Provisional President of the Catalonian Republic.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Barcelona, Spain, April 16 (A.P.).—We have been the first to proclaim a republic in Spain. The Catalonian Republic was proclaimed with the wishes of the republican spirit inherent to all Catalonians and to the long-felt aspirations of national autonomy.

The proclamation was made with a spirit of cordiality and with animosity toward none.

I am in continuous touch with President Alcala Zamora of Spain. We want to live in an atmosphere of brotherhood and cordiality with all the peoples of Spain, establishing a federal republic within the communion of democratic ideals felt in Catalonia.

At the present time it is my ambition to strengthen the Republican regime. There is no danger ahead and work has been reestablished.

Alfonso, in Marseille, Says Act Took Courage

Marseille, France, April 16 (A.P.). "Believe me it takes more courage to act as I have than to charge at the head of a squadron." King Alfonso told the Havas News Agency correspondent today before entraining for Paris.

The king reiterated what the Duke of Miranda said earlier, declaring that his exile only was provisional and was decided on to avoid bloodshed. His final decision would be made after the June elections, he said.

French Left Pictures King as Only Retiring

Paris, April 16 (A.P.).—The French Left's idea of the Spanish situation is summed up in a cartoon appearing in Le Soir, which depicts Alfonso, with bag in hand, running away as he points his finger to soldiers with bayonets. The king is quoted as calling to the soldiers:

"Mind you, I am not abdicating; I am just retiring temporarily."

Mexico and Uruguay Recognize New Spain

hour tea. After her return she received the royal visitor in her suite and they retired behind closed doors where they remained together for an hour and a half.

The Spanish royal children, the Infantas Beatrice, Marie and Christine and the Infante Don Jaime later paid respects to Elizabeth, who then retired to her own suite for supper. She plans to return to her country tomorrow morning.

When left alone, the former Spanish queen could be seen pacing the floor of her salon as she awaited the arrival of Alfonso from Marseille.

Altogether it was a day of great emotion for Victoria, from the time she stepped upon the red carpet, reserved for royal visiors, at the Austerlitz Station, until bedtime tonight. Several times she could not hold back the tears from her sad eyes. Thousands cheered for her as she moved gravely through the crowd acknowledging the greeting of Spanish royalists.

Many persons tried to kiss her hands or garments. The princesses were unable to control their emotions and their faces were tearstained. A small blackrobed nun slipped through the crowd and wiped their eyes and faces with her handkerchief.

The eldest son, Alfonso, the Prince of Asturias, was carried from the station on a stretcher. He suffers from hemophilia, and the strain of the past few days had weakened him. He was confined to his bed tonight.

When she entered the hotel where she and Alfonso had stopped so many times during the days of their power, Queen Victoria seemed somewhat dazed. Tears came again when an aged Spanish woman knelt and kissed her hand.

Attendants reported tonight that the royal family were holding themselves in control, although obviously strained almost to the breaking point. However, crowds remained around the hotel to see the arrival of the king. Outside shouts for the queen continued.

Few of those who came to the hotel were received personally by Victoria. Among the exceptions were three other exiles—Empress Zita of Austria, Grand Duke Dmitri of Russia and Prince Nicholas of Greece.

REPUBLIC OF SPAIN GREET SISTER LANDS

Zamora Addresses Personal Message of Cordiality to Sister Nations.

(Niceto Alcala Zamora, provisional president of the new Spanish republic, today addressed a message of friendship and cordiality to the American peoples through the Associated Press. Included in his message is the government's decision to elect a parliament and to work through representative government.)

By NICETO ALCALA ZAMORA,
Provisional President of the Spanish Republic.

Madrid, April 16 (A.P.).—I am especially glad to send to the peoples of the Americas, through the Associated Press, a message of cordiality and my earnest salutations. We are now all sister republics. We are now a government similar to yours. There is a closer bond through our freedom and similar form of governments.

Spain will honor her history as the nation which discovered the lands where all the republics from Alaska to Tierra del Fuego are situated.

If there was any difference between Spain and the Americas it was simply a difference of institutions. As these have disappeared I believe that we shall be able to understand each other better and to love one another even more.

Will Be More Confidence.

With respect to Portugal, our relations will be even more cordial, and there will be more confidence. I emphasize especially the confidence which should reign between both peoples.

It is not given to me as yet to discuss whether Spaniards in the Americas should have representation in the Cortes. It is too premature to speak of this now, but when the moment comes the government will study the question with interest.

Our program is to elect a Cortes which, with complete sovereignty, should decide what the future policy of the government of Spain shall be. All the acts of the provisional government will be submitted to the Cortes so elected by the people.

At this time it is difficult to formulate a program, as all the measures we may take will have to be by mutual accord after due deliberation by the ministry.

Autonomy Is Promised.

Regarding the Catalonian problem, the government is ready to concede the Catalonians their national aspirations. This is a question of sentiment with the Catalonians; it is also a question of right. And when I speak of the Catalonians, I believe that the other provinces of Spain are entitled to the same prerogatives. They are all within the legal right to enjoy a system which may allow them, within the Spanish confederation, to enjoy full political autonomy. Full political autonomy will be conceded Catalonia.

Martial Law Still In Force in Seville

Communists Are Held After Battle With Police in Streets.

Seville, Spain, April 16 (A.P.).—Martial law continued here today, but the city was tranquil and there was no more fighting.

Communists this morning attempted to initiate strikes in several factories. In a few places the workers walked out, but returned later. A dozen or more Communists were arrested. Civil guards and police armed with rifles and sabers are patrolling the streets.

Martial law was declared last night following clashes between Communists and police in which one person was killed and seventeen injured. The Communists were said not to be in sympathy with the present new republic, but were demanding a Communist regime similar to that in Russia.

Catalonian President Assures Zamora of Aid

(Associated Press.)

The State Department was informed yesterday that Francis Macia, having proclaimed himself provisional president of Catalonia, issued a further statement that he was working in accord with Alcala Zamora, head of the new republican regime at Madrid.

Curtis G. Jordan, American Consul at Barcelona, also said Macia intended to seek a confederation of Iberian states. He is leader of the Catalonian Separatist party. Jordan said despite the exuberant spirits and demonstrations in Barcelona no important acts of violence had been reported.

Aged Princess Left As KingQuits Spain

Eighty Years Old, Isabelle Saw Mother Dethroned in the Seventies.

Madrid, April 16 (A.P.).—When King Alfonso and his family fled from Spain yesterday, the Infanta Isabelle, 80-year-old princess of the blood, who once before saw a Spanish throne fall, was left in her private palace to learn of the latest royal debacle through her servants.

The infanta, aunt of King Alfonso, learned of the royal family's hasty departure only last night. When she was told she resolutely set about preparing for her own departure. The last time she left Spain was when her mother, Queen Isabelle, was dethroned in the 70's.

Alfonso, it was said, refused to bid her farewell because she was ill and because of the suffering the news would bring her. That the republicans would not harm the sick princess seemed to have been confidently believed by the royal suite. But the din in the street outside her Quintano avenue palace aroused the infanta's curiosity and she demanded to know the cause for all the furore.

Villa at Doorn Offered To Exiled King of Spain

Doorn, Holland, April 16 (A.P.).—Visualizing the possibility that King Alfonso of Spain might join former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany in exile, a local realty broker has written the Spanish monarch to offer him a nice villa for rent or purchase.

The king was assured that he would find congenial neighbors and plenty of opportunity for his favorite country sports in this spot.

SPAIN'S ENVOY HERE IS DE MONTEFUERTE

Ranking Embassy Official Takes Charge After Padilla Quits.

(United Press.)

Count de Montefuerte, ranking official of the Sapnish Embassy, took charge of the affairs of his nation here yesterday in behalf of the new Republican government.

His act follows resignation of the king's ambassador and personal friend, Senor Don Alejandro Padilla y Bell. The Embassy received no reply from Madrid yesterday to the Ambassador's resignation, but a message of salutation arrived from the new ministry of state, addressed to the enntire staff.

About the same time the Department of State received official notification of the change in Spanish government from the United States Ambassador in Madrid, Irwin B. Laughlin.

Retiring Ambassador Padilla yesterday received diplomats of friendly powers, who came to pay their respects and to say farewell. Among those who called were the Ambassadors of Italy, Argentine, Peru and France, and the Ministers of Greece and Bulgaria. Several American officials called in a personal unofficial capacity.

The Ambassador expects to retire to his home in San Sebastian as soon as possible.

It was indicated yesterday that the Department of State will await the lead of European powers before recognising he new Spanish government. No obstacles to recognition were known, but some time will be allowed neighbor nations out of courtesy, so that they may have priority of recognition.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Calvert, jr., headed the receiving line, assisted by Miss Mary W. Merrick and Mr. and Mrs. John M. Boteler. Interest was shown in the announced plans for a dinner, reception and ball, to be given at the Mayflower Hotel May 19 with Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and his staff as honor guests.

Petersburg, Va., April 16 (A.P.).—Funeral services with full military honors were conducted this afternoon for the bodies of 29 Federal soldiers recently unearthed at the Crater Golf Course here.

The services were held at the old Blandford Church and at Poplar Grove Cemetery, near here.

Modern Version Of Battle Seen

Merrimac-Monitor Fight Is Reenacted as Planes Substitute Ships.

Norfolk, Va., April 16 (A.P.).—A modern version of the battle between the Merrimac and the Monitor was witnessed over Hampton Roads today with a huge Army dirigible and squadron of bombing planes enacting the roles of the first ironclad ships.

The dirigible—the Merrimac—approached from Sewell's Point to be met by the flight of bombers representing the "cheesebox on the raft" and a mimic battle ensued. After looping, diving and manuevering, the combatants withdrew to the air base at Langley Field.

The modern version of the famous battle of ironclads of 1862 was presented for the entertainment of the American Society of Civil Engineers, meeting aboard a steamer in the harbor. Later the engineers observed Navy and Marine Corps aviators stunting over the Hampton Roads Naval Air Station.

ALFONSO LETS SPAIN THINK, FRIEND SAYS

Exiled King May Be Called to Presidency When Nation Regains Balance.

(The following was written for the Associated Press by William Franklin Sands, professor of international relations at Georgetown University, a personal friend of former King Alfonso XIII of Spain, a chevalier of the French Legion of Honor and a former American Minister to Guatemala.)

By WILLIAM FRANKLIN SANDS.
(Associated Press.)

It is unsafe to predict anything positively in the present state of Europe, but it is not too hazardous to suggest that King Alfonso is not likely to attempt to regain the throne of Spain by a counter-movement.

It would not be an impossibility—and it would truly interest the king—to be president of the Republic of Spain, and head the reform movement. He is likely to let things simmer a bit. It would not be necessary for him to suggest coming back, for he has many supporters in the powerful business leaders of the nation.

In other words, it would seem possible that King Alfonso, understanding probably better than any other person both the legitimate aims of the revolution and the impossibility either of a dictatorship or of adequate reforms as things stands, sees in his abdication the only means to a new deal which will permit the full development of a Spain that has always been and is among the most vigorous of nations—in spite of surface appearances.

Progressive Men in Spain.

There are a number of progressive men in Spain, and among the most progressive of business men is the king himself. Within the past fifteen years he attended a revolutionary meeting not as the sovereign, but as a citizen count. Whenever there was trouble he was out asking why—in the parks as well as in the palace.

Going to an audience with him was going to sit down and smoke a cigarette and talk over things, especially business, and I have met few Americans with a better grasp of international finance and business generally.

Undoubtedly King Alfonso realized that the aspirations of hte various revolutionary parties had a basis of justice, but that he, hampered by the governmental system of Spain, could not give the solutions which he realized were necessary.

Dynasty Handicapped Alfonso.

In the dynastic tradition to which he was born, he could not voluntarily offer any act which would destory his dynasty; he could only abdicate.

It would seem that what has happened is a release—both for Spain and for the king—which, if not hampered by anarchism or other outworn forms of radicalism, ought to make it possible to work out a last a well-adjusted modern government.

The curious thing in this revolution is that none is more fitted to advise and counsel in the movement, even if he may not actually lead it.

This thing is the culmination of a maisdjustment of 900 years. Spain lagged behind the more progressive nations for 500 years of inter-continental warfare with Africa. Then at the moment of victory over the moors the Spanish King was elected emporer of the Holy Roman Empire with the responsibility of holding the balance between the warring nations on the continent.

At the same time Spain was launched into 400 years of colonial competitive imperialism which lasted into the McKinley administration.

This before she had really had an opportunity to become a nation internally. The resulting deadlock is what has given Spain the undeserved and superficial reputation of being a backward country.

3 Die as Explosion Wrecks Oil Plant

One, Fatally Burned, Saves Refinery by Shutting Off Gasoline.

Wichita Falls, Tex., April 16 (U.P.). A violent explosion here today killed three men, one of whom herolically saved the entire Panhandle Co. refinery from disaster before he died. The oil cracking plant of the company was destroyed.

The dead:

R. K. Krull, cracking unit operator.
Jim A. Horn, repair man.
Clarence R. Walker, helper.

His clothes burned from his body, and blinded by flames that filled the air, Mr. Krull groped his way to the control mechanisms of the company's cracking plant unit and shut off the flowing gasoline. Fire followed the blast that blew the top from the giant percolating tower of the plant. Mr. Krull died in a hospital. The others were burned in the flames.

Frank O. Davis, 24 years old, of Fourteenth street near Fairmont street northwest, and Ulysses Dawes, colored, 24, of Twenty-third street near E street northwest, were charged with permitting gaming. The police routed 21 persons from the place in the raid.

DaDvis and Dawes were released in $500 bond. The raiders were F. O. Brass, C. S. Schamp, T. M. McVearry and J. K. Baker.

Brother of Zuta Is Seeking Estate

Plea for Visa Is Refused in Poland; Trip to U. S. Is Canceled.

Warsaw, Poland, April 16 (A.P.).—Jan Zuta, claiming to be a brother of the late Jack Zuta, of Chicago, shot dead in gangster warfare, applied at the American consulate here today for a visa in order to proceed to the United States to collect his dead brother's estate. It was said that this amounted to $1,000,000 or more.

The consul declined to grant the visa, expressing the fear that Jan might become involved in gangster activities in Chicago. He told him that it was unnecessary to go to the United States, as any inheritance could just as well be collected through the Polish foreign office.

Zuta expressed great disappointment at not being able to make the trip to which he had looked forward.

STATE-CHURCH SHIFT IS LOOMING IN SPAIN

Cemeteries Formerly Used by Catholics May Be Opened to All.

Madrid, April 16 (U.P.).—Far-reaching changes in the traditional relations between the Catholic Church and the state in Spain were indicated today as the new republican government, proclaimed last Tuesday, faced problems of administration in consolidatnig its position.

The cabinet met late tonight to consider reports of trouble by anti-republican leaders in Morocco. Isolated disturbances in Seville and other southern cities were reported. The capital and most of the nation, however, remained calm.

The position of the Catholic Church may be changed considerably, members of the new republican cabinet intimated.

The minister of justice, Fernando de los Rios, said he had advised the papal nuncio yesterday that he expected the Catholic Church to adopt policies similar to those observed in other countries, where the civil power is sovereign.

De los Rios said that the concordat of May 6, 1851, with the Vatican would be respected. However, he declared that there should be liberty for all creeds and that the cemeteries in future in Spain will be "lay cemeteries," as opposed to the present system under which all cemeteries are "religious cemeteries." In other words, persons in Spain under Alfonso XIII, known as his most Catholic majesty, had to be Catholics if they were to be buried in a cemetery. Protestants or others might be buried in this hallowed ground by special dispensation, but cemeteries in the past have been reserved for Catholics. The new ruling, if and when adopted, will change all that and open the cemeteries of Spain to all and sundry, it was indicated.

De los Rios said that those ecclesiastical authorities with "conscientious scruples" could protest to the papal nuncio and resign.

Under the monarchy, Spain, as a Roman Catholic nation, supported the clergy and the buildings and other properjes of that church, and the constitution provided that the government support the church. The annual expenditure by the state for the church in 1929 was upward of 67,000,000 pesetas (normally about $13,400,000).

FLOWER OF NOBILITY ARRIVES IN FRANCE

Contrasting Picture Shown as Political Exiles Return to Spain.

Hendaye, France, April 16 (A.P.).—Spanish gentlemen paced nervously up and down the narrow platform of this frontier railway station tonight, mounting guard over trunks, handbags and suitcases while their ladies gathered at one side waiting for the trains which would take them north into France.

They were the flower of Spain's nobility, fleeing the country in which a republican government has replaced a monarchy of Alfonso XIII.

Quiet and Grave.

Quiet, grave, their faces strained and their eyes heavy from loss of sleep, they filed from the narrow-gauge trains which had brought them across the frontier and crowded into the French railway carriages, heading for Biarritz, St. Jean de Luz and Bayonne, carrying with them al the readily negotiable assets they had been able to gather quickly.

The women carried small cases, some of them containing fortunes in gems, their value enhanced by the histories of the families which have possessed them for generations.

The migration has not been paralleled along the Franco-Spanish frontier since the nobility of France fled before the revolution of 1780. The grandees of Spain are following their king, who seeks French hospitality against that day when his people may call him back.

Others Are Returning.

Trains coming in from Spain meet others steaming down from the north, carrying political exiles back to Madrid. The red-cheeked Basques, who live here watch the parade of history and remember the contrast of a few months ago when shabby, penniless Socialists and Republicans filtered across the border in third-class trains flying before Alfonso's soldiers.

The little smoke-filled cafe, where they used to drink away their nights is deserted now, for the more wealthy refugees spend no more time in Hendaye than they have to.

Most of the exiles have passed through to the south and one of the most notable groups was that in which Ramon Franco, Spain's rebel aviator, was the outstanding figure. When he arrived hundreds were at the station cheering.

BANKER WHO KILLED BANDIT IS REWARDED

Claude H. Owens Given $500 and Vacation for Saving Marlboro Funds.

Claude H. Owens, Marlboro bank cashier, who killed a bandit during an attempted hold-up last week, has been given two weeks vacation and $500, according to an announcement made yesterday by C. A. M. Wells, president of the First National Bank of Southern Maryland.

Mr. Owens is assistant cashier of the bank, which was invaded by three hold-up men last Thursday. Despite the menacing guns of the trio, Mr. Owens drew his pistol and killed Joseph Hayes, Chicago gangster. The other two escaped, and their trail was lost after they abandoned their car when it ran into a ditch.

Mr. Owens said last night that he had made no plans for his vacation, but he supposed he would have to take it to spend the $500.

The attempted hold-up has resulted in a change in banking hours in the town. Formerly the three banks were open from 9 to 4:30, but their hold-up insurance covers only the regular banking hours of 9 to 3 o'clock. For this reason, the banks will close at 3 o'clock in the future, though no definite date has been set for the change.

Fire last night wrecked the coal storage sheds of the Max Hoffman warehouse in Brentwood, doing damage estimated at $2,000. The blaze was apparently caused by spontaneous combustion, although firemen believe that a spark from a railroad engine may have caused it.

Practically no coal was in the sheds at the time, but two Baltimore & Ohio railroad box cars on a nearby siding were slightly damaged. They were filled with lumber. Fire companies from Mount Rainier and Brentwood fought the flames, and others from Cottage City, Hyattsville and Bladensburg were called out.

Sergt. Caleb R. VeVnable, of the Tank Corps, stationed at Camp Meade, was slightly hurt yesterday when the motor cycle he was riding was in a collision with an automobile near Laurel, Md. The auto was driven by Paul E. Mercer, of Laurel. Venable received cuts about the head and legs and was removed to Camp Meade in an ambulance.

A new batch of twenty indictments was brought in by the Prince Georges County grand jury yesterday, according to Alan Bowie, county prosecuting attorney. They will not bem ade public, however, until the men named in them have been arrested.

Included in the 21 indictments brought in last week are charges against Lewis Geome, Albert Oriente and Joseph Rose, who are said to have been captured in the Sanitary Grocery store in Hyattsville. The trio is charged with housebreaking. Albert Anderson, who arrested them, said that they were in the store at the time. When arraigned yesterday they pleaded guilty.

Abe Plisco has been indicted for manslaughter in connection with the death last fall of Robert J. McKnight, 12-year-old schoolboy, who was killed when an automobile driven by Plisco is alleged to have run off the road and struck the boy.

Ernest Catonia was indicted for larceny and receiving stolen goods, which were listed as one chicken, valued at $1.36. The fowl was allegedly taken from William Moore. Another indictment on the same charge was also returned against the man.

Others indicted for larceny and receiving stolen goods are James McKenney, Clarence Walters and William Talbert. Anne Hudson is recorded as complainant against Talbert.

Two indictments were returned against Margaret T. Bolin on charges filed by Harold J. Rohrback. One of them accuses her of housebreaking and the other charges assault with intent to kill and assault and battery.

Others arraigned yesterday were Paul E. Dement, charged with the murder of Claude E. Hughes, and Alice Chase. Dement was uncertain how to plead and a not guilty plea was entered for him; Alice Chase, a colored woman, pleaded not guilty to an indictment for housebreaking, larceny, and receiving stolen goods. She is already under a suspended sentence imposed at the last term of court on similar charges.

Asking that the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore be enjoined from foreclosing its mortgage on the Battistone property, near Clinton, Antonio Cosimano yesterday filed suit in the Prince Georges County Circuit Court against the bank.

Cosimano alleges that he held a first mortgage on the property, which is owned by Hugo Battistone. He waived his mortgage priority when Battistone wanted to borrow from the Baltimore bank, he says.

Now, he claims, Battistone has been paid sufficient insurance money from a recent fire to pay off the bank's claim. Cosimano's petition states that he understands that Battistone has set aside money to partially pay the Cosimano claim, but this has not been done. His bill also requests the court to issue an order restoring his mortgage to priority.

The Greater Bladensburg District Citizens Association will join with the Prince Georges County Federation of Citizen's Associations in an attempt to have the Washington Railway & Electric Co. run its bus line to a downtown terminal. At present transfers have to be made to street cars at Fifteenth and H streets northwest.

Dr. Robert W. McCullough, president of the Bladensburg association, will appoint a committee to confer with railway officials on a possible extension of the line.

The U. S. Army survey of the flood situation has also been completed, according to Judge Alfred D. Bailey, chairman of the committee on flood control. The State Roads Commission has already made plans to remove the causes of the periodic floods in connection with its widening of the Bladensburg road next summer.

A meeting of the executive committee of the association will be held Tuesday night at the home of Dr. McCullough to discuss the recent Cramton enabling act for the extension of the park system in the county. The association has turned action in the matter over to the committee.

The report of the committee on the beautification of historic Evergreen cemetery was also received, showing that there is a balance of $285.47. Of this sum, $141.51 was given by the Hyattsville Presbyterian church as the remainder of the cemetery fund of the Hattie Thompson estate.

Mrs. Frank P. Scrivner was reelected president and given an electirc clock at a recent meeting of the Mellwood Women's club, which was held at her home. With Mrs. Cora P. Mayberry, who was elected vice-president, Mrs. Scrivener was also appointed as delegate to the State Federation of Women's clubs convention in Baltimore.

Other new officers who were elected were Mrs. William S. Hill, recording secretary, and Mrs. Fred Binger, treasurer. Mrs. Lansdale G. Sasscer was chosen director of the club.

Ardent Photographer Held, But After He Got Pictures

Clifford W. Hunt, 22 years old, a student at the University of Maryland, has a penchant for photography, and that's the reason he was arrested for investigation at sundown yesterday in the Washington Hotel.

For the past few days Hunt, who lives in Hyattsville, Md., has been using the roof of a restaurant near the hotel as a vantage point for his bird's-eye views of the city. He went to the roof each day, but the trap door always locked him on the roof.

Undaunted, he would simply crawl from the roof-top into a window of the hotel and leave in that way. Tuesday he disturbed a married couple. Wednesday he crawled into a room occupied by a valet of a world touring couple. Yesterday he crawled through another window into the arms of hotel employes, who turned him over to Detective Sergt. H. E. Ogle.

He got the picture he wanted—a sundown.

Three Men Are Injured In Auto-Truck Crash

Three men were injured, one critically, last night when the automobile in which two of them were driving to Washington crashed into a stalled Army truck on the Washington-Richmond highway in front of the entrance to Fort Humphreys. Hyman Cohn, who was accompanying I. H. Kahn from New Bern, N. C., suffered a fractured skull and three broken ribs.

Charles Bird, who was cranking the truck when the collision occurred, was not seriously hurt. The two North Carolinans were transferred to the Alexandria Hospital after receiving first-aid treatment in the post hospital.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

COUNTY TO DEDICATE NEW CHURCH SUNDAY

Presbyterian Edifice Has Been Completed at Cost of $20,000.

The new $20,000 Arlington Presbyterian Church, just completed, will be dedicated at special services Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Cleland B. McAfee, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, and former moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States. The pastor, the Rev. Walter F. Wolfe, will assist.

The Arlington Presbyterian Church was started in 1906 as a Sunday school under the leadership of Miles C. Munson, of the First Presbyterian Church of Alexandria County. The Rev. Jasper Young was the first pastor. The church was made a mission of the Ballston Presbyterian Church in June, 1906. The Arlington Presbyterian Church was organized in June, 1908, with a membership of 21. The land for the original church, which was destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon, December 20, 1924, was donated by Mrs. Mary Gray and Elizabeth and Charles G. Gaddis.

Officers of the church are: Dr. H. C. Corbett, Thomas J. DeLashmutt, C. H. Howell, Walter K. Handy, and J. M. Craig, deacons; Julian E. Tapp, J. M. Craig, Dan Adams, E. A. Conner, W. W. House, and J. L. Petrie, trustees; Walter K. Handy, superintendent of the Sunday school; Miss Margaret Polwart, organist; W. W. House, choir director.

Plans and specifications for the building were prepared by A. P. Thelander, architect, and it was constructed by William Dawson, contractor.

Mrs. George F. Cook was elected president of the ladies' auxiliary to the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department at its annual meeting last night at the home of Mrs. Cook. Other officers are: Mrs. Frank Bailey, vice president; Mrs. John E. Banforth, secretary; Mrs. Elmer J. Blackmer, treasurer; Mrs. Carl E. Scheffel, corresponding secretary.

Newly elected officers will be installed at the May meeting by the retiring president, Mrs. Julian E. Tapp. The meeting will be at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Wallace.

The auxiliary announces that it will hold a benefit bingo party at the Firemen's Hall the evening of April 29, instead of the card party which had been previously announced. Mrs. John E. Banforth is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Intertroop Boy Scout first-aid contest, at which time each troop will enter a team of five of its members and will work out and apply such first aid as is indicated in a series of five problems, will be held at the Washington-Lee High School tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The program will include a demonstration by a picked team from the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia. J. B. Dorman, of the telephone company, will be judge of the contest.

Following the contest there will be an address by John L. Vandergrift, assistant vice president of the telephone company. Among others who will attend the meeting will be W. E. Longfellow, of Washington, director of life saving and first aid of the National American Red Cross; William L. Leitch, scout executive of Northern Virginia, and Linn C. Drake, scout executive of the Washington council.

Mr. Leitch, who is in charge of the scout movement of Arlington County, announces that this meeting is open to the public, and is only one of many of the same character which will follow during the spring and summer months.

The following report, showing activities of the welfare department for the last three months, was submitted to the County Board of Supervisors yesterday by Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, superintendent of public welfare in Arlington County:

Number of calls during the month of January in county, 147; during February, 187, and during March, 160, making a total of 494 calls.

Reports on the bicentennial celebration, the Boy Scout movement, presentation of motion pictures by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., and a resume of the street car situation featured the quarterly meeting of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce last night in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon.

Walter U. Varney, chairman of the committee to gain authorization for a terminal in Washington for both the Alexandria and Arlington County railway lines, reported that the united support of Senators Swanson and Glass and Representative Smith had been obtained and further, that the Public Utility Commission of the District of Columbia had offered to give the residents of Arlington County a hearing at any time.

Replying to the statement of Frank Lyon that he would like to see every railroad in the county torn up and the roadbed used for increased highway facilities, Harris Levy said, "the railroads are absolutely essential to the county's welfare and they will be indispensable during the bicentennial celebration next year."

Arthur Orr, president of the Arlington County Bicentennial Council, reported progress, declaring that this is the first county in the United States to organize in preparation for the celebration and that the headway made is being pointed out by the national commission as a model to other communities.

He explained the purpose of the coming beautification contest, in which valuable prizes will be given winners in various classes. Purpose of the contest is to accomplish a clean-up of the county during the present year, he declared.

Speaking at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Arlington County Monarch Club yesterday at Windsor Arms, Dr. Charles H. Rominger, national president, commended the local club for the great amount of work service it has given the county in the last few months. This is the character of work which will insure the success of the club now and in future years, he declared.

Dr. Rominger stressed the need of more extension work throughout the county. "It is needed," he stated, "to carry on the work such as Monarch clubs should do."

"There is now going on in many sections of the country work of organizing new clubs and I predict before the annual convention which this year meets in Richmond, Va., there will be a number of new clubs to be heard from," he said.

Concluding his remarks he called upon the local club to increase its membership from 35 to 50 members by the time the convention meets in June.

Chairman Dexter Hussey, in charge of arrangements for the annual ladies' night to be held in the Army-Navy Club the evening of May 7, reported that much progress is being made and predicted that this will be the biggest event ever held by the local club.

Replying to many published statements advocating enlargement of water mains in Arlington County to supply Falls Church and adjacent communities with water, Harry C. Saffel, of Clarendon, one of the prime movers in the proposal for installation of the county water system more than five years ago, last night issued the following statement:

"With the present supply mains to Arlington County and until the time comes when these have been greatly augmented there should be no additions beyond that already provided by the 8-inch main in Lee highway between the Robert E. Lee School and the Falls Church corporate line. To permit now a larger main will be to the serious disadvantage of all sections of the county and can only mean the curtailment of supply elsewhere. At no time, now or in the future, should another larger main be laid in this section of the Lee highway for the Falls Church and Fairfax County supply on account of the upset that would result to the critical hydraulic gradients in the Arlington County system.

Further, he said, "Care should be taken to limit peak load delivery through this 8-inch main. The Falls Church system should be required to have installed thereon suitable storage of a capacity not less, and preferably more, than 100,000 gallons, sufficient to take the entire daily period of peak load. What is needed at the present time more than anything else is close inspection weekly of valves and regulators, and watch for leaks in the supply and lateral mains. It is very necessary that this should be looked after in order to cut down wastage of water, besides cutting down the water bill that Arlington County will owe to the Federal Government at each bill period.

"The master meter which now registers the supply of water furnished to the Arlington County water system provides for charges per 1,000 gallons, regardless of leaks, wastage, or the amount of water that is used in fighting fires. This method of registration needs thorough investigation and I will discuss in the columns of The Post this question in the next few days, giving my reasons for objecting to a disc meter of any type on a water supply system where all the water is charged to Arlington County and where there are no allowances for breaks in lines, leakage, wastage, or for fire protection."

Mrs. Millicent Willis was elected president of the Arlington County Business and Professional Women's Club at a dinner meeting held last night in Ashton Heights Clubhouse.

Others named are: Mrs. Katherine Cohen, first vice president; Mrs. Norine Kloss, second vice president; Mrs. Agnes J. Conradi, treasurer; Mrs. Ethel Jackson, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Helen Collins, recording secretary.

Rail Line Will Use Versatile Car Body

Removable Truck Unit Gets Test in Baltimore-to-Salisbury Trade.

Early inauguration of a new form of coordinated rail, motor truck and steamer transport was announced yesterday by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The service will be given its first trial between Baltimore and Salisbury, Md.

Truck bodies, which will fit the chassis of a large motor truck or trailer as well as a railway car, will be handled in the operation involving the three forms of transport. Under the arrangement Baltimore shippers will load their Eastern Shore freight in truck bodies at their store doors, from where it will be moved by motor to the pier. There an especially designed crane will lift the entire truck body from the chassis or trailer to the deck of the vessel.

After the trip across Chesapeake Bay another crane will place the truck body on a railroad car for the rail movement to Salisbury. At that point the bodies will again be placed on a truck chassis or trailer and deliveries made by motor to the store doors of consignees.

of stocks. I think that the stock market will be more or less quiet for some time. I think that people are fed up on stocks. I do not think that there will be much activity on the stock market for a couple of years."

Recalling the disastrous drought of last year, Mr. Babson pointed out that weather conditions have an important bearing on business.

"If we have rain enough," he said, "that is all we will need. Our troubles will be over."

WINEBRENNER LAUDS PUBLICITY FOR AREA

Maryland Official Praises Greater Washington Exploitation Move.

Declaring that the Greater Washington area in the past has shown no talent for exploiting its resources, David C. Winebrenner, secretary of State of Maryland, told the Washington Board of Trade last night at the Willard that its movement to advertise the historical background and natural beauty advantages of this area should be a big force in reviving business and eradicating all signs of depression.

Secretary Winebrenner said plans of the Greater National Capital committee of the Board of Trade to bring more tourists, conventions and residents to the Washington area had the hearty cooperation of his State.

He defined the greater Washington area as including a considerable part of Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, and in view of this he said these States should work in cooperation with the Board of Trade committee. He expressed pleasure that business men are undertaking the exploitation work rather than patriotic socities. Another advantage of the movement is that it is based on something more attractive and human than industry, he observed.

George Plitt, president of the Board of Trade, in his annual report declared that the organization has had another record-breaking year. During the year 680 new members have been added, he reported.

Mr. Plitt recited some of the organizations achievements, which included the survey of the National Capital, successful efforts to encourage Dr. Hugo Eckener to study Hybla Valley as a possible transcontinental Zeppelin terminal and publication of the new book of Washington.

The following new directors were elected: Lloyd B. Wilson, president of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.; Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National Bank; E. C. Graham, president of the National Electric Supply Co.; E. J. Murphy, president of the E. J. Murphy Co.; John Saul, of the B. F. Saul Co.; John H. Hanna, president of the National Capital Traction Co.; Jerome F. Barnard, attorney; Charles W. Morris, realtor; Joseph A. Burkhart, attorney, and George B. Farquhar, insurance man.

They will serve with 20 directors already in office. They will elect new officers at a meetnig next week.

Resident of Charles Town Despondent Because of Idleness, She Says.

Calling a bell-boy to her room in noon, Mrs. Bessie White, 29 years old, a downtown hotel yesterday afternoon of Charlestown, W. Va., told him she had swallowed poison and to summon a physician.

The Fire Rescue Squad was called, and after rendering first aid, removed physicians said they could find no ner to Emergency Hospital. Although indications of poison, she was admitted to the hospital for observation.

According to police, Mrs. White told them she had been here only a short time. She came here to search for employment and became despondent, she said, when unable to find work. Stock in Railroad May Be Sold, Rule

McLean Estate Trustees Authorized to Dispose of W. & O. D. Holdings.

In an "order instructing the trustees of the estate of the late John R. McLean" Justice Jennings Bailey yesterday paved the way for the ultimate sale or transfer of the huge block of stock now held by the estate in the Washington & Old Dominion Railroad.

The court directed that no further advancements are to be made from the capital of the estate after June 3, 1931, and that in the meantime, a sum of $25,000 is to be advanced by the estate to the railroad. This money is to be used in notifying others interested in the ownereship of the railroad of the court order in regard to further advancements.

The court at the same time gave its approval of all advancements made up to date. It reviewed the history of the road and pointed to the large expenditures made over a period of years in order to protect the John R. McLean estate from suffering the entire loss of capital invested in the railroad.

Baby Is Born on Street As Police Form Barrier

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., April 16.—The stork arrived inopportunely on the busiest street corner at Buckhannon today. A taxi driver heard the flutter of its wings and raced for a doctor. Police arrived and assisted the stork by forming a barrier of automobiles around the corner.

Soon afterward a fine daughter was born to a comely young matron of Greenbrier County, who had been waiting for a motor bus to take her home. Both were taken to a hospital half a block away, none the worse for the unusual experience.

JOHN BOLES WOULD ENTER TOURNAMENT

Singer Rates Bridge Second Only to His Profession in Preference.

No, bridge fans, John Boles will not be a participant in the First Annual Bridge Tournament of Washington players, but goodness, how he would like to be! Mr. Boles, who is appearing in person at a local movie house and is said to play bridge as well as he sings, and that is going some, took time off yesterday morning and went out to the New Shoreham just to get into the bridge atmosphere, and The Post photographer snapped him as he was arranging a foursome with Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Moore and Mrs. T. Zube Sullivan.

"Of course, my own profession comes first," said Mr. Boles, "but next to that I'd rather play bridge than do anything else. I have heard a great deal about The Post's tournament, and I can see that it is going to be a huge success. Sorry I can't be with you, but I hope everyone holds good hands."

Women's City Club Ready.

The tournament finds the bridge players of the Women's City Club all set for the event. Evidently, the ladies had a premonition that something of the sort would be undertaken, or they had the intuition that women sometimes have, for several months ago they began a series of duplicate contract games hoping that sooner or later a tournament would be held, and desiring to be prepared for it. In consequence, they have developed some excellent players who are keen for the contest.

"As chairman of the Friday Contract Study Club of the Women's City Club," writes Mrs. Winifred S. Priest, "I have the pleasure of entering three and possibly four teams for the contest of May 14, 15 and 16. As a club we have been playing duplicate contract for several months, hoping that such an event as this you are now sponsoring would occur."

Washington on Map in Bridge World.

"I congratulate The Post," writes Mrs. Katherine D. Priest, one of the most prominent of local bridge teachers, "in at last putting Washington on the map in the bridge world. The city needed some one with new modern ideas for progress and competition. Having been a teacher in Washington for six years I have a great interest in the success of the tournament and am keeping in close touch with it."

These letters and many more indicate the spirit in which bridge players of Washington are engaging in the event. This is also illustrated in the high class of entries which are coming in daily, representing people in social, professional and business circles. If you have not already done so, fill out the blank printed daily in The Post and send it at once to the bridge editor.

Soon the beautiful trophies which The Post is offering as prizes in the competition will be placed on display. You may have the distinction of winning one of them or being a member of a team which carries off the honor. You will meet old friends and make some new ones by becoming a participant.

Program Ready May 1.

Rapid progress is being made in working out details of the program of events, but it will not be possible to announce them fully until after the first of May. In the meantime, enter, select your partners and teams and play bridge. Get the practice and you may get the prize.

The United States Playing Card Co., of Cincinnati, is aiding the tournament by donating cards which will be used throughout the entire series. They are the same brands which are used in all leading tournaments and which are popular with players everywhere. The company guarantees there are winning cards in every deck.

Again, be reminded that dates of the tournament are May 14, 15 and 16, and the place is the New Shoreham Hotel.

Six Girl Prisoners Set Beds on Fire

Five Officers and Firemen Hurt Quelling Riot in North Carolina.

Lumberton, N. C., April 16 (A.P.).—Six girl prisoners staged a riot in the Robeson County Jail early today, setting their bunks afire and hurling furniture at officers. Five officers and firemen were injured in quelling the riot and extinguishing the fires. The girls spread terror in the jail for an hour, ripping down electric light fixtures and breaking out window panes after setting the fires. Austin Smith, jailer, turned the prisoners into a corridor to save them from being overcome by the smoke in their cells. There they continued their rioting. Tearing out window sashes, they attacked the jailer, cutting one of his fingers almost off and slashing his face with glass. Sheriff P. S. Kornegay was similarly attacked.

The girls were removed to the jail and charged with arson three weeks ago, after a dormitory at Samarcand, State school for delinquent girls, was burned. They had been inmates of the school.

Gangster's Death Laid to "Friends"

"Joe the Boss" Is Believed Victim of Double-Cross in New York.

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—Police decided today that "Joe the Boss," racketeer slain yesterday in an out-of-the-way Italian restaurant in Coney Island, was a victim of the double-cross.

From persons living near the restaurant they learned that his three bodyguards walked out of the restaurant with the two young men who did the shooting, got into the killers' car and drove away.

Joe the Boss, otherwise Giuseppe Masseria, had his finger in so many enterprises that detectives found it difficult to determine just which business venture earned him the enemies that caused his death. Six men were arrested a few hours after the shooting, but police let them go after questioning.

Rum Is Found on Liner.

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—Customs officers said they found 218 bottles of assorted liquors valued at $1,090 aboard the liner Majestic today. The liquor was found behind a partition in the crew's quarters, but the officers were unable to fix responsibility.

great a latitude was allowed judges in sentencing criminals.

"Obviously," he said, "a system which leaves the consequences of conviction of crime so largely to uncontrolled judicial discretion is entirely unscientific, and there is abundant evidence that much injustice results from it."

Mr. Wickersham also criticized parole methods applied in many instances at the earliest moment permissable by the statutes in order to cut down the growth of prison populations.

"From this practice," he said, "has grown up a conviction among prisoners that they are entitled to discharge as soon as the period of imprisonment has expired at which the parole board has power to release them. If a prisoner is confined beyond this time he considers himself aggrieved."

The recent riots at Joliet Prison in Illinois, he said, had just such an origin. The purpose of parole, he added, is emphatically not "an automatic jail delivery."

Socialists to Hear Talk on China.

Paul Linebarger, legal adviser of the Chinese National government, will speak on "Socialism and Sun Yat Sen" tonight at a meeting of the Socialist party in the District which will be held at the clubrooms, 680 Columbia road northwest, starting at 8:30 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

Battle With Police Kills 1; 2 Are Hurt

Woman and Officer Injured as Guns Roar in Street Duel.

Bowling Green, Ohio, April 16 (A.P.).—A running pistol battle between four suspected shoplifters and police ended today in death of one of the suspects, the wounding of a policeman and one girl suspect, and the the capture of another girl.

Charles Saunders, 20, St. Louis, was shot to death by police, and his companion, Woneta Ross, 20, St. Joseph, Mo., was wounded critically in the head. A policeman, Ralph Castner, 25, was wounded seriously in the abdomen. Police captured a woman who said she was Ruth Saunders, 20, of Kansas City, Mo., but the fourth suspect, who Miss Saunders said was Ted Shea, of St. Louis, eluded officers.

The shooting occurred when police attempted to question the suspects, who had been seen in this vicinity many time in the last week. The suspects fired upon the police car when about a block from the business section, and kept up a running fire until they abandoned their automobile, which carried a Missouri license.

has left with 30 American refugees for New Orleans.

Forty-five miles north of Puerto Cabezas a band of insurgents swooped down on Cape Gracias a Dios, on the Honduras border, and looted the town. They retired up the river with their plunder. American Marine aviators dropped fourteen bombs on the band.

(Written for the Associated Press by C. A. Davis, United States Marine Officer.)

Bluefield, Nicaragua, April 16 (A.P.).—The list of twelve known dead in the combat north of Puerto Cabezas:

John H. Bryan, Clinton, Md.; William H. Bon, Sarasota, Fla.; Percy Davis, Hammond, La.; Will L. Selser, Little River, Fla.; Hubert C. Wilson, Wichita, Kans.; John D. Phelps, Livingston, Ala.; John L. Pennington, Crossett, Ark.; Rip Davis, Summit, Miss.

Foreigners: Henry Roper, British; Walter Manning, British Jamaican; Moses Sagastume, Guatemala; F. O. Ramirez, Corinto, Nicaragua.

The situation was fairly calm today, with the guardia patrol out on the line to make contact with a band of about 60 bandits.

Bluefields has called its civicos into service and guardia military police are being replaced by civilians to permit complete withdrawal of guardia troops for field service.

This town was restless today, due to rumors of the approach of a new bandit column.

Walker to Answer Charges Tomorrow

New York Mayor Writing Reply to Accusation of Incompetence.

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—Mayor Walker said today he expected to have his answer to charges filed against him by the city affairs committee ready by Saturday. They will be taken to the governor in Albany in printed form.

The mayor said he was writing the document between other mayoral duties, being careful not to neglect the latter.

After consideration of the mayor's answer the governor is expected to decide whether to dismiss the charges or to appoint a commissioner to investigate them.

The charges were filed a month ago while the mayor was in California on vacation. In them the city's chief executive was accused of negligence and incompetence.

GOOD-WILL WINNERS WILL RADIO ESSAYS

Boy and Girl Are Selected by Jury in Flag Contest to Talk Tomorrow.

Wearing the Cross of Honor, the highest decoration of the United States Flag Association, a medal deemed worthy of presentation to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his return from his memorable flight to France, one boy and one girl will stand before the microphone at WRC tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and read the essays which won for them the coveted places as "Envoys of Friendship" on the good-will European trip, in the contest just concluded by the United States Flag Association, with the cooperation of The Washington Post. There will be music by a United States Marine Band orchestra and a short patriotic talk by Col. James A. Moss, president General of the Flag Association.

The identities of this boy and girl are not yet known. They are today among the six boys and six girls who will face the jury of selection, headed by William J. Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, at Central High School auditorium tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, at which time the two winners will be selected. These six boys and six girls in turn represent 80 boys and girls who appeared for the preliminary test last Saturday, being chosen on the basis of a written essay on "The Typical American Boy" by the boys and "The Typical American Girl" by the girls, and also on school citizenship, general intelligence, personality and qualities of leadership. The 80 who took the preliminary test in turn represented thousands of boys and girls of the public and private high schools of the city who took part in the contest.

Ceremonies in Morning.

In addition to the selection of the two winners, there will be further ceremonies in which the Patriotic Service Medal of the United States Flag Association, its second highest honor, will be conferred upon the ten children who fail to be selected as "Envoys," and the "Old Glory" Medal of the Flag Association upon the 48 other boys and girls who qualified for the preliminary test.

The ceremonies are open to the public. A few seats have been reserved for officials of the contest, high ranking Government and Army, Navy and Marine Corps officials, members of the Diplomatic Corps and other guests of honor, but aside from these, the seats, as long as they last, will be open to the public, the small reserved section being thrown open at 11 o'clock, when the exercises start. Interest displayed in the contest from the start indicates that standing room will be at a premium before the ceremonies are started and early arrival is advised for those who wish to obtain seats.

A memorable trip is in store for the two winners, in addition to many honors on this side of the water. Together with "envoys" from other cities, they will be received at the White House by President Hoover and will be taken on a patriotic pilgrimage to Fort McHenry, where Francis Scott Key was inspired to write "The Star-Spangled Banner," to Valley Forge, where Washington's soldiers, their feet wrapped in bloodstained rags in lieu of shoes, still found courage to carry on, and to Philadelphia, where they will see the Liberty Bell, whose brazen lips first proclaimed liberty to the people of the United States.

First Stop at London.

Leaving for Europe, the envoys will arrive first at London, where they will be greeted by either King George or the Prince of Wales, and where they will take part in a great good-will mass meeting of children, with whom they will exchange messages of friendship. This meeting will be broadcast across the Atlantic and through a special hook-up, to all parts of the United States.

Arriving in France, the envoys will be greeted by the president of our sister republic and will be guests of honor at the International Colonial and Overseas Exposition, to which C. Bascom Slemp is commissioner general from the United States. Mr. Slemp has promised to provide special honors for the envoys at this great exposition, and it is probable that a mass meeting of the children of France will be assembled on the American exhibit at the exposition, probably before the replica of Mount Vernon, to greet the American Envoys of Friendship."

The boys and girls who make up the "living flag" of the good-will tour will be under no expense. The trip is being sponsored by patriotic men and women throughout the country, the patroness for the representatives of the Washington schools being Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, prominent in social and philanthropic circles, at whose request the United State Flag Association, with the coperation of The Washington Post, handled the contest which ends tomorrow.

Billfold and $30 Are Missing.

Robert K. Thurber, of 1420 Twentieth street northwest, reported to police yesterday that he missed a billfold containing $30 while in the National Law School Wednesday night. He did not know whether the wallet was lost or had been taken from his pocket.

Facts About Light Are Told Kiwanis

Electrical School Head Is Speaker at Weekly Luncheon of Club.

Many interesting facts regarding light were discussed by Dr. L. D. Bliss, head of the Bliss Electrical School, as speaker at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club yesterday at the Washington Hotel.

"Modern traffic signals don't get their message across any quicker than did the lanterns in the old North Church in Boston when they flashed," he said. "Light has speeded up tremendously since men first commanded light to do their bidding, but light itself still plods along at the same old rate of 186,508 miles per second."

He exhibited about twelve lamps illustrating the stages in their development since use of the first electric lamp on October 21, 1879.

Claude W. Owen made a rousing talk regarding the Kiwanis international convention to be held in Miama May 3-7, and Dr. O. U. Singer spoke of the Civic Club bowling contest at the Congressional Country Club next Wednesday night.

Robbers Get Only $26 After Looting Safe

Thieves who opened a safe in the office of the Columbia Specialty Paper Box Co., 228 First street northwest, early yesterday got only $26 for their efforts.

The office was entered by scaling a wall and opening a rear window. It was the second robbery there in the past few months, $10 being taken the first time. The robbery was reported by Fred Upmeyer, 138 B street northeast, a foreman of the company.

Man's Flight Held Ground For Believing Rum in House

The precipitous flight of a Negro from a house where suspected violation of the liquor law had been reported was cited by United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage as a sufficient cause for belief of officers that their suspicions were correct.

The commissioner ruled that the arrest of the Negro, and the subsequent discovery by Sergt. George M. Little of a quantity of liquor were sufficient for him to hold four men for the action of the grand jury on charges of possession and manufacture.

Another "probable cause" angle was given the case when Commissioner Turnage held that the house, in Southeast Washington, where the men were arrested, was not a "bona fide" residence in that it was devoid of the ordinary household furniture and had no clothing in it.

It appeared that the police made their presence at the house known by a loud approach and that a Negro ran from the back of the house into the arms of Sergt. Little. He was arrested and the house searched and a still and liquor were found. The four arrested were Reuben J. Dorsey, Thomas F. Farrell, Theodore Butler and John Thomas Walker. All were held under $1,500 bond.

Hoffman Estate Set at $275,000

Personal Property Worth $204,000 Is Listed in Woman's Will.

Gertrude L. Hoffman, who died March 22, 1931, left an estate of $275,000, it was disclosed yesterday when Thomas Blackwell Smith filed a petition for probate of her will.

The property consists of about $204,000 in personal property and slightly in excess of $70,000 in real estate, most of which is situated outside the District. The largest holdings here was the premises at 1601 Thirtieth street northwest, valued at $34,635.

The nearest heirs, according to the petition, are the children of Miss Hoffman's grandfather on her mother's side, George Hay Lee. The estate will be divided among them according to the statutes of descent and distribution of the District. All the heirs live outside the District.

Case Will Be Test Of Usury Law Here

Defendant Contests Charge and Decision on It Will Be Precedent.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride's drive against loan shark operators in the District will depend upon the decision of Judge John McMahon in the case of Isadore Rosenbloom tomorrow in the United States branch of police court.

Following a conference yesterday with Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, Assistant Superintendent William S. Shelby and Assistant Corporation Counsel Thomas F. Cameron, Mr. Bride said that he would have an announcement to make following the court action.

While two convictions have been obtained against loan shark operators, it was explained, pleas of guilty were entered in both cases. Rosenbloom contested the charge, however, and thus the decision of Judge McMahon will likely test the usury laws in the District.

Police Sergeant Sued for Divorce

Frank Nussbaum Accused of Cruelty in Wife's Petition.

Charging her husband, Frank L. Nussbaum, a sergeant on the Metropolitan Police force, had practiced a systematic course of cruel and inhuman treatment toward her, Elsie R. Nussbaum yesterday filed a suit for a limited divorce and maintenance.

She charged that she was deserted on November 1, 1928, after having lived with her husband for about 27 years. She is now forced to work as a charwoman, she said, to earn a living, while her husband is in possession of an income of $200 a month.

Mrs. Nussbaum declared that her husband had struck her with his fists on an occasion when she found him telephoning to a friend. Once before she filed a maintenance suit and was allowed $60 a month, but that was stopped, she said, when her suit was dismissed because of lack of prosecution, which, she said, was not her fault.

Man Held for White Slavery.

Harold Birks was held under a bond of $1,000 yesterday when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage on a charge of white slavery. He is alleged to have taken a girl from Hartford, Conn., to Ocean View, Va., and from that city he is alleged to have brought her to this city. The arrest was made by Henry Boddis, a Department of Justice agent.

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

TWO OUT OF THREE GRADUATE TO A

PACKARD

Did you know that two-thirds of those who buy the Packard Standard Eight turn in lower-priced cars? Think of it—two out of every three of our Standard Eight sales are made to people none of whom ever before owned a Packard!

Of course Packard has a long-established clientele. Records show that not one out of ten Packard owners ever leaves the Packard family for any other make of car. A remarkable record when the changing fortunes of life are considered.

But repeat order business is to be expected. The surprising fact is that so many owners of lower-priced cars are turning to Packard transportation. The reason is that they have found it costs no more.

Give us the opportunity and no doubt we can show you that you, too, are paying Packard costs while not enjoying Packard ownership. Why not phone, or drop in at our salesrooms to see us?

Here is what we can show you with actual figures: That it costs no more to maintain and operate the Packard than any other car of like size and power, no matter what its first price. And that depreciation amounts to no more when you keep the Packard longer, as most Packard owners do.

Packard cars are built for long life and complete reliability. This applies to the Packard Standard Eight, priced at the factory from $2385 to $2885, no less than to the larger, heavier Packard DeLuxe Eight, factory priced at from $3490 to $4285, and the Individual Custom Creations ranging up beyond $10,000.

Why not, then, take the first step toward Packard ownership—get in touch with us? Your present car, if of average value, will more than make the down payment on your Packard Standard Eight. If you are paying Packard ownership costs—why not have the Packard?

BIG TAX INCREASES.

Taxation will be a question of absorbing interest in the United States during the coming few years. The public has not been much concerned about the rising tide of local taxes since the war, because the country was prosperous and many public improvements were needed. Federal taxes have been declining in the last decade so that the increase in local and State assessments has not been felt so keenly. But now higher Federal taxes are threatened, and if local levies continue to mount at the same time an overwhelming burden will be laid upon the people.

The rising cost of government is now ample cause for alarm. No figures are available for State, local and Federal governments during the last two years, but the National Industrial Conference Board recently published the results of a study of expenditures for the fiscal year 1928, which are sufficient to indicate the trend. Government in that year cost $105 per capita, or a total of $12,609,000,000. The lion's share of this went for local administration. The States spent 14.5 per cent, the Government 31.5 per cent, and local communities 54 per cent.

Taxes were not sufficient to finance the projects launched by State and local governments. As a result, State and municipal debts have grown to enormous proportions, while the Federal authorities have been rapidly diminishing the national debt. State and local taxpayers must pay vast sums in interest as well as meet current expenses.

The increase in governmental expenses in the fifteen years from 1913 to 1928 is appalling. In the former year all units of public authority in the entire country spent only $2,919,000,000. This means an increase of about 300 per cent. During the same period the gain in national income was only 135 per cent. Some allowance must be made for difference in the value of the dollar, but when that has been discounted the drain upon taxpayers is still 200 per cent greater. Taxation has been growing much faster than population or the national income.

It is certain that 1930 and 1931 will see further unprecedented gains. Vast building programs have been undertaken to relieve unemployment and unusual calls have been made upon welfare departments. The situation of governmental units has now come to a point where every expenditure ought to be scrutinized with a view to preventing further pressure upon the taxpayers.

VETERANS' GOOD WORK.

The various national organizations of veterans of wars in which American forces have participated have done much in the last year in behalf of the movement urging preparation of information and the drafting of laws looking to the complete mobilization of the Nation's resources against the emergency of war. Sentiment in this country certainly is forming to demand legislation that will determine in advance what part every citizen shall play in the national defense.

Never again will it be possible to draft merely the man power of America and ignore industries and material resources until prices have soared and control becomes a difficult and expensive task. The determination that men, money, systems and materials must join from the start upon an equitable basis is so eminently just that it appeals to the American spirit of fair play at once.

For the growing realization that prudent preliminary legislation is necessary the veterans' groups must be given much credit. They are organizations growing out of wars, but they are not warlike organizations. If there is any portion of the population that understands thoroughly why armed conflict should be avoided it is made up of the men who have been through the horrors of the battlefields. They know, too, that not only a proper measure of armed preparedness, but preparations to mobilize quickly the vast resources of this country of every kind is the surest form of insurance against being drawn into war. The fundamental reasons for the measures being advocated for consideration now can not be too often repeated, in view of the insidious attacks that are being made by misguided pacifists, who think this country's safety lies in becoming supine and helpless. There will be little danger of attack from any source if it is known that the matchless resources of the United States can be quickly and efficiently summoned to its defense.

The Legion workers are doing much in quiet ways to help their own membership, too, in these times of unemployment. In several States that have given bonuses the veterans have generously put large proportions of these payments into a fund whose proceeds go to helping needy comrades. The Legion posts of Nebraska were most active in collecting relief supplies for the drought-stricken regions of Arkansas and other States, and one estimate places the trainloads of agricultural products from that State as reaching 20 per cent of the total number sent into the drought area.

MACDONALD HOLDS ON.

Yesterday's vote in the British Parliament gives Premier MacDonald and his Labor party another chance. The party test was forced by the Conservative party on the charge that the Laborites had not relieved the unemployment situation, which shows a total of 2,500,000 unemployed among workers in England. The Conservative criticism of the MacDonald cabinet was voiced by former Prime Minister Baldwin, who was severe in his arraignment of the Labor party for its failure to reduce unemployment following its broad promises of 1929.

For the government the new lord privy seal, Tom Johnson, explained the magnitude of the task that had been faced in England, but claimed conditions were improved, particularly in comparison with the vastly greater number of unemployed found today in Germany and the United States.

A feature of the speech of Stanley Baldwin was the continual interruption of the speaker by Lady Astor, whose questions became so numerous as to bring warning from the chair that she must desist from interruption or leave the session. Conclusion of the charges and defense sent the Liberals under Lloyd George into conference. As the balance of power between Conservatives and Laborites, their division between the two parties was to decide the continuance of the MacDonald cabinet in power or its resignation and the calling of new general elections.

The action of certain Liberals in throwing their votes to Labor means, of course, a new lease of life for Mr. MacDonald, a victory that doubtless is partly due to the unfinished condition of pending negotiations with India, Germany, France and Italy.

WAGES AND MARKETS.

The attitude of organized industry and finance toward the plea of organized labor for the maintenance of wage scales has been rather clearly defined during the last few days. R. C. Stephenson, president of the American Bankers Association, has pointed out that the wages of capital—interest and dividends—have been cut, and that wages must be "controlled by impersonal economic principles." In clearer language Mr. Stephenson seems to advise adjustment of wages along with other costs of operation when retrenchment seems advisable.

Magnus W. Alexander, president of the National Industrial Conference Board, is the chief industrial spokesman who has discussed the subject in public. He raises the question whether "moderate reductions, not larger than the decline in the cost of living, might not permit longer weekly working schedules, with larger payments in the weekly pay envelopes." Lower wages would mean lower costs of production, he says. Goods could be sold at lower prices and buying would be stimulated. It is fallacious, he continues, to argue that wage rates must be maintained, despite reductions in the cost of living, in order to protect the standard of living of American wage earners.

No fault can be found with Mr. Alexander's viewpoint, except that it is based on a fallacy which goes much deeper into economic law than the fallacy which he tries to expose. His whole argument is built on the assumption that the relationship between wages and living costs before the depression should be reestablished. But Mr. Alexander himself points out that unbalanced production, resulting from the fact that production outran purchasing power, contributed largely to the business depression. What could be gained by reverting to the maladjustment which brought about the present unsatisfactory conditions?

It should be clearly understood that the question of maintaining wage scales is not one of continuing the standard of living in 1929, but of raising that standard so that the American people may consume a larger share of what they are capable of producing. Prices have declined. Where no adjustments have been made "real" wages are higher than they were in 1929. But efficiency of labor has also increased. The natural result from such circumstances is a higher standard of living. Unless that higher standard is made possible through higher "real" wages, the great American industrial system must be slowed down and the depression will be unduly prolonged.

When either industrialists or bankers treat wages as merely a factor in the cost of production they are on unsound economic ground. Wages represent not only the purchase of services but the creation of a market for a large percentage of all goods that are produced in the United States. The last thing which an industry can afford to do in a time of distress is to impair its markets.

AN INDUSTRIAL BOOMERANG.

Sir George Paish, British economist, is noted for his brilliant ideas. His latest is to get rid of communism by cooperating with the reds in their five-year plan. Communism and starvation, he says, go together. If the five-year plan succeeds, it will mean the end of communism in Russia. Therefore, he reasons, America ought to help Russia make the five-year plan a success.

This is something like the theory that governments ought not to interfere with crime because when criminals get all the booty they want they will abide by the law. Sir George ignores the fact that the Russian masses did not inflict communism upon themselves. They were deluded by the promise of the reds to set up a workers' government. Now that the Communists have firmly intrenched themselves in political power, the people are slaves to the dictatorship. They can not escape communism at will. Success of the five-year plan would put them more completely under the domination of the Communist party, because the ruling clique would be much stronger than it is now.

It is unfortunate for Sir George that he should be contradicted on the same day that he spoke by a man who knows the problem from personal experience. William H. Grady, of New York, a mining engineer who has been employed by the Soviet Coal Trust, reports that the Soviet government is feverishly dumping its products on the world market at any price they will bring because of the necessity of paying its debts to American industrialists. Machinery and equipment for the industrialization program are sold to the Soviet on credit. Having no capital and no other means of obtaining it, the Moscovites slash prices and dump their goods on the world markets. One American industry makes large profits by selling obsolete machinery to the inexperienced Soviet agents, while another American industry is jeopardized by the Soviet's method of obtaining money to pay for it.

Mr. Grady gives a vivid picture of the horrible conditions under which the Russian people are forced to live. Wages, in the last analysis, do not exist. Miners live on cabbage soup. Labor is inefficient because the workers are starved. The condition of women is no better than that of men. The home is virtually abolished, femininity is degraded and outright immorality is steadily increasing. The inconsistency of American enterprise giving encouragement and material aid to such a system is too glaring for comment.

Mr. Grady's report confirms the findings of American industrial and engineering organizations which have investigated conditions in Russia. Only those interests which are blinded by immediate profits or personal motives see Soviet Russia as a great potential market. Engineers who have been there and know what they are talking about are convinced that trade with the Communists will prove to be a boomerang for American industry.

Senator Brookhart is shocked at the conduct of Uncle Sam's Marines in Panama. The senator caught the leathernecks imbibing a beverage which did not have the approval of the Federal Farm Board.

INVESTMENTS IN EUROPE

By GROSVENOR JONES,
Chief of Finance and Investment Division, United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, in the Magazine of Wall Street.

It is a striking commentary upon the present position of the United States in international finance that the rest of the world is watching so closely for signs of business recovery in this country and that our bankers and investors are so keenly interested in political and economic developments in foreign lands, and particularly in changes and trends in Europe.

The world has come to appreciate more fully the significance of a statement that James Speyer is said to have made in an interview with newspaper men in Berlin several years ago, to the effect that, instead of cavilling at the prosperity of the United States the people of Europe should be genuinely pleased that the United States was prosperous, since by reason of her prosperity she was able to lend and invest freely abroad and thus aid in the economic rehabilitation of Europe.

In any event, the people of this country should be glad to see Europe prosper, for not only is Europe a very important market for our goods, but our investments there have assumed great magnitude.

In determining the extent of our investment stake in Europe it might be well to consider what items should be included. First, in amount, of course, are the war debts, although many persons are inclined to place this indebtedness in a separate category. Next are the publicly-offered dollar bond issues of European governments and of government-controlled corporations, and the issues of bonds and shares of European private corporations. Then come direct investments of American citizens in European enterprises. In addition, there are two items whose order of importance changes from time to time, namely, American deposits and short-term advances to Europe and holdings of European corporate bonds and shares by individual American investors.

In the aggregate these five classes of investments now amount to about 11,750 million dollars, according to conservative estimates. If war debts are excluded and only private loans and investments are considered, the total is about five billion. The latter is a striking total when it is recalled that in 1914 our stake in Europe probably did not exceed 200 million and consisted chiefly of investments in branch factories, petroleum distribution facilities, trading enterprises and holdings of securities in manufacturing concerns closely affiliated with large American corporations; whereas Europe's stake in the United States then probably totaled 4,500 million and included extensive direct investments, large holdings of securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange, minor amounts in State and municipal bonds and a large amount of short-term funds in the New York money market.

Sixteen years ago the United States was a debtor to Europe, in the approximate amount of 4,300 million dollars as is evident when a balance is struck in the various items that enter into the international balance sheet. Today the United States is creditor, vis-a-vis Europe, to the extent of perhaps 8,250 million dollars, if war debts are included, and of 1,500 million dollars, if these debts are omitted.

During the years 1914 to 1930, inclusive, the aggregate amount of European issues publicly offered in the United States was 5,984 million dollars, of which 4,851 million were government and government-guaranteed issues and 1,133 million in corporate issues.

That only about 55 per cent of the total volume of European securities publicly offered in this market since 1914 were in the hands of American investors at the end of 1930 is a fact well worth noting.

The American public have not been content merely to take the European securities publicly offered by our investment houses and bankers. They have invested on their own account in the securities listed on the bourses of Europe. The volume of European securities held by individual American investors is difficult of estimate, but it would be safe to say that the total is not less than 300 million dollars and may be much higher.

POST HASTE.

Alfonso, still styling himself "King of All Spaniards," issues a brief manifesto from France expressing his expectation of being recalled to the throne. In it "I" appears 15 times and "my" 13 times. That's why, Alfonso.

Some one will have to explain the bad luck to the thirteenth Alfonso, that renouncing a throne and being overthrown are more or less synonymous, even in Spanish.

Add similes: As foolish as a congressman who thinks Calvin Coolidge would choose an anticlimax.

New names are needed. Wets are not all drinkers, and drys are not all teetotalers. "Dry" and "wet" are misleading terms.

Here's hoping the Nats got it out of their system the first day—that old habit of winning the eighth and losing the ninth.

How interesting the results will be if some day Uncle Sam quits playing the role on this continent of the unappreciated Big Brother.

With grand opera, baseball, royalty and 17 kinds of conventions in town, Washington will just have to postpone the detail of sleep until next week.

Why keep those old men in the game? Babe Ruth didn't get a home run in the opener until the seventh inning. Now, the kids—well, they probably did not want to embarrass him.

It is intimated that the one exception to the President's generous praise these days—the Virgin Island "poorhouse" degree—was conferred with an O'Neillish aside (this-hurts-me-more-than——) and in the confident belief that the reaction would be favorable.

Mr. Shouse sheds crocodile tears for the wine-grape growers of California, without looking up the statistics as to how many thousand per cent their business has grown under prohibition.

It is interesting to hear such an eminent historian as Guglielmo Ferrero put American prohibition and Russian Communism in the same class and predict the failure of both, as the ultimate fate of "rigid State control."

The Spanish Republican leaders have their nerve. They not only think they can supplant a king, but promise farm relief right off the bat.

The funny thing about the editors' society, in session today, if that some columnists got in under that heading. P. H.

HE-MAN DISAPPEARING.

Too many men of this city are wearing mufflers about their ankles this winter, says the Barber County, (Kans.) Index. What does it portend? Are we becoming a community of weak men? Are these spat wearers afraid they will catch cold in their ankles and get a catch in their tendon Achilles? Medicine Lodge has been a regular he-man town in a he-man country, where men subjected themselves to all sorts of weather and scorned all danger, especially where it might affect their health. And now comes the invasion of this virile town by these insidious ankle warmers. The next thing we know these spat wearers will be wearing a cane to support their poor delicate ankles. Heaven forbid! Why, this is the place where statesmen became nationally known because of the exposure of their ankles and utter disregard for the habiliments of the dandy! And here we are allowing these men, otherwise decent, respectable, law-abiding family men, to disport themselves on our streets and in public places bedecked like some crap-shooting colored "gen'eman." Give us men who can wade through this glorious sunny weather unafraid, men who are proud to expose the beauty of their sox and the lovely contour of their ankles. Give us men.

When the King Boasts of His Baldness, All Simpletons Shave Their Heads.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

AT Palm Beach, Fla., there are numbers of "new-rich" people who spend much money and devise many schemes to enter the homes that are called "exclusive."

They are unhappy because of their continued failure, and yet the only reward of success would be boredom.

The "exclusive" ones live quietly and simply, while the "climbers" delight in gayety, noise and show. The two groups have nothing in common except wealth.

Then why, you ask, do the outsiders wish to get in? Simply and solely because they are kept out. A way of life that would bore them is made desirable by their inability to share it.

Does that kind of snobbishness seem shameful and ridiculous to you?

If it does, are you quite sure that you are free of it?

There is some flaw in human nature that causes each of us to covet the thing that is denied him, and frequently it is a thing he would not desire at all if he could have it for the taking.

In other words, we are so simple and so easily gulled that anybody can make us miserable by the simple expedient of telling us to keep out.

A small boy in the country is shamed and unhappy because his father owns no land and other children say proudly: "Our land comes to here." The boy doesn't want land. His one desire is to live in town. And thus he is miserable for lack of a thing he doesn't want!

Each group, driven by nature to find some fodder for its self-respect, is proud of the thing it happens to possess. Thus one group is proud of birth, another of wealth, another of learning, another of muscle. And each feeds its vanity by speaking coldly to people who do not share its peculiarity.

One tribe in Africa, with lips stretched until they resemble plates, feels vastly superior to ordinary natives whose lips are normal.

That is understandable. But how simple the other natives must be to accept such a standard of excellence and feel unhappy because their own lips aren't hideous.

You wouldn't be that simple, of course. But are you quite sure your desires are fixed by your taste?

Do you desire a great house for its own sake or because others have great houses and say: "We are superior because we have something you can't have?"

Travel for Congressmen.

Chicago Tribune.

A large number of congressmen are availing themselves of the opportunity to take passage on Army and Navy transports. The congressional privilege covers everything except food, which is furnished at a dollar and a half a day per person. The congressman may take his family and the arrangement offers pleasant trips at the lowest costs. The advantages find ready customers.

The objectives for the transport service are American possessions, and the effect of the trips on any rational-minded congressman ought naturally to be good. There are and will be exceptions. Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart goes to Panama and is a nuisance. As a censor he becomes inflamed and irritates at all contacts. Back in Washington he will be the worse for his trip. Mr. Brookhart is congentially parochial and congenial to the desert. Other congressional censors will travel only to view with alarm and rebuke, being the brotherhood of minor prophets, but the normal minded statesman—gracious assumption that this is the average—ought to be favorably acted upon by an extension of experience and observation. Any viewpoint other than the Washington one is likely to be desirable.

Pardonable Exultation.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

President Hoover is well justified in expressing exultation over the personal vindication which has been assured to him through the preservation of the Red Cross as an independent functioning body, whose labors on behalf of general drought relief so convincingly have demonstrated the wisdom of the President's policy in connection therewith.

The President finds a more profound, a deeper significance and meaning in this procedure than may be recognized in its purely practical aspect. He feels that the work done, along lines proposed by himself, has resulted in the invigoration of the Nation's spiritual life, and that the success of the work clearly has justified all opposition to Federal drought aid.

It will stand as one of the bright spots in the President's administration that he stood so firmly against a dangerous and hysterical proposal to mulct the Government in the name of charity and humanity of many millions from the public treasury for the use of drought sufferers.

Fixed Production and Prices.

Christian Science Monitor.

Senator Borah insists that if restriction of petroleum production and importation is to be permitted in the United States the public must be protected against a rise in the cost of gasoline by Government regulation of prices. He protests in the name of the antitrust laws against virtually all efforts to stabilize the unquestionably hard-pressed oil industry, and now talks of treating that section of American business as a public utility.

Mr. Borah's theory seems to be that in whatever commodity any regulation or restriction of supply is introduced there must be established a corresponding governmental supervision to keep the price down. No distinction is drawn between an industry in which prices are disorganized by overproduction and one in which they are being exploited by monopoly.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Newspaper Editors' Meeting in Washington Brings Deep Thoughts to Bro. Neely.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We have with us the newspaper editors of America. They are welcome to the Capital for a brief view from the inside looking out. Their vocation mostly keeps them looking in and telling our more important residents what they should or should not do.

It is an interesting job, the editor's, sitting up nights with a finger on the pulse of the world; but it has its responsibilities, issuing a diagnosis for delivery with the morning milk. Who else in all the world has to estimate values and form his opinions so quickly and independently?

The all-round knowledge that an editor must have is not required in any other branch of work. And what he doesn't know he must know where to get, from the reference books on his desk, or the telephone and immediately. Time and tide, mail trains and newsboys wait not.

And this flimsy thing that automatically appears outside your door every morning—how few give thought to the active thousands in all parts of the world who have made its daily record possible, or to the marvels of modern communication that bring reports from every corner of the globe to the breakfast table!

All hail the editors, then! May the spring sunshine of Washington cheer their souls and add inspiration to the mutual exchange of good advice. It probably will not be taken seriously—they are too used to giving advice to others—but the sessions of the editors' society really will be both interesting and instructive.

Deputy Fire Chief Nicholson Should Not Be Retired, Says an Admirer.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Through The Post, I would like to ascertain from Commissioner Crosby how he reconciles his decision to retire Deputy Fire Chief Nicholson, with the fact that Commissioner Crosby is himself holding office under the District Government after he has himself been retired on account of age by the War Department.

Deputy Fire Chief Nicholson is physically in every way capable of filling his position and has lost only 75 days by reason of sickness in 43 years' service. His record in handling recent large fires shows he is as capable as he ever was.

If Deputy Fire Chief Nicholson is considered too old, physically, to direct the fighting of fires, surely his vast experience is too valuable to be thrown away by retirement, and he should be retained in office as a directing head, until he is at least 70 years of age.

If Commissioner Crosby does not think Deputy Fire Chief Nicholson is physically capable of properly handling his position, let him have a physical examination made, and if Deputy Chief Nicholson shows any defects of body or mind, that would be reasonable grounds for retirement.

The writer will be glad to hear from Commissioner Crosby through your columns. I. B. CROSS.

Property Owners Protest Against Vandalism of Young Hoodlums.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Many parents apparently make no attempt to advise their children in regard to annoying neighbors, defacing and destroying property. It would seem they were turned loose on the streets to do as they please. They run up and down terraces and parking, play on porches, tramp down or break flowers and hedges.

Surely if parents were told of what their boys are doing when out of their sight, in defacing and destroying private property and their insolence and defiance, they would correct them.

It is disheartening to property owners to pay out money for resodding the terraces and lawns each year or to beautify the front and back yards with grass, flowers and shrubs and have them broken or destroyed by a gang of thoughtless youngsters.

BLOODSHED FEARED IN NEW INDIA MOVE

Nationalist Leader Urges Intensive Revolt as Irwin Asks for Peace.

Bombay, April 16 A.P.).—Renewal of the struggle of the Hindu Nationalists against British rule in a more drastic and widespread form was predicted today by Vallabhai Patel, intransigeant president of the Indian National Congress, at the same time that Lord Irwin, retiring British viceroy, was making a speech expressing complete faith in the Delhi pact as a foundation for permanent peace.

Declaring that the government had not only failed to fulfill the terms of the truce, but deliberately incited others not to observe it, Patel startled his listeners by saying that the future fight of the Nationalists would be of a kind unknown in history, in its intensity and results.

"Those who are afraid of death on the gallows," Patel shouted, "should migrate to foreign countries and dispose of their property. In the next fight you will have to face bullets and the gallows. You can win independence only by giving your lives. It is better for you to remain naked than to wear foreign cloth. You must not be deceived by the Delhi truce; it is only temporary and gives us the possibility of strengthening our forces and determining our future policy."

Irwin Deplores Patel Attitude.

Hearing of Patel's provocative utterances and Gandhi's continued counsels to members of the congress not to relax their fight, Lord Irwin, addressing the Bombay Mill Owners Association, warned that such a bellicose spirit would wreck all chances of peace.

"I deeply regret the tendency to regard the immediate future as a period of truce of which advantage may be taken to reorganize the forces for future struggle," he said, "because the state of mind such a tendency represents is not only inconsistent with a whole-hearted discharge of the obligations the settlement proposes but it contains within it dangerous germs of trouble.

"It is a continuous menace to the peace which was our intention and which it remains my dearest desire to see established. On the one hand it arouses forces which those who call them into being may find it difficult to control. On the other it necessarily imposes upon the government the duty of preparing for counteraction, and I fully recognize that the discharge of this duty must inevitably, in its turn, breed distrust.

Makes Plea for Union.

"If we are to realize the ideal of a partnership between these two great peoples we must dethrone from men's hearts the mistrust and misunderstanding which for the last three years have perpetually blocked our paths, and we must exalt in their place a true desire and determination for peace. We have a chance to do so now, and I would ask every member of the government and all political parties and communities to do their utmost to seize it.

"If we could only all join together, European and Indian communities, parties, official and nonofficial, in a single, united effort, we should already be more than halfway to success."

RED CROSS WILL ASK 3,000,000 MEMBERS

Convention Upholds Policy of Using Private Funds in Relief Work.

Continuance of its policy of financing relief operations with voluntary private subscriptions, exclusive of Federal funds, was voted yesterday at the closing session of the American Red Cross convention as a drive was launched for 3,000,000 new members.

The action was taken in resolutions which pointed out that expenditures in drought relief had made heavy inroads on the organization's funds, mainly by loss of interest payments and that present revenues were insufficient to meet its normal program.

John Barton Payne, chairman of the organization, in his closing address, said all privately subscribed funds had been used for actual aid, and that "but for the voluntary participation of Red Cross chapters in this work the relief effort might have been as expensive as some in Congress thought it ought to be."

The resolutions had made no reference to the recent controversy over refusal of the Red Cross to accept a $25,000,000 drought appropriation voted by Congress.

By an almost unanimous vote, resolutions were adopted for boosting the membership of 4,130,000 adults at present to a minimum of 7,000,000, as a means of replenishing its funds.

The Red Cross made public that it not only had given aid to Nicaraguan earthquake sufferers at the scene, but had lent assistance to at least 185 women and children refugees, chiefly members of families of Marine Corps and Navy men, disembarked at four American ports, including Norfolk, Brooklyn, San Diego and San Francisco. Food, clothing medical care and, when necessary, transportation, have been provided.

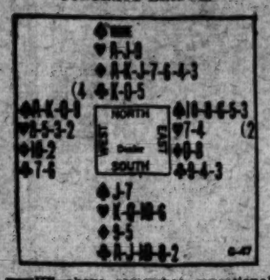
CONTRACT BRIDGE.



THE above somewhat sensational hand was held in a Duplicate Contract game in Boston. There were varying results at the different tables and not all the bidding is a matter of record; but at the table that made the high score, it was as follows: South one Club, West one Spade, and North then had an ideal opportunity that seldom occurs—a chance to overbid in the adverse suit. He called two Spades, telling South that North either had no Spades or the Ace alone, and saw probability of a slam either in Clubs or in some other suit that North would announce later. East had a hopeless hand in spite of its six Spades and passed, not hoping for any such good luck as South's being asleep at the switch and passing also.

South now showed the second suit of his semi-two-suiter by bidding three Hearts; after which West did not feel safe in going further with such terrific strength declared against him. North then vaulted as high as seven Clubs and a glance at the hand will show that South made his contract with the greatest ease.

There never was a hand in which a player could read the make-up of his partner's holding with such accuracy as North could after South's second bid. When South started with a bid of one Club, North (having King-Queen and a small Club) knew that South must have the Ace and four other Clubs (probably the Jack among the number) with the Ace of Spades, the King-Queen of Hearts, the King-Queen of Spades, or two Kings on the side. West's Spade bid made a high Spade holding improbable and seemingly marked South with the King-Queen of Hearts; and South's Heart response to North's two Spades cleared the matter up beyond peradventure and made North's grand slam bid in Clubs almost a cinch.

A Interprets the MODE

Aboard S. S. Ile de France.

AT a Sunday soiree, a very chic one, in the house of a famous Parisienne Couturiere, an equally famous "critique de mode" wore just the right dress. She, and who else should know, wore a chic black paillette covered with a silver lame vest, and a black and silver hat.

And that reminded me of the fact that it is very seldom good taste to wear an evening gown on a Sunday night. The type of thing that she wore, with its long sleeves on the jacket, which by the way was not removable, yes. But an evening ensemble, however, lovely, with a decolletage and in lighter colors, no.

Patou makes evening gowns tight and long, and this is really the smarter silhouette—the long, tight skirt which gives a long sweep from the normal and belted waistline to the instep. But, Miladi, this long slim tightness must be in appearance only, remember! There must not be the slightest constriction, not the least tightness, when the wearer wishes to dance or sit, oh no! What then is done about it in the secret chambers, behind the innermost portals, of the Haute Couture? My deah, you would never guess! The P. H. C. themselves spend half of their present day lives figuring out ways to achieve this desired slenderness in effect, not in fact. And hordes of their willing workers do the same. With the result that Miladi chic has only to step into her evening gown, sure of her slenderness and chic, and of her comfort as well.

And right this minute I don't know whether it's more fun being the lady who wears it, or one of the ladies who plans it, so there!

* * * *

But I do know it's great fun being the lady who play planned the interesting leaflet that you can send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this week! Because when I made it, I found myself making a perfectly good leaflet on how to make skirts, of all things—because the skirt part to a really smart and practical house dress is one or the other type of pleated skirt, you see, or one of the two types of circular skirts, which are smart as separte skirts to be worn with blouses. Then the blouse is sewn onto this skirt in the case of the house dresses I designed for you this week, and the blouse is especially designed for both smartness and freedom—voila, house dress in the Dah-ray manner! Better send that envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet, and be convinced.

* * * *

Oh, it was so lovely! The palest green satin, the most exquisite and flattering lines, and there was the gown from Redfern that I sketched for you today, which couldn't be done justice to in pen and ink. The coat worn with it is frontless below the hips, but the train-like effect of the back, edged in black fox, just shows at the sides—and this, too, is a triumph. You should have just heard the applause this ensemble got at the Bal de La Couturiere, even after it had made a success chez Redfern.

* * * *

Classifications of sports wear form the theme for Dare's weekly fashion letter in the Sunday Post. You'll want to read it.

Au revoir.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

VINES FOR CITY PLANTING.

IN the city, where vistas are small due to lack of space, we can not all have trees, but this does not mean we must have bare walls and sunny porches. No, indeed. We can all have vines—and, oh, how grateful we will be for their protection on hot days.

Where you have access to long spaces of brick walls, especially walls devoid of windows, let me urge you to plant an ampelopsis veitchii. This is the ivy which is commonly called the Boston ivy.

The ampelopsis veitchii never injures a wall, no matter how many years old it may be. Those of us who love the symmetry of the vine know this. Could we only convince other people that it was true, we would doubtless see an increase of 50 per cent in the number of ampelopsis planted this year.

This vine is such a rampant grower that in two years it will have grown 40 feet. It is restful and cool in summer and beautiful when we come to the "Scotch plaid" days of autumn.

Of course there are other spaces besides brick walls to be covered—places where shade is a necessity. Many porches are almost useless during the day or evening without vines. During the day we are subjected to the blinding rays of the summer sun and at night we suffer from the glare of nearby lights. In this case vines are essential.

In the country where vines have plenty of root room, we have an endless number of varieties from which to choose, but in the city, where the asphalt almost touches our porches, we have little space for development. Therefore, our choice is limited; where we want a heavy growth of close foliage, there is nothing better than the old-fashioned honeysuckle. There are several varieties, each with a splendid constitution, and this vine is so fragrant it is a pity we do not see more of it. It has, however, one fault. It runs away from us if we are not careful. We really should prune it every time we cut the grass.

The cardinal vine is attractive for a porch, but it does not make as thick a growth as the honeysuckle.

The moonflower is also an interesting and really worth-while vine to choose when we want protection from strong lights.

The cinnamon vine is a strong-growing climber which has small, deliciously fragrant flowers, and soon makes a dense shade. The Virginia creeper is also a wise choice. We never tire of its graceful swaying branches.

It is well to water your vines every day the first season, and also to keep all weeds or grass from encroaching on the soil about their roots.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE president of Ashland College, of English origin, and means "the son of Hendry." "Hendry" is a common provincial form of "Henry." "Henry" is derived ultimately from the Germanic "Heimrich" which means "home-ruler." In early days "Henderson" was often confused with "Anderson", which means "the son of Andrew." The personal name "Andrew" is ultimately of Greek origin, and may be translated "the man" or "manly." A certain Thomas Hendeson is mentioned in an English document of the year 1379. A London church register dated 1695 records the marriage of Isaac Bourdon and Mary Hendery.

The family name "Gunther" (also spelled "Gunter," "Guenther," Gunthers," &c.) is of German origin. Its source is the old Germanic personal name "Gundachar," which means "the warrior."

The family name "Eckman" (also spelled "Eckmann") has come down to us from two German sources. It is often a modern form of the old Germanic name "Egiman." "Egiman" (also spelled "Agiman") may be translated "the man with the sharp sword." According to a more recent source "Eckman" means "he who lives at the corner."

The personal name "Hilda" is a modern form of "Hildur," an old Germanic personal name originally meaning "battle." In old Norse mythology "Hildur" was the name of one of the Valkyries, the awe-inspiring and beautiful maidens who were believed to hover over the field of battle to select those warriors who were to be killed and to conduct the souls of the brave to Valhalla. From this famous mythological character the name "Hildur" came to be accepted as meaning "battle maiden."

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF April 17th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10.15 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 3:15 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:45 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 2:30 and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

According to astrological signs, April 17th will prove to be a day rich in opportunity. Something unexpected, and from an unsuspected quarter, will materialize, and future success depends on the character of its reception. Every one should be alert, so that the occasion be not lost.

Children born on this April 17th will, owing to the inherent weakness of their characters, never accomplish very much if left to their own resources. They will need to be associated with those of a strong self-assertive nature. They will then give proofs of conscientiousness and steady application.

If you were born April 17th, you are extremely active and possess a great capacity for work. Even when you are apparently idling, your brain is not at rest, and you have formulated many a successful plan while—or so it seems to others—you were wasting time. Any task you essay is tackled with such concentration and so much enthusiasm that the final result of your efforts is never in doubt.

Your nature is a generous one, and your sympathies are wide. High ideals, too, form part of your equipment, and, if in business, yours will be a hard road to travel, as you will never sacrifice conviction for expediency. In spite of your strength of character, you are rather too trustful of others. The signs denote that, on more than one occasion, you will be sadly let down by those in whom you placed your confidence.

You are rather impatient of those who do not attach the same importance to work as you do, and you will never learn to rest on your oars. Until the grim end, you will always be in harness. You are not bumptious, and, in your family circle, you reign supreme through sweetness of disposition and amiability of character.

Guardian for Nixon Children Is Named

Grandparent Says Mother, Held in France, Has Given Consent.

Philadelphia, April 16 (A.P.).—The Girard Trust Co., of this city, today was named by the Orphans Court as guardian to protect the interests of the two small children of Frederick G. Nixon-Nirdlinger in their father's estate.

Nixon-Nirdlinger, Philadelphia theater magnate, was shot to death in Nice, France, March 11 by his wife, the former Charlotte Nash, of St. Louis.

The petition for the guardianship was presented in the name of Mrs. Charlotte Nash, of St. Louis, grandmother of the children, acting on behalf of her daughter. It set forth that the grandmother filed the petition because the mother of the children "is being detained by authorities in France," but that Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger has given her consent to the application. The value of the estate was not indicated in the papers.

LILLIAN RUSSELL'S WILL SUIT ON TRIAL

Airing of Charges Against Daughter's Stepfather Is Promised by Court.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 16 (A.P.).—A thorough airing of the charges made by the only daughter of the late Lillian Russell, noted comic opera and burlesque actress, in her suit to break the will of her stepfather, Alexander P. Moore, was promised today by Orphans Court Judge Thomas P. Trimble.

"There is much evidence of fraud having been perpetrated," Judge Trimble said as counsel for Miss Russell's daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit, strove to bring out in testimony the manner in which possessions of Miss Russell, who married Moore, in 1912, were disposed of after her death in 1922.

"The door has been opened wide, and will be opened as wide as counsel wants to," the judge added.

Moore Is Accused.

Mrs. Calvit charges Moore, coexecutor with the Union Trust Co., of Pittsburgh, of Miss Russell's estate, did not list 121 articles in the inventory of the estate. Testimony disclosed he purchased a pearl necklace belonging to his wife for $1,000 after having had it appraised. The appraisal, witnesses said, fixed the value of the jewelry at $8,500.

"Any man who would do this is not entitled to any mercy from this court, dead or alive, Judge Trimble said after Attorney Herman Pollack, of plaintiff's counsel, had said the necklace "was taken surreptitiously by Mr. Moore."

Mrs. Calvit seeks half of Moore's estate, valued at approximately $500,000. She received only $1,000 in the will of the former newspaper publisher and Ambassador to Spain.

Apartment Furniture Involved.

Cross-examination of Mrs. Mildred Martin, Moore's niece, disclosed that Moore had given her furnishings for her apartment. The plaintiff claims that articles similar to those described as having been in the apartment were the property of her mother, and that Moore should have accounted for them in the inventory of her mother's estate.

Jessie Sutherland, former secretary for Moore, testified her employer instructed her to remove certain articles from Mrs. Martin's apartment and send them to Peru, where he had been assigned as ambassador.

Among the articles she sent, she said, was a portrait of Miss Russell, painted by Howard Chandler Christy, whose deposition read yesterday said that Moore did not pay for it. The artist said that after Moore "raised a disturbance about the bill" he gave the portrait to Miss Russell.

WHEN SAN FRANCISCO BURNED

Stock Fire Insurance Met Its Supreme Test

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO San Francisco was in flames. The fourth day of the fire revealed 28,188 ruined buildings, covering 520 city blocks.

Thousands were left homeless. Property destruction reached the enormous total of 350 million dollars.

This one fire swept away all underwriting profit earned by the Stock Fire Insurance companies since 1860 and 80 million dollars in addition.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE companies paid more than 200 million dollars into the stricken city, and San Francisco stands today as a magnificent example of the restorative power of sound insurance and the courage and resourcefulness of its citizens.

Through succeeding years the Stock Fire Insurance companies comprising the National Board of Fire Underwriters have increased their efforts to make cities safer—protect life and property in all communities—reduce the possibility of San Francisco's experience being repeated anywhere.

When your vital organs fail to perform their work correctly—your bowels and kidneys can't throw off that waste material—before you realize it—you're growing hideously fat.

Take one-half teaspoonful of KRUSCHEN SALTS in a glass of hot water every morning—in three weeks set on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—your eyes sparkle with glorious health—you feel younger in body—keener in mind. KRUSCHEN will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

Get an 85c bottle of KRUSCHEN SALTS from any leading druggist anywhere in America (lasts 4 weeks). If this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—if you don't feel a superb improvement in health—so gloriously energetic—vigorously alive—your money cheerfully returned.

Note: When taking Kruschen for overweight you can reduce more swiftly by cutting out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar.

In two weeks Mrs. M. C. Taylor, of Lewisburg, W. Va., reduced her weight from 175 to 159½ pounds—Her headache is no more and shortness of breath is gone—"Thanks for such a good remedy," she writes. Peoples Drug Stores know all about Kruschen.

Miss Ruth Nichols—FASTEST FEMALE FLYER

Ruth Nichols sets NEW women's speed record using AMOCO products

TO the many laurels she has won in the past, Miss Nichols has now added the air speed record for women.

Taking off from Grosse Isle Airport, she covered the measured three-kilometer course at a speed of better than 210 miles per hour—29 miles per hour better than the previous women's record.

As in her previous record-breaking achievements, Miss Nichols used Amoco products exclusively. Amoco-Gas (Aviation Grade) enabled her to fly her supercharged motor wide open at the low altitude at which the record was made—while Amoco Motor Oils and Greases provided faultless lubrication.

Amoco Products will serve you just as faithfully and well in your automobile as they are serving Miss Nichols in the air. For the best of results—and the greatest economy—make it Amoco all the way!

200 WILL CANVASS IN PALESTINE DRIVE

All Jewish Organizations to Be Represented in Raising $60,000 Fund.

Approximately 200 volunteer workers will engage in the intensive week's canvass in behalf of the united Jewish campaign, it was announced today at drive headquarters at the Jewish Community Center.

Nearly all of the Jewish organizations in the city have provided workers for the $60,000 drive for European relief and Palestine rehabilitation. The following have been named captains in the drive army which starts its offensive Sunday:

Additional captains not identified with any particular society include Mrs. Charles Rosenthal, Bernard Danzansky, Morris Garfinkle, Mrs. Max Shapiro, Mrs. Samuel Benjamin, Mrs. Henry Oxenberg, Mrs. E. I. Levinson, Arthur J. Sundlum, Edward Ostrow Louis J. Raebach, Zalmen Henkin, I. Mendelsohn, Mrs. Harry Schwartz, Dr. J. Davidson, L. A. Pinck, Arthur Gottlieb, H. Epstein, J. J. Maso, Charles Stein and W. M. Sachs.

The campaign will be launched formally Sunday night with a banquet at the Mayflower Hotel in honor of Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith, prominent social worker and vice chairman of the drive, who is celebrating her sixtieth birthday anniversary on that day.

Reservations for the banquet are pouring in at the headquarters at the Jewish Community Center and a record throng is anticipated by Harold H. Levi, drive chairman.

Annulment Plea Says Husband Wed Illegally

Helen E. Bookholtz yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to annul her marriage to George E. Bookholtz, on the ground that at the time he married her he had a wife from whom he was not divorced.

She said a marriage ceremony was performed here April 22, 1922, and that she learned in September, 1930, of his other wife. She also asks restoration of her maiden name.

RULES FOR CONTEST

1—$10,000 in prizes to be distributed over seven weeks of amateur ad writing.

2—$1,000 in cash will be given for the best ad written by an amateur during the entire Post-Zain ad-writing campaign. To compete for this prize it will be necessary for contestants to write at least one ad about each of the 35 firms participating in the ad contest.

3—Grand weekly award of $100 will be given each week for the best ads during six periods of the ad-writing contest.

4—Five merchandise prizes for each of the 35 concerns will be given weekly during six weeks of the campaign.

5—Ads for the second week of the Post-Zain ad-writing campaign must be received prior to noon, Wednesday, April 22.

6—Ads submitted in competition for the grand award of $1,000 must be received prior to midnight, May 27.

7—Any one anywhere may compete for the prizes with the exception of newspaper employes and members of the advertising profession.

8—There are no obligations. No coupons to clip, no entrance fees to pay, no subscriptions to buy. One person may submit as many ads as he chooses. The more ads you write, the more prizes you may receive. The Post-Zain ad-writing contest may be entered at any time. Ads may be written about one or all concerns.

9—Write your ideas on one side only of a sheet of paper at least twice the size of a postcard. Place the name of the concern about which you are writing in the upper left-hand corner of the page. Place your own name and address, also telephone number, on the reverse of the advertisement and the envelope. Your contribution may be a slogan, a poem, a regular advertisement, a letter of testimonial, or an essay.

10—Winning advertisements will be selected by a committee of advertising experts. In the event of a tie, awards will be made to both.

11—All advertisements received become the property of the concerns about which they are written.

Ad-Writing Suggestions.

Prizes are given for ideas, not for grammar, spelling, punctuation, art work or layout.

Your ideas are likely to be new and original; your idea may win one or more prizes.

If you are not familiar with the advertisers about whom you are asked to write ads, study their service and merchandise; visit their shops, ask questions, and then jot down your ideas simply. Be brief and to the point.

If you can write a letter, you can write an ad. Get members of your family and your friends interested. Encourage them to write winning ads.

After you have tasted the Camel blend of choicest Turkish and mellowest Domestic tobaccos kept in prime fresh condition, just quit Camels if you can. HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

ARE WOMEN TO BE AMAZONS?

THE president of Ashland College, Dr. E. E. Jacobs, reports that a study of 6,000 girls, 18 to 19 years of age, indicates that the present day girl is a much finer physical specimen than was the woman of 50 years ago. She is 10 pounds heavier and 2 inches taller. The girth of her chest is 2½ inches greater and the capacity of her lungs for holding air has increased by 10 per cent.

Similar studies made in different parts of the world have led to the same conclusions on the part of other observers. We can acept this improvement as indisputable.

Dr. Jacobs suggests five explanations of his conclusions.

Perhaps college girls are now coming from racial stocks or family groups in which the individual is larger. If the entire female population were measured the same improvement might not be found.

Training in physical education may have caused these girls to grow unusually well.

The general standards of health are higher than formerly.

It may be that the general physical vigor of college girls 19 years old is increasing, while there is no improvement of that of people generally.

And finally, it may be that none but the vigorous girls are going to college.

Of these five, Dr. Jacobs asserts the improvement in general health conditions as a fact. The other four are possibilities. Of the five items covered, increase in weight is of least significance. Weight is variable. Change in diet or in fashion will vary it. This evidence indicates that those who worry about the supposed slimness of the modern girl have not informed themselves of the facts. Sometimes boys are told they must not smoke, since doing so will runt them. The modern girl who smokes like a stack is 2 inches taller than her smokeless grandmother.

The increase in chest girth and in lung capacity are proportionately the greater increases in this catalogue, and that they are so is indicative of a more active, vigorous life. Perhaps woman is returning to the muscle power and endurance of her burden-bearing sister of the days of semi-civilization. There are reasons for thinking that women are becoming narrower in the hips and broader in the shoulders. It is said that there have been times in the distant past when the bodies of women have approached the masculine type nearer than was the case 50 years ago. We may be headed toward these very old specifications.

KILLER KANE AND ARDALA HAD ESCAPED FROM ATLANTIS IN OUR SUBMARINE—BY FASTENING EXTRA JUMPING BELTS TO THEM I HAD MADE FLYING SUITS OF OUR DIVING SUITS.
LEAVING THE AIRLOCK WE SHOT FOR THE SURFACE OF THE SEA.
HOW DO WE KNOW KANE AND ARDALA WON'T CHANGE THEIR COURSE?
THE ATLANTIAN SWIMMERS HAVE SPREAD OUT IN A CORDON BEHIND THEM—I ARRANGED IT WITH NIJDEK.
AT THE SURFACE WE LET GO THE WEIGHTS—AND DRIFTED LIGHTLY UPWARD.
A SIGNAL FLAG—SO WE CAN FIND OUR WAY BACK—A JUMPING BELT LIFTS IT IN THE AIR—THE WEIGHT WILL ANCHOR IT.
WHAT'S THAT, BUCK?

MEMORIAL TO MILES UNVEILED AT RITES

Bishop Freeman Conducts Service at Cathedral for Noted Warrior.

A marble tablet memorial to Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, commander of the United States forces in the War with Spain, placed in the crypt of Washington Cathedral by the National Society of the Dames of the Loyal Legion, was unveiled yesterday afternoon at a special service conducted by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington.

Lieut. Miles Reber, grandson of Gen. Miles, unveiled the memorial following its presentation by Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, of Washington, daughter of the late Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, and national first vice president of the Dames of the Loyal Legion.

Expert on Indian Affairs.

The Dames of the Loyal Legion is composed of wives, daughters and granddaughters of the members of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, of which Gen. Miles was once commander in chief.

Gen. Miles died May 26, 1925. He was widely recognized as an authority on Indian affairs. He became brigadier general of the Regular Army in 1880. He was in command of the Department of Columbia, including Oregon, Idaho, Washington and Alaska, and the Department of the East. He served as military observer for the United States during the war between Turkey and Greece in 1897. Prior to his retirement in 1903 he was commissioned lieutenant general.

Gen. Miles began his military career in the Civil War. He was commissioned a brigadier general by President Lincoln in 1864. Later he was brevetd major general for gallantry in action and military ability. Congress thanked him for distinguished services in battles of the Old Wilderness and Spotsylvania.

Bishop Freeman Speaks.

The memorial tablet was designed by Miss Frances Grimes, of New York, pupil and assistant of Saint Gaudens. The tablet contains a portrait of Gen. Miles and an inscription, briefly reviewing his career.

After the unveiling Bishop Freeman made an address, paying tribute to many of the achievements in Gen. Miles' life. Among those present were the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, the Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, the Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick Hurley, Brig. Gen. Albert J. Bowley, representing the chief of staff; Col. Campbell Hodges, military aid to President Hoover, and Mrs. Samuel Reber, daughter of Gen. Miles.

Patriotic hymns were sung by the Washington Cathedral Choir of men and boys under direction of Edgar Priest, organist and choir master.

Insurance Chief to Be Named.

A new superintendent of insurance will probably be named today by the District Commissioners to succeed Thomas M. Baldwin, jr., who resigned recently to enter private business. Mr. Baldwin's resignation becomes effective April 28. The position has an entrance salary of $4,600. Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board, has had several candidates under consideration recently.

SPEAKER CHAMPIONS GOOD CAUSE LOBBIES

New York Official Defends Advice in Address to Women Voters.

Public officials, both elected and appointed, could get more real advice, suggestions and information by realistic conferences with the lobbyists for good causes than htey could from hours of platitudinous discussions in Cabinet meetings, according to Frances Perkins, industrial commissioner of the New York State Department of Labor.

She made this statement last night in an address before a banquet of members of the National League of Women Voters gathered here for a convention at the Wardman Park Hotel, speaking on lobbying and using as hre topic "Do Causes Need Representation?"

"Intelligent Government," Miss Perkins declared, "is one which over a period of several generations has foresight enough to prevent or mitigate economic disaster, to provide the basis of a sound social life for the community, social life based on good health, broad education, economic opportunities and stimulating cultural actvities and recreation.

Should Know Real Needs.

"The great problem of government in a democracy today is how to involve a proportion of the population in the business of government," she continued. "It is the duty of governments everywhere, and particularly of democracy, to know and understand the real needs of the people long before they come into the phase where a political party makes the fulfillment of these needs an issue. It is there that lobbying may do the most good."

In her address Miss Perkins declared that the next great questions before this Government are going to be programs for dealing with the prevention and mitigation of unemployment, and that the way in which Government and industry handle together the unemployment crisis will be the test of our democratic form of Government.

Col. William J. Donovan, former assistant to the Attorney General, who also was a speaker at the banquet, agreed with Miss Perkins that good lobbying and honest lobbyists were a necessary thing. He expanded the idea, and visualized a forum for lobbyists to crystallize public opinion and present it in easily digestible form to Congress.

Civilization More Complex.

Recalling that the Constitution provides for political representation, Col. Donovan said:

"The inadequacy of that system becomes more apparent as our civilization becomes more complex. Questions which, in the old days, were not essentially political could not be dealt with by political parties. Sectional interests arose which were not large enough to be national in scope and yet were too large to be settled by any local or State political organization."

Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the Women's Bureau, Department of Labor, told the convention that increased wages for 4,000,000 American women voters would help solve the unemployment situation.

"We have 8,500,000 employed women in America," she said, "and half of them are paid only $9, $10, and up to $15 a week. This means they have no buying power beyond the mere struggle to keep body and soul together. Give them more money and America's consumer capacity will be increased by many millions."

The convention voted to broaden its legislative program to include support for "an effectively coordinated system of Federal and State employment offices in which there is due regard for women." Another resolution was adopted reaffirming the belief of the organization that the nationality of women shall not be affected by marriage or a change during marriage in the nationality of the husband.

Girl and 2 Men Accused In Cab Driver's Robbery

A 19-year-old girl and her two male companions were ordered held for the action of the grand jury under bonds of $500 each after they had been given a preliminary hearing in Police Court yesterday on charges of having taken $16 and a $15 ring from George Grimes, of H street near Third street southeast. All pleaded not guilty.

The girl gave the name of Catherine McCormick, of H street near Second street northeast, and her companions gave their names as Floyd V. Uphoff, a sailor, and Arundel Robinson. The trio are said to have been in a taxicab with Grimes in Southeast Washington when he claimed he had been robbed.

SHOREHAM DEEDS DETAILS ARE REFUSED BY RHEEM

of "using the mails to defraud" might be involved.

"Did the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. have anywhere sufficient funds to pay off the notes?" was Jackson's next attempt, but Rheem again refused to reply. Tobriner said the question was leading to a more material one, which might show conversion of funds in the special account.

Rheem told the creditors that about 1,000 noteholders were paid off when the deed of trust was released, but it would be necessary to go over each of their cards before he could say who they were, or how much they received. He said it would have been physically impossible to have notified all of the noteholders at the time of the release—that letters advising them to come to the offices for payment were sent out alphabetically, but the alphabet was never completed.

Jackson wanted to know if noteholders received any part of the $900,000 withdrawn from the banks. Rheem claimed immunity. Jackson likewise was unsuccessful in getting Rheem to explain why the company required an officer of the bank to write a letter stating that $2,341,000 was on deposit in the company's account on July 16.

Hurley-Wright Quiz.

The witness was closely questioned concerning the exchange of equity in the Hurley-Wright Building for equity in the Shoreham Building, involved in the sale of the property to the Shoreham Investment Corporation. Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and Joseph Cromwell, Oklahoma oil man, are principal stockholders in the latter concern.

Rheem said he considered the transaction to the advantage of his company, as the Hurley-Wright Building, rented to the Federal Government, "was paying 7 per cent on $1,000,000, and the Shoreham Building had not begun to pay returns." He said McKeever & Goss, Washington real estate house, engineered the transaction, and that the names of "straw men," employes of the company were used in conveying title to the Hurley-Wright Building.

Contract Is Found.

Rheem was examined on various phases of the Shoreham building transaction by George E. Sullivan, Marcus Borchardt and J. C. Hammack, attorneys representing individual creditors, at a short afternoon session. On one occasion he volunteered to help Henry P. Blair, one of the trustees, to search files for the contract involved in the Hurley-Wright trade. His offer was accepted, and the contract was found.

During Sullivan's examination he testified he drew a salary of $18,000 as vice president of the company; that Luther A. Swartzell, nominal president, drew $12,000; J. Newton Brewer, second vice president, $10,000; John H. Holmead, treasurer, $7,500, and George P. Hunt, secretary, $6,000. Although Swartzell was the titular head, Rheem said it was he, Rheem, who actually directed the operations of the concern.

Records Are Produced.

Rheem told the creditors bankruptcy had not been "even so much as talked about" until two days before the announcement was made, and that the company was not in "financial straits" until that time. He said they were "short of cash" because money was "tied up in equities." He denied that the company ever purchased real estate "except for the protection of clients."

Ledgers and records bearing on the Shoreham Building sale were produced by officials of the New York Title & Mortgage Co. and the Riggs National Bank at the outset of the hearing, in compliance with a subpena obtained Wednesday by Jackson.

The examination of Rheem will be continued at 10 o'clock this morning, when the Shoreham Building will again come up for discussion, then the Westchester.

Work on Westchester Apartments Resumed

Work on the Westchester Apartments, held up since bankruptcy proceedings were instituted by the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., was resumed yesterday. The project will be rushed to completion by fall, according to an announcement by Gustave Ring, president of the Westchester Development Corporation.

The Westchester, which will be one of the largest groups of housekeeping apartments in the city when completed, is involved in the Swartzel, Rheem & Hensey bankruptcy proceedings through failure of the bankrupt firm to retire notes outstanding after releasing the deeds of trust on the property.

This development will be taken up today by creditors of the defunct concern at a hearing before Referee in Bankruptcy Fred J. Eden, at the company offices. A large part of the assets of the company are represented by a trust on the unimproved ground of the Westchester Corporation. Litigation involving the released trusts is now pending in the District Supreme Court.

EDITORS, PRESIDENT EXCHANGE OPINIONS

Meeting Here Wires Greetings to Representative Papers All Over World.

In a round-table discussion at the White House, characterized as the first of its kind ever held, President Hoover last night informally exchanged views on a variety of topics with members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, who opened their three-day annual convention in the afternoon at the National Press Club.

The day's opening program was marked by two major addresses, introduction of a vitriolic resolution to censure a notable member, several welcomes and a novel feature in which Fred Fuller Shedd, editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin and president of the society, wired greetings to representative newspapers in twelve cities over the globe.

Lauds Press on Relief.

In his opening addres sas president, Mr. Shedd lauded the press for contributing materially to relief in the present depression, but urged newspaper sto center attention on means to prevent recurrence of hard times.

"I believe that there is no problem more seriously threatening the fundamental welfare of the people of the United States and the institutions of social and economic order which have served us so well and which are typical of our national ideals," he said.

"If we do not want to risk the danger of blundering negligens; if we do not want to incur the peril which government doles Have brought upon Great Britain; if we want properly and scientifically to diagnose the ailment and to determine a remedy adequate for our ills, the newspapers of the United States must be prepared and active.

There is no pending or prospective issue of politics, whether it be peril of a power trust or a mater of international relations, more pertinent and more imperatively demanding newspaper service in news and editorial columns than this readustment of the industrial world for recovery from its present disorder."

Warns Against Press Agents.

Lincoln B. Palmer general manager American Newspaper Publishers' Aswere suffering a substantial loss in revenue by ruses of press agents in obtaining news column space for matter that should be handled as paid advertising. He presented exhibits to prove his case, and pointed out that newspapers now are receiving the smallest share of the advertiser's dollar.

Willis J. Abbott, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, offered a resolution seeking to amend the by-laws to empower the board of directors to discipline members. The convention voted, without dissent, to refer it to the resolutions committee for subsequent report and consideration. Mr. Abbott said the proposal was aimed at former Senator Luke Lea, of Nashville, Tenn., prominent publisher, who he termed as "a man under indictment for serious violations of the banking laws."

Clube President Extends Greeting.

Authorities Are Undecided Whether to Destroy $500,000 Haul.

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—John J. Hamilton, an Englishman, who arrived Tuesday on the steamship Europa with $500,000 worth of English Derby lottery tickets in his luggage, was free today to do as he pleases, but Government authorities had not decided whether to destroy the tickets.

On shipboard Hamilton read a news bulletin telling of the seizure here of tickets that had been brought over on the Aquitania. When he arrived he told a customs inspector he wanted to declare the contents of five of his trunks and have them returned to Southampton in bond. This forthrightness won him personal immunity.

Hamilton plans to return to England, leaving his tickets here pending a ruling by the Government.

Victoria, British Columbia, April 16 (A.P.).—A message today from the liner Empress of Japan reported improvement in the condition of King Pradjadhipok of Siam, who has been slightly ill during the voyage across the Pacific.

The king, who will travel incognito across Canada and the United States as Prince Sukhodaye, has canceled engagements here and in Vancouver.

Thirteenth Precinct Private Earns Expert Award of Association.

PVT. E. C. MOORE

Policeman E. C. Moore, of the Thirteenth Precinct, did some fancy pistol work at the Camp Simms National Guard Range last Sunday and, as a result, is the possessor of three new badges to tack on his wall.

Moore, who is one of the crack shots of the department, will receive the coveted distinguished expert marksman's badge of the National Rifle Association. This is awarded to pistolmen who, for three years running, are able to turn in a score of at least 255 out of a possible 300. This is a 30-shot test, viz: 10 shots rapid fire at 25 yards; 10 shots timed fire at 25 yards and 10 shots slow fire at 50 yards. Sunday Moore's card was 264, and they were well above the required total in 1929 and 1930.

The other badges garnered by the Thirteenth Precinct marksman were the Army qualifying course "D" and the N. R. A. gallery expert award. The former was for 94.50 score at 15 and 25 yards, and the latter for a 265 out of 300 score at 10 yards.

Moore is probably the first Washington policeman ever to win the distinguished expert marksman's badge. The tests were held under the auspices of the National Capital Rifle Club, of which he is a member.

Angelo Serio, 20 years old, of 1406 First street northeast, was seriously injured yesterday in a fall from a ladder while working on an awning in front of the Driscoll Hotel. He was taken to Casualty Hospital for treatment of a possible fracture of the skull.

A watch, stolen from a clerk in the Census Bureau last October, was found in a pawn shop by Detective Sergt. J. Flaherty and a colored laborer was yesterday charged with the theft.

The timepiece is the property of Mavis Colbert, 1111 Columbia road northwest. Detective Sergt. Flaherty found the watch in a pawn shop, traced it through several hands and finally arrested John K. Cope, of Forty-second street near P street northwest.

Injured Pilot Rushed To Capital by Plane

Suffering from a fracture of the back, sustained Wednesday in landing by parachute from a plane at Columbus, Ohio, Sergt. Harry McMillan, of the Army Air Corps, was resting comportably last night at Walter Reed Hospital here.

He was rushed here shortly after the accident in the ambulance plane which recently was added to the Air Corps equipment. The plane, stationed at Wright Field, in Dayton, Ohio, received him at Dayton and flew him to Bolling Field here.

AMERICAN BANKERS TO IMPROVE SYSTEM

Asscciation Closes Session at Augusta With Plan for Better Work.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Promotion of better banking was emphasized at the concluding session of the executive council meeting, American Bankers Association, at Augusta, Ga., by Fred N. Shepard, executive manager of the association. Local bankers returning last night from the meeting said Mr. Shepherd declared this to be the great task before the association. He admitted fine work had been effected, but reminded the meeting there is still more to be done.

Thomas B. Paton, association general counsel, described the uniform bank collection code as the greatest boon to the bankers in simplifying the law in regard to bank collections, especially in the case of failure of banks, where preference is created in the assets of an insolvent bank which has collected an item and has failed to remit.

S. H. Peulicher, Milwaukee, chairman of the educational foundation, comprising a fund of $500,000 for loans to students specializing in banking and economics throughout the country, reported the foundation committee was highly gratified with the results obtained.

More 6s to Be Retired.

The executive and finance committee of the board of directors of International Business Machines Corporation has voted to deposit with Guaranty Trust Co., trustee, sufficient money to retire $250,000 face or principal value of the outstanding Computing-Tabulating-Recording collateral 6s of 1941. There were originally outstanding $7,000,000 of this issue, of which $4,012,000 face value has previously been retired from surplus cash. At the conclusion of the redemption just voted, there will remain outstanding $2,737,000 of these bonds.

This issue represents the only outstanding funded indebtedness of International Business Machines Corporation. Earnings of the company for 1930, after depreciation, &c., and available for bond interest, were equivalent to more than 45 times the interest requirement on the amount of bonds outstanding at the end of the year.

Class 1 railroads on March 31 had 621,509 surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday.

This was a decrease of 417 cars compared with March 23, at which time there were 621,926 surplus freight cars.

Miss Burroughs Is Named to Head Committee on Negro Welfare.

Miss Nannie H. Burroughs, president of the National Training School for Women and Girls, at Lincoln Heights, has been named by President Hoover to head a national committee on Negro housing. The national committee will meet here with President Hoover April 24 and 25.

Earnings of Burlington Are Below Dividend

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—Net earnings of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad failed by $330,000 of attaining divivdend requirements during the first quarter, F. E. Williamson, president, said today at a meeting of the board. Results of January and February estimates for March were used.

The road pays a 10 per cent dividend, which totals $4,269,000 quarterly. Mr. Williamson would not estimate earnings for April. The board took no action on gaining control of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern system, of which it owns 26 per cent of the stock.

Sinclair and Prairie Oil Merger Predicted

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—Wall street is again talking of a possible merger or affiliation of the Prairie Oil and Gas Co. and the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation.

This $600,000,000 combine, as based on assets shows in latest balance sheets, has been on and off the fire for some time. It was announced last autumn that the deal was definitely off, owing to inability to agree on terms. Since then there has been no official intimation of a resumption of negotiations.

Paris, April 16 (A. P.)—The Spanish peseta shot downward on the exchange today, going as low as 2.59 francs a peseta and ending at 2.64 as compared with a closing of 2.70 francs a peseta yesterday.

REBUILD YOUR STRENGTH
the new strength that comes with taking S.S.S.
. . . particularly is this IMPORTANT in the spring, after colds, flu and sickness

MANY are weakened by the epidemics of colds and flu in winter and the body therefore has less resistance against further disease attacks.

When your vitality is low—you feel weak—have lost your appetite, the chances are that cold or the flu or some other sickness has destroyed many of your red-blood-cells and your body has not the strength to properly assimilate and use the food you eat.

When your red-blood-cells are reduced to 80% you are not yourself. 50% is dangerous. Your body may be demanding more red-blood-cells. You need these health-building and health-sustaining cells to build and repair tissue and give you strength.

S.S.S. is famed for its ability to increase the red-blood-cells. This is why for over 100 years it has been popular for toning up the system—especially in the spring. And being purely vegetable, S.S.S. has no harmful effects upon the system.

Every spring countless thousands take S.S.S. to build back their red-blood-cells so that they may have that new strength which makes for a keen appetite, firm flesh, a clear skin and greater resistance against infection and disease. You, too, will want to take S.S.S. for this very reason. Select the larger size as it holds double the quantity and represents a price-saving.

Automatic Gas Heat - - - -

BECAUSE Automatic Gas Heat brings no dirt into the home and creates none, both housekeeping and housecleaning are made measurably easier.

No dust or soot ever sifts up through the house. No grimy vapors ever take their toll of rugs, drapery, clothing or painted surfaces. Daily housework is lightened and seasonal cleanings, the dread of so many households, require only a fraction of the time and energy formerly demanded. Redecorating, with its accompanying heavy expense, is postponed by years.

These "hidden savings" which 2,000 Washington families enjoy are just one of the many advantages which combine to make Automatic Gas Heat "the greatest single convenience" you can have in your home. Installation can be made in one day at your convenience. Ten per cent down and no further payments until next September.

The new low house heating rate has put the luxury of Automatic Gas Heat within the reach of the average man. In the District there is a consumption charge of 60 cents a thousand cubic feet and a demand charge of $2 for each 100 cubic feet of maximum hourly demand. The combined rate works out at around 75 cents a thousand cubic feet as compared with the former rate of $1. Call National 8280 for a reliable estimate of yearly cost.

STOCK PRICES CLOSE LOWER AFTER RALLY

Steel Common Governs Market; Issue Sells Off in Final Dealings.

New York, April 16 (A.P.)—A quiet decline in stocks was interrupted by sluggish rallies today, but although the movement as a whole was much narrower than yesterday, closing prices were lower.

The market was governed rather closely by the fluctuating fortunes of United States Steel common, which bobbed about erratically. It made a new low since 1927 when the 40 per cent stock dividend was declared almost recovered its loss and then sold off in the final dealings, to close at 132, down 1¾. The day's minimum was 131¼.

General Electric, American Telephone, American Can and Westinghouse were fractionally lower most of the day, although Can broke toward the close and lost 2 points net. General Motors received assistance from the March sales statement, while Bethlehem Steel acted much better than in recent sessions. A late feature was a 4-point break in National Biscuit following reports that the company's plants were operating at a lower rate. Rails weakened into new low ground; Southern Railway preferred sold at the lowest price since 1923, and Union Pacific was down to 1927 levels. Total sales approximated 2,300,000 shares.

The best of the several rallies came in the last hour when a representative assortment of stocks made up their losses, only to turn down again with U. S. Steel. A large majority of the net declines ranged from a fraction to 2 points, but there were several softer spots in the specialties. International Silver dropped 10½, Gulf States Steel preferred 15, Auburn Auto 9, and Industrial Rayon and International Business Machines 6 each. L. S. Starrett recovered 2 points of an extreme loss of 8½.

Money firmed late in the afternoon and the call rate on the Stock Exchange went to 2 per cent. A succession of deposit withdrawals by the Treasury, as well as the effect of the mid-month settlements were apparently the responsible factors. The $27,000,000 gain in brokers' loans, although coming in a week when stock prices averaged slightly higher, was attributed in some measure to borrowing for State income tax payments.

Seasonal gains in foreign trade were evident in the statistics for last month, which represented an improvement over February, but the rise was not particularly impressive. Exports were up $11,000,000 and imports $36,000,000 in comparison with February, yet the respective declines from March, 1930, amounted to about 35 and 30 per cent.

Business news of the day was meager. Steel scrap prices at Pittsburgh weakened and first quarter earnings reports, mostly by companies of secondary importance, were largely unfavorable in their relation to a year ago. An exception was National Steel, which earned its dividend by a comfortable margin in the three months.

Late wheat deliveries firmed, but there was some irregularity in earlier months. Changes in corn were nominal. Cotton showed improvement over the past two or three days, closing 2 points higher to 3 lower.

The Argentine peso slumped with the change in government and Spain's peseta lost a considerable portion of yesterday's gain on the reported statement of her finance minister that the stabilization credit would not be used. Other foreign currencies were dull.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 16 (A.P.)—Reports that Argentina had deluged transatlantic countries with Wheat offerings unsettled grain prices today. Exchange rates on Argentina suffered a break and Buenos Aires wheat quotations dropped 2¼ cents per bushel. These results were attributed to disturbed political conditions in South America and in Europe. Late speculative trading, however, in which Chicago September and December deliveries of wheat were bought against sales of July helped to bring about rallies.

Wheat closed irregular, ranging from as cent setback to ⅞ cent advance, corn ⅜ cent off to ¼ cent up, oats, ⅛@¼ cent down to ¼ cent gain and provisions unchanged to 15 cents decline.

Aiding in the late rallies in wheat were assertions that the Government report on domestic farm reserve stocks would prove to be little if any above a five-year average of 97,179,000 bushels. The official figures, which came after the market had closed, were bearish, totaling 114,000,000 bushels, but were about offset by the fact that the disappearance from farms between March 1 and April 1 was 42,299,000 bushels, the largest amount for any corresponding period in six years. A further help to late upturns in wheat prices were fresh reports of serious infestation of Hessian fly in parts of Nebraska and Kansas.

Bears in wheat laid much stress on big shipments from Argentina and the Black Sea, the Argentine total for the week being 4,410,000 bushels, against 1,670,000 a year ago. Black Sea shipments this week were 1,200,000 bushels, compared with only 168,000 the same time last year. Fresh low price records for securities counted also as a bearish factor. However, continued excessively dry weather in the American and Canadian Northwest acted as a curb on selling. North American wheat export business amounted to but 200,000 bushels, contrasting sharply with recent big purchases for overseas.

Corn and oats were under considerable selling pressure at times, partly on account of wheat weakness and partly owing to larger receipts of corn.

Provisions sympathized with declines in cereals, notwithstanding upturns in hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July 63¼, 65¼; September 62¼, 65; December 65⅛, 67½. Corn—May, 60⅞; July 63⅛, 64¼; September 61¼, 62½; December, 54¼, 55.

BOND PRICES CLOSE WITH SMALL GAINS

Foreign Issues Provide Many Changes; Australians Net 2 Points.

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—The bond market wavered back and forth today, and closing prices in the majority of instances represented small net changes, although one or two groups were firm at times.

Trading was more active after the opening, but slackened in the afternoon. The turnover in the counter market was unusually light. Sales on the stock exchange totaled $8,674,000 at par value, compared with $9,046,000 on Wednesday.

Foreign issues provided more net changes than any other group. The official announcement that the British government would reduce by $6,000,000 a year for three years the amount which the Australian government would be required to pay on its war debt to the home government and extend by two years the time in which the principal must be paid proved a boon to Australian obligations.

The two issues of 5 per cent bonds of the Commonwealth government made net gains of 2 points and the provincial issues benefited fractionally. Brazilian obligations followed coffee and milreis exchange downward. Argentine bonds made mixed changes. City and Province of Cordoba loans eased off on the news from Spain.

Rail issues provided a two-sided movement. Bonds of second-grade and speculative standing experienced some selling pressure, but the gilt-edge issues were in good demand. The liquidation was ascribed principally to institutional accounts. Legal investment public utilities were in demand also, but their gains were small. Industrial bonds were quiet and steady. Stock privilege obligations followed the corresponding stocks downward.

The comptroller of New York City has arranged a short-term loan of $41,000,000 with a group of bankers at 1 7-8 per cent.

NATS QUELL RALLY IN NINTH TO BEAT MACKMEN, 5-4

Tauscher Turns in Victory After Relieving Crowder; McDonald Hammered Out

A's Score 2 in Ninth, Game Ends With Bases Full.

Cronin's Error Is Aid; Earnshaw Relieves Mack's Rookie.

BY FRANK H. YOUNG

JUDGING from what has taken place here so far this baseball season, unless the medical association gets busy and has the baseball rules committee legislate the ninth inning out of the game, an epidemic of heart attacks is bound to reduce the population of Washington.

Yesterday, for the second time in three days, the world's champion Athletics rallied in the final frame, and gave about 10,000 fans quite a scare. They scored two runs and had the bases full when the final out was turned in. Fortunately for the Nationals, however, they had entered the round with a three-run margin, so they were still one to the good, winning, 5 to 4.

As a matter of fact, Griffith Stadium was no place for any one with a weak heart yesterday, for the thrills came in rapid order as a result of both good and bad playing. "General" Alvin Crowder started for the Nationals, and how he lasted as long as he did is a miracle, for he appeared to have nothing. Manager Johnson kept hoping that he would hit his stride, and finally gave up in the fifth, after Miller had led off with a double, and gave Wally Tauscher a chance to show what he could do in his big-league debut.

Tauscher Performs Creditably.

And the rookie took full advantage of the opportunity offered and turned in a mighty creditable performance. He found the going plenty rough in the ninth, however, but Johnson let him stay and he weathered the gale with colors flying. It was this rally which climaxed a game already packed with thrills and which kept the fans who usually start easing toward the exits, glued in their chairs.

Tauscher easily disposed of Pinch-hitter Moore, up for Boley starting the ninth, fanning him, but Cramer, hitting for Earnshaw, bounded one high off the plate and got to first before the ball came down. Bishop's single to right and Haas' to short left then packed the aisles and one scored on Cochrane's bounder to Judge. On orders from Johnson, Simmons, who had been intentionally walked in the fifth under similar conditions, was passed again, once more populating all of the sacks. Then Todt rolled to Judge and it looked as though the game was over when the first sacker whipped the ball to second for a force play. The usually reliable Cronin dropped the peg, however, and another run scored.

With only a hit needed to beat him and Bing Miller up following this miscue, it was a ticklish spot for Tauscher, but Johnson decided to let him work out his own salvation and he did, forcing the slugging right fielder to pop weakly to Cronin, who took special pains to hold on to the ball this time.

Crowder Wobbly From Start.

The Mackmen threatened every inning Crowder was on the hill, getting useless triples in the first and second and a walk and a single in the third, which were nullified only by a fine catch by Myer, who turned a liner off Haas' bat into a double play. Opening the fourth, Simmons poled a homer into the left field stands for his first circuit clout of the year.

In the fifth Crowder had more trouble, being told to pass Simmons to fill the bases with two gone after Bishop had walked and been doubled to third by Cochrane. A really great catch by Harry Rice saved him here, as had another by the same player in the first and a masterpiece by Sam Rice in the third before Myer started his nobby twin murder.

Miller, who doubled before Crowder was yanked in the sixth, scored on Dykes' single and Tauscher then had no troubles until the flare-up in the ninth.

Meanwhile, "Hank" McDonald, Portland rookie, had traveled at an even keel until the fourth, when the Nationals scored twice to take the lead. Sam Rice's opening single, Manush's swinging bunt, which he beat out, Cronin's one-baser and Judge's useful out were responsible for these markers.

McDonald Takes Shower.

McDonald heard the shower call in the "lucky" frame, when the Nats scored again and had the runways crowded before Earnshaw could stop the onslaught. Spencer's opening single, Tauscher's sacrifice, Sam Rice's one-baser and Manush's double were used to make this run and when Cronin walked, filling the bases, McDonald was walked by Connie Mack. Earnshaw stopped this advance by holding Judge to an outfield fly, but he was punished in the next round.

This eighth netted two more runs and, as things turned out, decided the game. Harry Rice started proceedings with a lusty triple off the right-field fence and registered on Spencer's "squeeze" bunt, on which the batter was safe when Earnshaw pegged badly to first. Tauscher laid down another sacrifice and singles by Myer and Sam Rice drove home what proved to be the deciding run.

Of Washington's ten hits, Sam Rice accounted for three, with Manush and Spencer getting two apiece, while Dykes was high gun for the A's, with three.

NATS INVADE ANNAPOLIS TODAY

Resume With Macks Tomorrow; Foxx Is Out Indefinitely.

NO league action is scheduled for the Nationals and Athletics this afternoon, although the two will end their series in Griffith Stadium tomorrow at 3 o'clock. Neither team will idle today, however, the Nationals journeying to Annapolis for a courtesy contest with the Navy Midshipmen, while the Athletics will hop to Richmond to that city's Eastern League entry, which is piloted by old Cy Williams, former Philly outfielder.

Manager Walter Johnson will take all of his regulars, except Joe Judge, Heinie Manush and Ossie Bluege, to the Maryland capital, with Bob Burke scheduled to do the pitching. This game will give him an opportunity to play Outfielder Sammy West with a view toward reinstating him in the regular line-up.

Johnson is more than pleased with the manner in which Harry Rice has performed during West's illness. He has been hitting well and has shown as much class as a fly chaser as West—which is saying something. In yesterday's game alone, Harry made two catches which few fly hawks in the league could duplicate.

West Will Get Call When Ready.

When West is ready he will get the call, though. Johnson stated last night: "I'm not going to rush Sam," the Nat leader said, "for, the way Harry Rice has been going, I don't have to take any chances on using West before he is ready. I think this probably will be in Sunday's game."

When the Athletics and Nationals resume their series tomorrow, fans will be given a look at the old-timer, "Sad Sam" Jones, who will make his 1931 season's debut. The melancholy one always has been effective against the Men of Mack and he hopes to come through with a victory tomorrow. His record against them last season was two victories and one defeat. Bob (Lefty) Grove probably will do the hurling for the Mackmen. The Macks need a victory to even the series.

First baseman Jimmy Foxx, of the Athletics, is out for an indefinite period as a result of the injury he received while rounding second base in the fourth inning of Wednesday's game. On Dykes' single to right, Jimmy rounded second at a fast clip and then pulled up short, his spikes catching when he did so and pulling a muscle in his left knee.

Foxx was sent back to Philadelphia Wednesday night for an X-ray photograph and treatment by a nationally known specialist. Just how long the heavy-hitting first baseman will be out will not be known until a report is received today.

James Boys Playing In Rice Uniforms.

The two best plays seen here this young season were made by the Rice boys yesterday. In the third, Sam tore in toward the foul line to make a really great back-hand grab of Bishop's liner with a man on, while Harry, two frames later, cut over toward right and literally dove for Todt's drive. He also took the sphere with his gloved hand, gathering it in only a few inches from the ground and turning a complete somersault before coming up with the ball.

Catcher Mickey Cochrane bluffed Roy Spencer, his rival, into thinking he had fanned starting the home

Yankees Win On Errors by Lisenbee

Wild Heave to Plate in Ninth Results in 2-1 Defeat.

Blanked by Pennock for 6 Innings, Sox Tie Score.

NEW YORK, April 16 (A.P.).—Hod Lisenbee, Boston pitcher, threw away a ball game in the ninth inning today after staging a close duel with Herb Pennock and the Yankees won their third straight game from the Red Sox, 2 to 1.

With the bases full in the ninth, Lisenbee made a wild heave in an attempt to force Lazzeri at the plate on Dickey's roller letting the winning run in.

Pennock blanked the Sox for the first six innings, allowing them eight hits altogether. But Webb's double, Rhyne's sacrifice and Oliver's single gave Boston a run and kept the score tied up to the ninth. The Yanks scored in the opening inning as Lou Gehrig's triple brought Babe Ruth home.

Grantham's Home Run In Eighth Defeats Cubs

Chicago, April 16 (A.P.).—George Grantham's home run with Lloyd Waner on base in the eighth inning today gave Pittsburgh a 4-to-3 victory over the Cubs, their first triumph of the season.

The Cubs outhit the Pirates, nine to six, but twelve men were left stranded on the bases. Sheriff Fred Blake started for the Cubs and, although wild, did well until the eighth when the game was lost. Bud Teachout and Pat Malone finished, with Heine Meine and Glenn Spencer dividing the work for Pittsburgh.

Hack Wilson came to bat three times with men on, but failed to hit safely. Woody English, Cub shortstop, handled eleven chances without a misplay.

Tigers Defeat Browns, 6 to 5, in 12 Innings

St. Louis, April 16 (A.P.).—Three extra innings were required by the Detroit Tigers to win their initial victory of the season, but after suffering two defeats during this series they defeated the Browns, 6 to 5.

H. Walker, Tiger rookie, dropped a fly in the ninth and enabled St. Louis to tie the score. Waddey made the tying run when Kress' long fly slipped from the Detroiter.

In the tenth John Stone knocked a home run to put the Tigers in the lead again, Schulte barely missing a drive to deep center.

The Browns came back to even the count when Ferrell was walked, and McNeeley, who ran for him, went to third on Kimsey's single and then scored on Levy's long fly.

Gehringer doubled in the twelfth and scored on Alexander's single.

League Race Draws Va. Teams

Del Ray Is Among Entries; Plans Are Made.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

PROSPECTS for a good season in the Virginia section of the Capital City League assumed a rosy hue last night when plans for the impending season were discussed by league officials in room 2 of the District Building.

Five teams appear certain of being ready when the opening day arrives, and the annual race for The Post's gold baseballs begins. These teams are: Del Ray, Engine Company No. 4, Warrenton, Leesburg, and the Virginia White Sox. Mr. R. E. McDonald, who is aiding in the organization of the Virginia section, announced that Samuel De Vaughn, of the Cardinal Athletic Club, was hopeful of having a team organized and placed in the league, but that the actual status of the club will not be determined until after a meeting scheduled for tonight. Should the Cardinals fail to put a team on the field this season, it will be the first in many a year that their colors have not been seen in diamond action.

Leading Teams in League.

Mr. P. P. Clark, representing the Del Ray nine, pointed out that should the Virginia teams fail to work together and compete in the league this season they would have a hard time scheduling games with strong Washington teams, since all of the leading combinations in the Nation's Capital are organized and waiting for the opening of league play. These teams will be playing in the league every Sunday from May 3 on. No less than fourteen teams are entered in the Washington division.

The Alexandria teams, and those in the surrounding suburbs, are blessed with an abundance of well-groomed playing fields, a condition that should encourage more teams this year.

Another meeting is planned for next week, at which definite plans will be announced. No opening date was selected by the representatives last night, in order that the teams which may join the circuit the latter part of the week will have a voice in the matter.

Mr. R. E. McDonald can furnish teams desiring to enter, with details of the league, or they can secure the same from the Sports Editor of the Alexandria Gazette, or the league secretary at The Washington Post.

Giants Make 20 Hits In Downing Phils, 14-4

Philadelphia, April 16 (A.P.).—The New York Giants massacred four Philadelphia pitchers today, touching the quartet for 20 hits to beat the Phillies, 14 to 4. Jumbo Jim Elliott started for the Phils, but went out after yielding five runs in the fifth inning. He was followed by Dutch Schesler, Ben Shields and Ed Fallenstein, none of whom was effective.

The Giants put over seven more runs in the eighth inning on a walk, eight hits and a Philly error.

Clarence Mitchell, veteran spitball pitcher, held the Phillies in check throughout, allowing nine hits.

"Bonesetter" Reese Is Ill; Treated Notable Patients

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, April 16 (A.P.).—John D. ("Bonesetter") Reese, known in all parts of the world for his skill in setting bones and fixing sprained and torn muscles or people who earn their livelihood with their arms, legs and bodies, is seriously ill with heart disease at his home here.

His condition was reported slightly improved tonight.

Mr. Reese, who is 76 years old, for years has held special charge over many major league baseball players. Each year he treats about 30 circus acrobats when the big tents come to Youngstown.

Among Mr. Reese's patients have been Lloyd George, former prime minister of Great Britain, and Ty Cobb, famous baseball player. Mr. Reese was left an orphan at the age of 11. He came to Youngstown in 1887, after leaving Wales early that year. Like many other Welshmen he went into the steel mills here and became a roller's helper. He had watched the bonesetters in Wales and had acquired some of their art, which he practiced upon fellow mill workers who were injured. Soon his facility in treating sprains and dislocations led to city-wide, then State-wide, and finally to national renown.

Mr. Reese quit mill work to give his full time to his profession in 1894. A few years later a special act of the Ohio Legislature gave him a license to practice. He holds no degree.

In 1926 the American Gorsedd, Welsh organization, conferred upon him the highest Druidic degree for distinguished service to humanity.

CARNERA BAN LIFTED BY NEW YORK

Garden Plans Court Battle to Prevent Sharkey Bout.

NEW YORK, April 16 (A.P.).—The shackles were stripped from the wrists of Primo Carnera by the New York State Athletic Commission today and for the first time in a year, fistically speaking, he was a free man again.

The solemn fathers lifted the suspension that has hung over the Italian giant since April 30, 1930, without a word of explanation, although every one in town knew it was scheduled for today.

Carnera, back in good standing, now is free to fight Jack Sharkey for Jimmy Johnson at Ebbets Field July 10 on a hugh charity card, but Madison Square Garden insists it has a prior lien on his services.

Garden Serves Notice Of Prior Contract.

While Johnson is expected to announce definitely that he has closed the Carnera-Sharkey match, the Garden, on behalf of its Illinois subsidiary, already has served notice to all parties concerned that it holds a contract calling for Primo to fight no one but the winner of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling heavyweight title go in Cleveland. Attorneys for the corporation notified the commission, Johnson, Carnera, Sharkey and a few others by letter today that the law would be called in to prevent any breaches of that contract.

Farley, when he read the letter, grinned a wide and satisfied grin.

"This letter," he said, "is written acknowledgment that Madison Square Garden has been dealing with a suspended boxer. We have rules providing very severe punishment for that."

Open Warfare Due To Break Out.

The hidden warfare between the commission and the Garden is due to break wide open as soon as the signing of Carnera for a rival match is announced. Since the Garden went ahead against the wishes of the commission and signed Max Schmeling for the Stribling go, overlooking the father's request that the Garden be forced to give Sharkey a return engagement, relations between the two organizations have been strained.

The commission has intimated it will recognize no contract signed with Carnera during the period of his suspension and is ready to sanction a Carnera-Sharkey battle as a rival heavyweight title attraction to the Garden show scheduled for July 3 in Cleveland. Any Garden attempt to force the situation into court seems certain to bring retaliatory measures from the commission.

Monterey, Calif., April 16 (A.P.).—Suspension of Primo Carnera in California "will stand," Bob Edgren, of the California Athletic Commission, declared here today, despite the giant Italian heavyweight's reinstatement by the New York Boxing Commission.

MAGNIFICO OUTRUNS DERBY CANDIDATES AT HAVRE

Whitney Colt Leads From Barrier

Robertson Again on 3 Winners; Gets 3-Day Suspension.

Con Amore Scores by Length, Odds-on, in Feature.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 16. C. V. Whitney's Magnifico, 3-year-old son of Bunting, running with an assortment of Preakness and Derby candidates, but having no large stake engagements himself, ran an impressive race in the Edgemere for 3-year-old colts and geldings, winning by two lengths and leading after the first few jumps. The Seagram Stable's Sol Gillis was second and D. C. Sands' My Broom third. The time was 1:11. The winner paid $3.40.

Magnifico is the first horse saddled this year by Tom Healy, chief trainer for the Whitney Stable, and he had his horse ready. He had a good rider in Albert Robertson to steer his mount in a true line from start to finish. Only once did Magnifico seem to halt, but one lash from Robertson and he came again, never losing the lead.

Sol Gills Proves Surprise.

Sol Gills, the second horse, and a Derby candidate, was a surprise in the race. He rushed past My Broom at the sixteenth. My Broom is another Derby entry. War, a Man o' War $45,000 colt, a Preakness and derby candidate, was fourth. Iron Clad, by Man o' War, Derby candidate; Great Gun, an American Flag colt, and Cutter's Boot, both Derby candidates, completed the list in this field, which are pointed for the classics.

There was a large crowd again, and the racing continued formful and excellent.

The Magnifico victory made seven winners for Robertson at the meeting. This keeps him far out in front.

Repeating his great riding act of two days ago, Arthur (Slim) Robertson, Maryland's ranking jockey, again rode three winners today only to have his sensational exhibition of horsemanship stopped temporarily by the stewards.

Robertson was aboard Joseph E. Widener's maiden 3-year-old filly, Amelia, Mrs. J. M. Black's Fervid and C. V. Whitney's Magnifico, but drew a three-day suspension for rough riding on the Whitney colt.

Con Amore Captures Program Feature.

J. W. Y. Martin's Con Amore won the fourth race by a length; S. W. Labrot's Rocket Glare was second by a length and the Middleburg Stable's Sunny Lassie third. The other starters were Reproof and Lady Capulet. This race was on the program as the feature, but absorbing interest came in the third, because of the stake engagements of the participants.

Lady Capulet broke in front but Baby soon had Con Amore in front, and had no trouble keeping the daughter of High Cloud out winging. Reproof had early speed. Sunny Lassie had no excuse. The race was for fillies and mares at six furlongs and it was run in 1:12 4-5. The winner was the shortest price of the day, paying $2.90, but Rocket Glare was $10.80 for place in a five-horse field.

Widener's Amelia Wins Opener.

Fifteen started in the first race for 3-year-old maiden fillies, six being grouped in the field. J. E. Widener entered the sport here by a signal victory at the first trial, when Amelia, by Haste, a half-sister of Ladkin, led all the way, with Robertson up, winning by five lengths. The Rancocas stable's Tansy was second and Mrs. M. E. McGovern's Margaret Mc third. Yellow Flag was fourth. The second and third horses were very close at the finish, Margaret Mc making a fast closing drive.

The winner paid 7. This was the first start for the filly. Her speed was impressive, winning in 1:06 3-5, for 5½ furlongs. The public had become wise to her speed before post time and she was heavily backed.

Escoba Land Scores At $21.70 Mutuel.

Long-shot players came into their own in the 4½ furlongs of the second, when Mrs. C. E. Simmons' Escobaland, paying $21.70, with D. Meade in the irons, raced the distance in the excellent time 0:54, to whip Bad Axe, with Royal Al third.

Royal Al, under Johnny McTaggart's urging, raced to the lead at the rise of the barrier, with his eleven opponents right at his heels.

As the field left the backstretch, Bad Axe joined Royal Al and they ran as a team to the stretch turn, where Royal Al opened what appeared to be a winning lead. However, the early pacemaker chucked it up at the eighth pole, enabling Bad Axe to take command.

Hacky H. Wins Fifth By Head Margin.

G. D. Widener's Scatter caused a long delay at the gate in the fifth race and was taken from the rail to the outside. Hackey H., carrying the colors of J. P. McGovern, following the swift pace of Supreme Sweet to the stretch, took the lead and won by a head, Supreme Sweet holding the place from Little Gyp, which was third and Gerard fourth. Scatter finished, well beaten, on the rail, outrun all the way. Blimp moved up third rounding the bend, but was no longer in contention. The winner, Erickson up, paid $10.30. Supreme Sweet was $18.90 a place. Hacky H. was timed in 1:12 3-5.

Mrs. J. M. Black's filly, Fervid, won the sixth race by a nose from San Presto. Muff finished third. It was a battle at all stages after passing the first turn between Fervid, always leading, and San Presto. In the finish A. Robertson outrode Meade and again scored three winners for the day. This gives him eight for the first four days of the meeting and his nearest rival for the $500 gold watch is Meade with three. The time was 1:40 1-5. The winner paid $7.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—AMELIA, $7.00, $5.90, $4.20; TANSY, $6.70, $5.10; MARGARET MC, $19.50.

AMELIA, a good looker, showed keen speed. Robertson permitted her to step right along and quickly assuming command, the record under slight restraint until straightened out in the home stretch where she drew away into a long lead. TANSY broke fast on the extreme outside and was hustled along entire trip. Madeley never gave her a breathing spell and she was staggering at end. MARGARET MC finished gamely under punishment and would have been second in another stride. MIRAWAY weakened under pressure. YELLOW FLAG lost ground at sixteen turn.

ESCOBA LAND, followed close up with the leaders after breaking forwardly, came to the outside in the final drive and closing gamely was up in the last sixteenth. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAGNIFICO, $3.40, $2.70, $2.40; SOL GILLS, $9.30, $5.30; MY BROOM, $3.30.

MAGNIFICO, in excellent condition, was away in good style and followed in close pursuit of MY BROOM, raced to the front when ready and drew out steadily during the final furlong. SOLL GILLS, improved his position gradually under pressure, and finished in determined fashion in the stretch run. MY BROOM had good early speed, saved ground all the way and held on gamely under stiff drive. WAR, kept under urging for the entire journey, was going stoutly at the end. GREAT GUN faltered after racing forwardly in the first five furlongs. DUNSTAN weakened when put to a drive. MINE SWEEPER was never dangerous. CUTTLES BOOTS was away very slow.

CON AMORE, in hand for the first furlong, moved into the lead without effort, raced under restraint until well settled in the home stretch and was mildly shaken up to withstand ROCKET GLARE. Latter, outrun for the first half mile, went to the outside when making her bid, and finished resolutely through the final stages. SUNNY LASSIE, kept within striking distance of the leaders, came through a narrow opening entering the home stretch and finishing stoutly outstayed LADY CAPULET. Latter, under steadying restraint while following in pursuit of the pacemakers, offered a stout challenge at the final furlong pole, but she weakened thereafter. REPROOF showed a brief flash of early speed.

HACKY H., rated along in closest attendance of SUPREME SWEET, gained stoutly when put to a drive. Secured racing room next the inner rail to reach the faltering leaders, and in a game finish was up in the last sixteenth. SUPREME SWEET, rushed into a long early lead, displayed good speed and continued gamely when challenged. LITTLE GYP, dropped back rounding the turn, settled in her stride, and closed full of run nearing the end. GERARD, away slowly and forced to circle his field to reach contention, faltered after a bold effort. BLIMP went well for the first five furlongs. SCATTER, placed on the outside of the stall gates when he acted fractiously, was never able to menace the leaders.

SAN PRESTO dueled slightly at the break and was forced very wide at the first turn. Reached contention rapidly when securing racing room on the inside, challenged stoutly at the final furlong pole and just failed to get up. NURSERY RHYMES had a lot taken out of him racing GREY GULL into submission. He hung after taking the lead at furlong pole. LADY BIENVILLE, a forward contender from the start, was in close quarters on back stretch. PETER PETER was repeatedly cut off. His race was much better than chart shows. ISOSTASY hung after moving up stoutly rounding turn into home stretch.

Canada Will Scale Race Track Taxes

Toronto, April 16 (A.P.).—Taxes on Canadian race tracks are to be assessed this year according to the business they do, instead of each being charged a flat rate of $5,000 daily. All tracks in the Province of Ontario will be assessed separately, E. A. Dunlop, provincial treasurer, announced yesterday, and the daily tax will be graded down according to the business shown in last year's figures. The new plan is to receive the approval of the lieutenant governor in council within the next week.

EMMETT BUSCHER and Everett Russell are likely to face each other today as the flingers in the opening game of the annual high school series, bringing together Tech and Central, ancient rivals, on Eastern Field at 3:30 o'clock.

It is an effort on the part of both coaches to get the jump on the rest of the schools by inserting the best possible pitching talent to turn the trick. Buscher, a young 16-year-old giant, and cousin to the Buschers, of Western High, will be on a high school mound for the first time. He attended Tech last year, but did not play. His work in sandlot baseball won him a great reputation last summer.

Russell, who showed up well in the Hyattsville game, was given the assignment to pitch last night by Coach Edwards, after turning in another good exhibition in a Tech practice. There is a slight chance, however, that Batson will open activities for Tech, but Russell is likely to carry the heaviest portion of the game.

Mt. St. Joseph Pitcher Fans 17 G. U. Preps

Long-limbed Dick Huesman, Mount St. Joseph pitcher, struck out seventeen batters yesterday to send Georgetown Prep down to a 16-4 defeat in the opening game of the season for the Garrett Parkers. And between his strikeout streak, the Mounts belted the ball to the tune of fifteen hits and were aided by five passes off McNamara, seven errors on the part of his teammates.

The Mounts jumped into a 4-run lead in the first inning and came back to score three more in the second. Georgetown Prep put a runner across the plate in their section of the plate, but could do nothing with Huesman until the fifth, when they engineered another run.

It was a free-hitting game, with three home runs enlivening matters. Two of these went to the Prepmen, in the persons of McNamara and Heekin. McNamara, although he received the station of "losing pitcher," turned in a good exhibition. It was his first high school ball game.

seventh. With the count two strikes and two balls, Cochrane yelled "strike" and tossed the ball to Dykes. This, of course, was an effort to influence Umpire Campbell's decision, but it didn't work. The arbiter called Spencer, who was heading for the bench, back to the tee and Roy then cracked out a clean single which later was turned into a run.

Shortstop Joe Boley made two brilliant stops yesterday which were not recorded in the box score. They were duplicates and each, for the time being, at least, prevented a Washington run. In the seventh, he went over back of Dykes to make a fine backhand stop of Sam Rice's tap, which went as a hit, while he did the same thing on Myer's grasser in the very next frame. Each time, these stops held Nat runners at third.

of grade A quality, the Hoyas making three errors, which, however, did no real damage. To balance these miscues Morris and King contributed brilliant stops and pegs, and Morris collaborated with Scalzi and Mooney in a fast double play.

Poole, who yielded only six hits, was the busiest fielder in the game. He had eleven chances and handled all but one properly. His mark of nine assists came within two of tying the major league record for pitchers' assists in a single game. Eight strike-outs were recorded to Devens' credit.

SHIELDS PUT OUT OF PLAY IN UPSET

Van Ryn Wins 5-Set Semifinals in North-South Tourney.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 16 (A.P.).—John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, who upset Frank X. Shields, of New York, in a five-set match, and Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, conqueror of Bryan Grant, national clay court champion, will meet tomorrow for the men's singles title of the North and South tennis tournament.

Van Ryn, a Davis Cup veteran, was ranked No. 3 in the tournament and his defeat today of the sensational Shields, seeded No. 1, was the first major upset of the men's play. The Philadelphian, after losing the first two sets through his own wildness, settled down to claim the next three and the match by a score of 3—6, 4—6, 6—1, 6—1, 6—3.

Sutter, the intercollegiate champion, made short work of Grant, an Atlanta boy and old Southern rival. The score was 6—1, 6—0, 6—1. Although Sutter was ranked No. 2 and Grant 4 in the tournament seedings, the crushing defeat of the Atlanta boy came as a surprise.

Grant Often Winner Over Sutter.

Grant, a sophomore at the University of North Carolina, has met Sutter often and has beaten him more frequently than he has lost. Last year Grant trimmed Sutter for the Southern title.

The women's singles finals will bring together Mrs. Van Ryn and Mrs. Marian Jessup, of Wilmington, Del. Mrs. Van Ryn advanced to the finals by defeating Marjorie Sachs, of Boston, 6—4, 6—4, while Mrs. Jessup defeated Virginia Rice, Boston, 10—8, 7—5, in the other semifinal.

Van Ryn and Shields, after their singles match, teamed to whip Grant and Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., the national junior champion, in the semifinals of the men's doubles. The score was 6—4, 6—4, 6—2.

William and Mary Beats Bridgewater, 2-1

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., April 16.—William and Mary nosed out Bridgewater College, 2 to 1, today to register its sixth straight victory. Sundin and Moyers staged a brilliant hurling duel. Sundlin limited Bridgewater to four hits and fanned ten. Moyers held the heavy-hitting Indians to six hits scattered over as many innings. Bill Scott played a part in both William and Mary runs. His fly scored Mozeleski in the first and his triple was converted into what proved to be the winning run in the fourth when Pifer dropped a throw at the plate. Bridgewater tallied in the first on a pass to Capt. Shull, a sacrifice and Huffman's single.

Fishburne Cadets Win, 15-1; Short Breaks Leg

Special to The Washington Post.

Front Royal, Va., April 16.—Fishburne Military School defeated Randolph-Macon Academy today by the score of 15 to 1. The victory was costly, as Short, star catcher, snapped two bones just above his right ankle in attempting to check a slide into second base. Houff and Crawford were the leading batters. Brenahan pitched steady ball, allowing only three scratch hits.

Maryland-American Open Tennis Campaign

American and Maryland Universities open their tennis campaigns this afternoon at College Park in a match consisting of six singles and three doubles.

Both schools have had little preseason practice. The American lineup will be chosen from Warren Collison, John Williams, Gladstone Williams, Bob Fuchs, Joe Tarsus, Bruce Quigley and John Woods. Maryland will select from William Roberts, John Bischoff, Simon Duckman, Sidney Silverman, Irving Freeman, Maurice Goubeau, Charles Briddell and Richard Dement.

Five new courts have been laid out at American University and will be used in competition for the first time on May 1 when the Methodists meet Loyola.

MARYLAND U. FROSH BEAT BUSINESS

Davidson and Ruble Check Stenogs to Win, 8-4.

BEHIND the steady pitching of Ray Davidson, Maryland freshman southpaw hurler, the Old Liners won their second game in as many starts here this afternoon, 8 to 4, from Business High of Washington.

Davidson hurled the first six innings, allowing three scattered bingles, fanning five and passing three. Business could not score during his tenure on the mound, only two men reaching second base and none getting as far as third.

Meanwhile the Old Liners were combing the delivery of Garner, who relieved Silverman in the third, for seven runs as the result of six timely blows, four walks, an error, sacrifice and passed ball. They added another off Duryee in the seventh on a single and two errors.

Ruble Effective But Wild.

Ruble took the mound for Maryland in the seventh, but was wild, allowing one single, two walks and hitting a batter. These, together with a passed ball and an error, gave the visitors two runs, and when Jacobson singled off Physioc, who relieved Ruble, two more tallies counted. Buscher hurled the last inning for the Terrapins.

Maryland's game with Baltimore City College, scheduled for tomorrow here, has been postponed until next Thursday.

Track Meet Features Navy Card Tomorrow

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 16.—The opening of the track season will feature Saturday's athletic program at the Naval Academy. The Middie cinder path and field men will oppose a clever team from William and Mary College.

The meet will be a dual one, for while the Navy Plebes will contest with the Williamsburg Frosh, the events will be run off alternately.

The varsity crew will also make its debut Saturday, but will be in New York clashing with Columbia. The brush is set for 6 o'clock.

The Navy baseball team, which meets the Washington Nats tomorrow in its third game this week clashes on Saturday with Lafayette and expects to register a win. Action is set for 2:15 p. m.

Navy lacrossemen meet an easy opponent in Georgia Tech, which team though touring Maryland every spring has yet to annex a victory. The Middies in their debut last week were none too impressive though whipping Western Maryland, 10 to 0.

Varsity racquesters of the Academy will meet Harvard and the Plebe netmen will make their debut against Staunton Military Academy. The Plebe nine will also show for the first time, clashing with Mercersburg Academy, of Mercersburg, Pa.

G. U. AND MD. FACE ACTION TODAY

Hilltoppers Hosts to Villanova; Harvard at College Park.

HARVARD and Villanova will provide the opposition for local college nines this afternoon, the former meeting Maryland at College Park at 4 o'clock, and the latter engaging Georgetown on the new Hilltop field at 3 o'clock.

Maryland will be out to atone for its poor showing last Friday when it dropped a double-header to North Carolina. If Harvard does not show a better defense than it did yesterday against Georgetown, the College Park crew will succeed.

Villanova, usually represented by a strong club, is somewhat of an unknown quantity to Georgetown, which seeks its fourth victory in five starts.

Milburn or Hauver Will Pitch.

Coach Burton Shipley probably will choose either Harry Milburn or Arthur Hauver to toe the pitcher's slab for Maryland. The first named looked best of the four flingers used against North Carolina. Harvard's pitching selection is unknown except to Coach Fred Mitchell, former major league star.

Harry Noznesky, veteran lefthander and one of the best college pitchers in this vicinity, is Coach Colrick's selection for Georgetown. Noznesky has not seen action since losing his first start against Washington and Lee late last month, but he has rounded into 1930 form in the interim.

At 10 o'clock tonight the Georgetown squad will depart for New York where tomorrow New York University, a warm rival, will be met. It was N. Y. U. which snapped the Hoyas' winning streak of ten games last year.

Virginia and Tech Tie In Overtime Lacrosse

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 16.—After two extra periods, the Georgia Tech and Virginia Lacrosse Teams called off hostilities late this afternoon with the score a tie, 2 to 2.

The Virginians registered two goals in the first half, both being made by Cameron on clever passes from Smith. The Georgians were unable to score in this period, but came right back in the second half and blanked the Cavaliers and put across two goals, the first being made by Coffin and the second by Hill, three minutes before the referee's whistle ended play.

The minute and five-minute extra periods failed to change the score.

"Little" Glen to Coach Martinsburg Teams

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 16.—Marshall ("Little Sleepy") Glenn, widely known West Virginia University athlete, who completes his college course at Morgantown in June, has been named head coach of athletics at Martinsburg High School, it was announced today. Glenn's appointment becomes effective at the beginning of school in September. He will have full charge of all branches of sport.

Glenn is one of the most colorful West Virginia athletes in a decade. He was an all-around star at the university and was previously prominent in athletics at Elkins High School. His brother, Albert ("Big Sleepy") Glenn, is coach of athletics at Charleston High School. A number of other West Virginia and Pennsylvania schools bid for "Little Sleepy's" services, it is known.

At West Virginia Glenn starred in football, basket ball and track, the three sports maintained at the local high school, and last winter was coach of the freshman basket ball team. He is married and has one child.

THE MIGHTY BABE OF 1931

PURPLE NINE BEATEN BY EASTERN

Gonzaga Bows, 11-3, After G. U. Frosh Cancel Game.

THEIR scheduled contest with Georgetown University's Freshmen called off by the Hilltop authorities just two hours before the game was to be played, Eastern High's Baseball Team meted out their wrath to Gonzaga yesterday after the 1 street school team had generously culled its forces to substitute for the delinquent Hoya yearlings.

Eastern batted out an 11 to 3 decision in a game fairly well played from Smith's sensational catch in the first inning down past Bill Noonan's tremendous home run to Taylor's diving put-out for the last out in the seventh inning, the extent of the game.

Gonzaga was pretty much at the mercy of Phillips, a pitcher who has accomplished little to date for Eastern. The big flinger burned them by the comparatively diminutive Gonzagans with good speed and lively control, striking out six during his four-inning stay in the box and not allowing a Gonzaga runner to reach third.

On the other side, Eastern's players began to wield their giant bat to good effect from the start. McAboy's hit scored Kessler in the first inning, but it was in Eastern's section of the second that the team began to betoken its real strength at bat. Aided by a brace of passes, Eastern filled the bases with but one out. Purnitary came through with a whale of a single, low and hard over second base, scoring two runners. Kessler singled down the third base line to bring in another man and Toby Taylor brought in the fourth run with a clean hit between third and short.

The batting feature of the day, however, was the hero act of Bill Noonan. Relieving Phillips at the start of the fifth, Noonan sent Gonzaga down in one-two-three order and then stepped up to the bat and cleared the wire wall in deep right-center with yards to spare.

DIXIE TRACK MARKS ARE MENACED

S. Conference Meet May See Records Shattered.

BY DILLON GRAHAM

ATLANTA, Ga., April 16 (A. P.)—Record breaking performances in Southern college meets during the early spring season indicate several marks may fall at the Southern Conference track and field meet in Birmingham next month.

Two records have been bettered in the field events and several have been approached quelkers, of Tulane who set the present mark of 45 feet 9 1-2 inches in the shot put in 1929, tossed the shot 47 feet 3 inches in a recent engagement between Tulane and Auburn.

In the second event, Coleman of Auburn, hurled the discus 138 feet 7 inches, exceeding the record of 136 feet six 1-4 inches set in 1928 by Lund of Virginia Polytechnic. Coleman won the event in 1930 with a throw of 129 feet 2 1-2 inches.

This broad-shouldered athlete also is a threat in the shotput. He placed third in the 1930 conference meet with a throw of 41 feet 1 1-2 inches.

Two Auburn Threats In High Jump.

Stewart and Stacey, both of Auburn, stand out as real contenders in the high jump. Each has leaped six feet 1 5-8 inches this year. Just one-eighth of an inch below the record made in 1928 by Jack McDowell of North Carolina State. Stewart won the event last year. Greenblood, Tennessee and Sandford, Georgia, also have been going well.

Coach Wilbur Hutsell, starting his tenth season at Auburn, also has a javelin thrower who may topple the mark of 193 feet 3 inches set in 1928 by Anderson of Georgia. Robinson has thrown the spear 191 feet 11 inches this year. Graydotn, of Georgia Tech, has done 172 feet nine inches. Both marks are better than the 168 feet nine inches which won first place last year for Haynes of Tulane.

A four cornered race looms in the pole vault between Ruble and Arnold, of North Carolina, Zimmerman, of Tulane, and Reigels of Alabama. All have done better than 12 feet 4 inches. The record of 13 feet 3 inches seems safe.

Cobb Seeks Reconciliation But Will Not Contest Suit

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 16 (U.P.).—Ty Cobb, famous former baseball star, rushing homeward from the Pacific Coast, paused to telephone a friend here tonight that he will not contest his wife's suit for divorce filed yesterday but hopes to effect reconciliation before the case comes to trial.

"On previous occasions when his wife has threatened similar action, Cobb has been able to induce her to refrain from divorce proceedings," the friend, who asked that his identity be not revealed, said, "and he feels confident he will be able to have her withdraw the present suit upon his return."

It is known, however, that Mrs. Cobb is determined to carry her petition through the courts and obtain a divorce. She hopes, her friends say, that her husband will permit a divorce without contest so that "dirt" may not be dragged into the limelight.

Judge Henry C. Hammond declared that if there is any contest Mr. Cobb will reveal all complaints without reserve in order to win freedom.

"If Ty Cobb wants to make any assertions tending to try this case in the newspapers, that is his prerogative; Mrs. Cobb will try her case in court," he said. "The opinions of the world outside Augusta mean absolutely nothing to her. She has been an ideal wife and mother, and the only persons whose opinions she values, outside her own children, are her little circle of friends here.

"They know what she has suffered and are entirely in sympathy with her. It was for that reason, to avoid publicity, that I deliberately prepared the petition in such manner that it can be criticized on the grounds of incompleteness."

Yesterday Mrs. Cobb asked absolute divorce on grounds of "cruel treatment," custody of four minor children and permanent alimony. The Cobbs married here in 1908.

TECH BEATEN ON TRACK, 74 TO 53

Episcopal Takes 9 Firsts; Reichman Dash Star.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 16.—Episcopal High's able-bodied track team sent its second Washington high school aggregation down to defeat here this afternoon by giving Tech a 74-53 lacing. The Virginians took nine first places out of fourteen events, nine seconds and seven thirds. Tech's pointage, in the flat races, as expected, came mostly from Al Reichman, who sailed in first in the half-mile and ran his opponent into the ground in the last section of the relay.

Episcopal was off to an early and never-headed lead, as Du Pont showed the way home to the sprinters in both the century and the 220-yard events. Mason backed him up well by taking the 440-yard gallop, and Shirley put his team far ahead by copping the 100-yard hurdles.

Unlike Eastern, who gave the Virginians a terrific battle before succumbing last week, Tech was unable to all but even matters in the field events. Mitchell won the first event of this section by heaving the discus 115 feet 8½ inches, and McDonald had things pretty much his own way in both the pole vault and the broad jump, although he shared his first place in that event with Shirley.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

RAY PALLBEARERS HEADED BY RITCHIE

Funeral of Late Clerk of Montgomery Court Set for This Afternoon.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland heads the list of honorary pallbearers for the funeral of Preston B. Ray, clerk of the Montgomery County Circuit Court, at Rockville, which will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Ray residence in Rockville. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery, Washington.

The Rev. Millard F. Minnick, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Rockville, will conduct the services, assisted by the Rev. Clifton K. Ray, pastor of the Greene Memorial Methodist Church, Roanoke, Va., a cousin of Mr. Ray.

Other honorary pallbearers will be Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Associate Judges Robert B. Peter and Arthur D. Willard, of the circuit court; Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic leader; State Senator Robert G. Hilton, Lacy Shaw, president of the Montgomery County Commissioners; Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, former president of the board of commissioners; Dr. William T. Pratt, county health officer; Arthur Peter and Andrew J. "Cy" Cummings.

Active pallbearers will be Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners; Alton Bell, deputy clerk to the commissioners; Clayton K. Watkins, chief deputy clerk of the circuit court; Richard L. Waters, Charles W. Ray, John Ray, Frederick Ray and Enos C. Keys, the latter four being first cousins of Mr. Ray.

The funeral will be attended by practically all of the official life of Montgomery County and many prominent men of Maryland as well as by the citizenry of the county, to whom he had given sixteen years of such service as clerk of the court that they reelected him in the last election by the largest vote ever given a candidate in the county.

The Montgomery County Bar Association met yesterday and arranged to attend the funeral in a body. William F. Prettyman, president, appointed a committee to prepare commemorative resolutions for presentation at the next term of court. The personnel of this committee indicates the high regard in which Mr. Ray was held without regard to political affiliation. It includes State's Attorney Stedman, Democratic organization supporter; Albert M. Bouic, a leader of the Progressive Democratic faction, and Thomas M. Anderson, who was Republican candidate for State senator in the last campaign.

The courthouse at Rockville was closed yesterday and will be closed today in respect for the memory of Mr. Ray. Other county offices in the courthouse and county will be closed for the funeral this afternoon.

Mr. Ray's death Wednesday night was a profound shock to his legion of friends in the county and Washington. He was found unconscious in the kitchen of his home at Rockville with one burner of the gas stove turned on. A coffee pot and burnt match gave mute testimony that he had been preparing his usual cup of coffee when he was stricken with a heart attack. The Kensington Rescue Squad and the Washington Rescue Squad worked over him for several hours in a vain attempt to save his life. Drs. Dexter M. Bullard and Gilbert V. Hartley took charge of the efforts of the rescue squads.

The committee representing the six Chambers of Commerce of Montgomery County in the preparation of a booklet which will extol the merits of Montgomery County, both as a residential and as a business community, will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the County Building at Bethesda to complete its organization.

A special subcommittee has prepared an outline of organization of a general committee, probably to be known as the Greater Montgomery County Committee, which will function much in the manner of the Greater Washington Committee in keeping before the public eye the advantages of Montgomery County. This committee will have charge of the publication of the booklet.

The committee will have a chairman and three vice chairmen, each representing a section of the county. One will represent the Rockville and rural section of the county and the other two will represent the eastern and western suburban areas.

Special subcommittees will be appointed to care for the various departments to be described. Walter Funderburk, of Rockville, is chairman of the general committee.

A series of meeting to be held in the fall at which papers dealing with historical developments of the Democratic party will be read is being planned by the Woman's Democratic Club of Montgomery County, it was decided at a meeting of the executive board held in the County Building at Bethesda.

Papers on the following subjects will be prepared and read by the members named: "Genesis of the Democratic Party," Mrs. Marvin Farrington; "Andrew Jackson and His Administration," Miss Ruth Shoemaker, who is president of the club; "Cleveland's Administration," Mrs. John McKay; "Wilson's Administration," Mrs. Ernest Offutt; "Major Problems of the Hour," Mrs. F. Paul Clark; "What Has the Democratic Party Done for Farmers?" Miss Gertrude Schultz; "What Has the Democratic Party Done for Wage Earners?" Miss Lola Atwood; "Economic and Financial Policies of the Democrats," Miss Anna J. Keady; "Democratic Record on Other Legislation," Mrs. Charles Maddux and Mrs. H. H. Howlett; "The Democratic Party and the Democratic Women," Mrs. Roger Shaw.

Mrs. Edwin A. Merritt was appointed chairman of the financial committee, which includes Mrs. Charles Roach, Mrs. Joseph C. Cissel, Miss Laura Gilliland, Mrs. Walter Perry and Miss Naomi Bogley. Miss Jean Skinner, chairman of the committee in charge of a recent dance, reported a profit of about $30. The spring meeting was dispensed with, the first regular meeting to be held in the fall.

Kenwood's cherry trees have bloomed, causing great rejoicing in the community. It was feared that they would be injured by last summer's drought. The town authorities last summer had water carted from the Potomac River in tank wagons to water the trees, but it was feared that this would not be sufficient, but the bursting blooms have set at ease the worries of the town.

Ticer Elected Alexandria Mayor by Lone Councilman

Herbert Is Named Vice Mayor by "Unanimous" Vote of Only Other Member After Two Resignations Are Accepted.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU, 907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. Phone Alexandria, 933.

City Councilman Edmund F. Ticer was chosen mayor, and Councilman Arthur Herbert vice mayor, yesterday by the "unanimous vote" of one member of council. This unusual and peculiar vote arose from the fact that the council, at the time of the vote, consisted of only three members—Ticer, Herbert and Clyde C. Lamond.

Mr. Ticer was placed in nomination by Mr. Herbert, seconded by Lamond. Since Mr. Ticer was occupying the chair, he requested Mr. Herbert to assume the chair and call for a vote, and since Ticer Ticer did not vote for himself, and Herbert, as presiding officer, did not vote, Lamond cast the only and deciding vote for Ticer, who was therefore "unanimously" elected.

Mr. Lamond then nominated Mr. Herbert for vice mayor. Mr. Ticer, since Mr. Herbert could not well second his own nomination, vacated the chair and seconded the nomination, then resumed the chair and called for the vote, and Mr. Lamond again cast the only vote possible and Mr. Herbert was "unanimously" elected.

Preceding the election of officers, the resignations of Mayor Carroll Pierce and Councilman Thomas J. Fannon were read and accepted by the council. After the election of mayor and vice mayor it was decided to fill only one of the vacancies, and Councilman Herbert nominated Michael T. Dwyer, vetrean newspaperman, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Fannon. Mr. Dwyer was sworn in immediately by Judge William P. Woolls, of the Corporatino Court. The vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Pierce will be filled at a later meeting, but Mayor Ticer stated yesterday that owing to the short time elapsing since the resignation of the former mayor was received the council had been unable to give consideration to a successor.

Asks Flag Sale Permit.

F. Clinton Knight appeared before the council and requested permission for the American Legion post to sell and install flags, to be placed at the curb, stating that the legion depended upon this sale to obtain funds for the entertainment of the State legion convention in 1932, and that this would be an aid to merchants and others in decorating during the bicentennial celebration next year. The permission sought was granted.

Mr. Knight also brought up the question of the sale of fireworks, regarding which there has been some discussion, there being some disposition to ban the sale and use of explosives on July 4. Mr. Knight stated the legion had depended almost entirely upon this annual sale to secure funds for paying the interest on the mortgage on Gadsby's Tavern, the legion home. The matter was taken under consideration.

The financial report of the city for March showed a cash balance on hand March 1 of $9,697.65, with total receipts of $77,288.98. The budget expenditures for the month were $58,732.60, other disbursements not estimated in the budget, $1,963.27, or total disbursements of $60,695.87, giving a cash balance on hand April 1 of $16,593.11.

Proposed Ordinance Offered.

An ordinance was introduced appropriating $30,000 for the purpose of utilizing the surface material to be removed from Washington street by the Government incidental to reconstruction of that street as a part of the Mount Vernon Memorial boulevard for surfacing approximately 4¾ miles of streets. The total estimated cost of the removal and transportation of the material was $36,000, but the city manager stated he expected to take care of $6,000 of this amount from the street maintenance fund carried in the current budget. The proposed ordinance was received and taken under consideration.

In connection with the proposed appropriation Mayor Ticer stated that this is the most important street improvement the council has been called upon to consider for some time; that the city now has an opportunity to salvage a large amount of valuable material; that it is desirable to utilize this material as fast as it is removed, thereby lessening the handling expense. He feels that the city street forces are sufficient to handle the matter, but in case they are not he suggested that there are several contractors in this vicinity equipped to handle such work, and that it would be economical to employ them if found necessary, thus obviating the necessity of storing the material, with consequent expensive rehandling.

An application of Mrs. George W. Rhine for a permit to operate a dining room and tea room at 619 South Lee street was granted.

An ordinance appropriating $1,200 for construction of a sanitary sewer in Fairfax street, from Franklin to Jefferson street, and in Jefferson street west of Fairfax for a distance of approximately 200 feet, was introduced and held over under the rules.

Permit Sought for Sign.

A request of the Natoli Electric Corporation for permit to erect a sign on the company's property at Washington and Gibbon streets, disapproved by the oninx commission, was held over to permit the city attorney to look into the law on the subject, it appearing that there is an agreement with the government not to permit such signs within 200 feet of he highway.

The following applications were approved:

William Recker & Sons, for a permit to erect a porch on the property at 1126 Prince street.

Mutual Ice Co. for permit to open a refrigerator sales store at 1129 King street.

Sam Chin and Lun Moy for a permit to open a Chinese-American restaurant at 605 King street.

Mayor Ticer presented the annual report of the operations of the City of Alexandria for 1930, and suggested that it be printed as information to the public, which suggestion was approved.

Several features of the report were stressed by the mayor, among which were the total receipts from all sources in 1930 of $2,491,790.66, with disbursements of $2,506,406.01. There was a cash balance at the beginning of the year of $43,879.80, and at the end of the year the balance was $29,264.25.

Tells of City Department.

Mayor Ticer, replying to criticism that the city debt had increased since 1922, when the present form of government became effective, pointed out that the debt in 1922 was $1,127,500; at the end of 1930, $2,423,400, and today is $2,105,900, showing that the city council has paid a part of the indebtedness in the current year. The trustees of the special fund received from sale of the city gas plant have purchased bonds in the amount of $320,500 and still have on hand $335,750 to apply on the city debt, of which $145,000 has been invested in securities, while the cash on hand from this fund is $109,000. The amount in the sinking fund is $18,221.50. He also called attention to the fact that the tax rate on real property now is $2.40, compared with $2.50 per $100 in 1922 and in 1930.

The largest single item of city expense, he said, was the recent annexation of a portion of Arlington and Fairfax Counties, $750,000, of which $500,000 was paid to Arlington County, $37,000 to Fairfax County, and $190,000 for permanent improvements and fire apparatus.

Considerable sums, he said, were spent on schools. There was a bond issue of $295,000 in 1923, of which $100,000 was paid for the Jefferson School and grounds. In 1926 there was a bond issue of $150,000 for street improvements and in 1927 an issue of $225,000, of which $60,000 was for the Maury School and grounds and the balance for permanent public improvements. The city inherited from the town of Potomac at the time of annexation a bond issue of $99,999 which had to be assumed. The public debt, therefore, has been increased by $1,519,000, so that there is now outstanding $2,105,900 of indebtedness.

Per Capita Cost Held Small.

He also called attention to the fact that the cost per capita to Alexandrians for the public debt is only $4.58, while, according to the figures published by the State for the previous year, of 22 cities and towns in Virginia the median rate was $19.44 per capita. The per capita expenditure for schools in Alexandria, from all sources of revenue, including State funds, was $9.17, as against the average for the State of $7.86.

The per capita cost of the total cost of government for 1930 was $57.75, made up of these items: General government, $4.87; protection to persons and property, $4.11; conservation of health, 60 cents; sanitation, $1.42; streets, $2.26; charities, hospitals and corrections, 92 cents; recreation, 26 cents; city debt, $4.58; miscellaneous, 33 cents; public service enterprises, $3.12; education funds, $9.17, and from capital funds, $26.11.

The assessed values as shown by this annual report are: Real estate, $14,300,308; tangible personal property, $1,294,558; personal service corporations, $1,227,719, and machinery and tools, $1,658,564, or a total of $18,480,948.

The trees bloomed for the first time last year.

Theft of an old ring, two antique necklaces, and two dresses, valued at approximately $100, at an undetermined hour Wednesday night from the home of Mrs. S. Clemence, at 220 Willow avenue, Takoma, Park, Md., was reported yesterday to County Policeman Theodore Raines, of Takoma Park.

Mrs. Clemence said that entry was gained through an unlocked side window in the house.

The funeral of Miss Eva Cowling, who died Wednesday, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from Christ Protestant Episcopal Church, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Berryman Green, of the Episcopal Theological Seminary. Burial will be in Ivy Hill Cemetery.

The annual inspection of the high school cadet corps will be made today by Lieut. Col. Ralph H. Leavitt, R. O. T. C. officer for the Third Corps Area. The Alexandria High School corps will be inspected at noon, and George Mason at 1:30 o'clock.

STATEMENT OF OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, &C., OF THE ONIONVILLE COURIER-BEACON

Required by the Act of Congress of August 24, 1912, of THE ONIONVILLE COURIER-BEACON, published daily at Onionville, Missouri. For April, 1931.

STATE of Missouri,
County of Blodgett, ss:

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and County aforesaid, personally and to-wit appeared Luke Hostetters, who having been duly sworn according to law, deposes, says, contends, alleges and avers that he is secretary of the Onionville Courier-Beacon (unless there has been a merger in his absence), and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge, belief, information and haunch, a true statement of the ownership, management, circulation, general situation, idiosyncrasies, &c., of the aforesaid publication:

That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, city editor, radio editor, society editor, janitor, cashier, head telephone operator, bouncer, complaint receiver and utility outfielders are:

Publisher: Luke Hostetters, 23 Whippoorwill Lane.
Editor: Luke Hostetters, 23 Whippoorwill Lane.
Managing Editor: Luke Hostetters, 23 Whippoorwill Lane.
Business Manager: See above.

(Note: Mr. Hostetters further deposes and says, in case there is anybody curious enough to read these statements, that he is also star reporter, foreign correspondent, dramatic critic, advertising solicitor, art editor, automobile editor, cinema editor, fireman and engineer. He also helps out in the sports department when the sporting editor is drunk or otherwise indisposed, and he writes most of the financial items, social news, business data and How to Keep Well Column.)

HE further says, deposes and contends that he sets type, mails out the bills, solicits classified ads, helps deliver papers, settles all fights with readers, and, last spring, personally laid a new pine floor in the business office.

That the owners and their names and addresses are:

Luke Hostetters.
Mrs. Luke Hostetters.
Uncle Lew Whaples.
Col. Steve Puddicombe.

(Note: Luke Hostetters started the paper and got his wife, his uncle and Col. Puddicombe to put in some money. Uncle Lew Whaples hasn't spoken to the family since. Col. Puddicombe, who used to run the bank and livery stable, was the heaviest backer, as he was accosted on the proposition when stewed. Business is rotten and no dividends have been paid. Mrs. Hostetters gets tickets to most of the lectures and picture houses. Uncle Lew is given seats to the best shows. Col. Puddicombe always gets seats to the circus for his entire family, which includes seven boys. He is also allowed to use the room marked "Foreign Editor," for poker, pinochle and cribbage games.)

Mr. Hostetters further says and deposes that there are no stockholders who do not appear, and has no reason to believe or suspect that any other person, corporation or association is interested or would be interested on a bet.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 15th day of April, 1931.

HEMINGWAY PROUT,
(Seal.) Notary Public.

(My commission—and I'm glad you reminded me—expires March 30, 1932, around noon.)

MORE STUFF FOR INVESTIGATIONS.

HOW about a probe into the oyster cocktail racket? There must be one. Five oysters, a little chipped ice, a piece of lemon and a small glass of catsup couldn't run into 45 cents without some big splitups somewhere.

And, incidentally, wouldn't an inquiry prove that the stuff served in most restaurants as clam chowder constitutes a crime?

Jack Dempsey is in Reno for a divorce. This proves he was sincere when he said he was through with the fight game.

Elmer Twitchell says: "Business has turned the corner, but it's found it to be one of those streets marked 'Quiet Zone.'"

An ideal subject for the slow motion picture people would seem to be the reopening of a suspended bank.

VIRGINIA TO PUBLISH RURAL LIFE LEAFLET

Polytechnic Institute Will Cooperate With Churches in Pamphlet.

Blacksburg, Va., April 16 (A.P.).—Material to assist ministers in preparing for Rural Life Day, May 10, is included in a pamphlet entitled "Forward Steps for Rural Churches." It will be issued as the April bulletin of Virginia Polytechnic Institute through a cooperative arrangement with the Virginia Rural Church Conference Board. Dr. W. E. Garnett, professor of rural sociology at V. P. I., is editing the publication.

In order to provide rural ministers with material for observance of May 10, results of various studies which deal with problems of the rural community have been included. Extracts from the report of the commission to study conditions of farmers of Virginia are included. Problems faced by the rural church as revealed by a survey conducted by C. H. Hamilton, assistant rural sociologist at V. P. I., are detailed.

The children's charter as formulated at the White House conference is included. Miss Maude E. Wallace, State home demonstration agent, has written a chapter on "Better Homes." Methods to be used by ministers in making Rural Life Day successful are suggested.

As evidence that Rural Life Day is a national movement, a letter from Secretary Hyde is published. A copy of the proclamation issued by Gov. Pollard setting forth advantages of having an annual Rural Life Day appears. A foreword outlining importance of rural churches in advancing rural conditions has been contributed by Dr. Julian A. Burruss, president of V. P. I.

In addition to material stressing importance of Rural Day, the bulletin contains several abstracts of speeches by prominent ministers and social workers at the first annual school for rural ministers at V. P. I. last July. A similar school will be held this year.

The bulletin will include a picture of ministers who attended the short course last summer and several charts and tables. The bureau of public information at V. P. I. is distributing the pamphlets.

Car Falls in River; 2 Women Drowned

Driver Saves Himself, but Wife and Sister-in-Law Lose Their Lives.

Elizabeth City, N. C., April 16 (A.P.).—Julian J. Jessup today backed his automobile in the Perquimans River near his home at Hertford and his wife and sister-in-law, Sallie McMullan, drowned. Jessup managed to free himself as the car plunged into the river, but despite his frantic efforts he was unable to save the two women.

Forty-five minutes elapsed before the automobile with the women in it could be pulled from the water. An inhalator was rushed from Elizabeth City, but hours of work with it failed to revive them.

The McMullan home is close to the approach to the highway bridge across the river. Jessup was turning the car around there when it got out of control and ran backward into the river.

Mount Jackson Mill Burns.

Harrisonburg, Va., April 16 (Special).—The C. J. Hottel mill at Mount Jackson, with 250 bushels of wheat, 300 barrels of flour, 50 bushels of corn, 100 bushels of barley, was destroyed by fire early this morning. Mr. Hottel, who lived in two rooms in the mill building, had a narrow escape, getting out of the building only partially dressed. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

RAIL TAX EXEMPTION BILL VETO IS SOUGHT

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 16.—Municipal authorities of Annapolis, officials of Anne Arundel County, representatives of Annapolis Chamber of Commerce and other local organizations today appealed to Gov. Albert C. Ritchie to veto the bill passed on the final day of the late session of the General Assembly granting to the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad Co. exemption from taxation for two years.

The road is now in receivership and its officials sought the exemption as a means of helping to get things back to an even balance.

The issue, with a hearing given soon afterward to representatives of the Lord's Day Alliance in opposition to the two pending bills designed to abrogate Sunday blue laws, carried the governor through a busy day.

The governor, at the outset of the first hearing, directed attention to the fact that three other railroads are in practically the same status as the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis, having been granted certain exemptions by legislative acts, but since the question of the electric line presented the most important issue, arguments on that bill were first. The governor suggested that the decision as to the W. B. & A. would have the same effect as to the others.

George Weems Williams, attorney, appointed receiver, is now directing operation of the road, traced the history of the railroad and referred to previous instances where it had been in receivership. He presented to the governor petitions signd by 9,409 persons, favoring tax exemption.

Questioned by Gov. Ritchie, Williams said he could not give the assurance that the railway would be continued even if it became tax exempt as the future of short electric lines is not held to be bright.

Man Fires on Widow And Then Takes Poison

Baltimore, Md., April 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Edith Stevens Wayson, widow of a World War veteran, was shot and wounded twice today and Henry E. Kelm, whom she accused of the shooting, took poison. Both were taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Both are 38 years old. The shooting occurred at Mrs. Wayson's home and she told officers Kelm tried to force his attentions upon her. Members of Kelm's family said that for some time he had been living and working in Washington, D. C.

Wife of Musician Dons Nun's Robes

Husband of Baltimorean Became Jesuit Lay Brother Recently.

Baltimore, Md., April 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Beatrice Oswald, wife of Alfredo Oswald, Brazilian pianist, who for eight years was a member of the faculty of the Peabody Conservatory of Music, was invested with the habit of a Carmelite nun today at a ceremony believed to have few precedents.

Her husband, made a Jesuit lay brother a few weeks ago, was permitted to attend the ceremony, held in the little chapel of the Carmelite Convent.

Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Oswald, dressed as a bride and accompanied by her husband, walked from the convent entrance to the chapel. A flower girl was her only attendant.

The congregation passed a resolution thanking the Virginia State Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, for taking over the care of the historic popular tree in the church yard. This tree, approximately 200 years old, is said to be closely associated with George Washington, as it is claimed that he tied his horse to it when he came to Falls Church to attend the vestry meetings.

Sheriff E. P. Kirvy stated yesterday that Mr. and Mrs. G. E. DeLaRue, of Devonshire Gardens, have withdrawn the warrent they swore out Sunday before Justice of the Peace J. T. Molling, at Falls Church, against I. H. Presley, of Washington, which charged him with house breaking and the destruction of private property.

The Mount Vernon Grange will hold its regular meeting this evening in Sherwood Hall at Woodlawn. The local grange will make plans for entertaining the Fairfax County Pomona Grange in the Woodlawn Community House on April 28. The lecturers program this evening will be under the direction of Mrs. A. Harmon Roberts.

The women of the Columbia Baptist Church, at Falls Church, will hold a sale of food, fancy work and refreshments this afternoon from 1 until 4 o'clock in the church house, on Washington street. Mrs. R. K. Ferguson is chairman of the fancy work department she will be assisted by Mrs. H. H. Roberts, Mrs. W. H. Renn and Mrs. David R. Luttrell. Mrs. H. H.
